

Eight Men Sought In Janina Murder Plot Are Arrested

Members of Pan-Epirote Committee, Charged With Killing Italians, in Albanian Jail.

CRISIS APPROACHING IN CORFU AND FIUME

Jugo-Slavia Denies Intention of Appealing to League of Nations—Mussolini Keeps Whip Hand.

Rome, September 11.—Eight members of the Pan-Epirote committee, believed to be guilty of the Janina murders, have been arrested and placed in the Albanian jail at Janina, according to the Corfu correspondent of the "Epoch."

Italian officials have charged that the Pan-Epirote committee, an organization of Greek ex-officers, was responsible for the assassinations of Italian officials on the Greco-Albanian frontier.

Apparently the Greek government disclaims all responsibility for the men. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, a former Greek officer who is regarded here as the chief organizer of the crime, is considered certain.

Meanwhile a new crisis looms over the rupture of the Italo-Jugo-Slav negotiations on the Fiume situation.

Official action on the situation must be announced within five days when the 15-day ultimatum given Jugo-Slavia by Premier Mussolini expires.

Italy will then be free to act, and it is believed that the premier will endeavor to settle the Fiume problem effectively, and once and for all.

Jugo-Slavia desires that the question of Fiume's status be settled by a full execution of the treaty of Santa Margherita. This, however, is unsatisfactory to Italy, and in the recent Italo-Jugo-Slav negotiations the commissioners agreed that the whole question should be submitted to the president of Switzerland for arbitration in case no other agreement could be reached.

Premier Mussolini is not keen to do this, however, believing that strangers would observe the letter and not the spirit of the treaty.

If the letter of the treaty should be observed, and the Porto Barrios delta turned over to Jugo-Slavia, Fiume would be doomed to a speedy death.

While sharp action is possible, the press denies that Premier Mussolini is contemplating a naval demonstration against Jugo-Slavia. The "Epoch" hints that Italy is even ready to grant a further postponement of the question due to the present internal difficulties in Jugo-Slavia.

LONDON IS NOW ANXIOUS OVER ITALY'S NEXT MOVE.

London, September 11.—There is increasing anxiety in both London and Paris as to whether Premier Mussolini of Italy intends to evacuate the island of Corfu, and also as to what action he will take in the Fiume crisis.

It is learned that the Italian ambassadors privately told the council of ambassadors that Italy would evacuate Corfu as soon as the Greek indemnity was paid.

Premier Mussolini later declared that he would quit the island when "all conditions" of the demands had been fulfilled.

Simultaneously began heavy troop concentration at Corfu, and proceeded to fortify the island. The news of the creation of a submarine base on Paxos has caused further alarm, as

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

Continued on Page 3, Column 3.

$400,000,000 GAIN MADE BY FARMERS AS COTTON RISES

Condition Almost Amounting to Stampede Caused by 10,750,000 Estimate by Washington.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—Improved business conditions and an estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Underwood Voted Right To Select His Delegation

Bill Will Become Effective With Signature of the Governor.

Montgomery, Ala., September 11.—

Passage of the bill allowing Alabama's presidential candidate to appoint the delegates to any national convention which is in session for the purpose of selecting the presidential nominee, featured this afternoon's session of the Alabama legislature.

The bill passed by the senate will become a law with the governor's signature. Under its provisions Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, would be allowed to select the delegates to the national democratic convention, members of the assembly point out.

The double primary measure passed the senate this afternoon, also, by a 20 to 13 vote.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, September 11.—The cotton market today is in a state of excitement, the result of the estimate from Washington, placing this year's probable cotton crop at only 10,750,000 bales, have caused a condition which amounts almost to a stampede among cotton users both here and abroad, the New York cotton exchange announced today.

The demand in futures has been so great, the statement said, that the facilities of the exchange have been taxed to the utmost and clerks have been working nights in an unsuccessful endeavor to keep the books up to date.

Six weeks ago cotton for October delivery sold at 20 3/4c on the New York cotton exchange. Today it closed at 28c. This advance is equal to more than $35 a bale, and is equivalent to an increased return to the cotton planter in the south of about $400,000,000 the statement said.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

STRUCK BY TRAIN, J. T. BELL DIES; 10 HURT TUESDAY

Collision of Street Car and Train Causes Injury to Five Trolley Passengers.

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Morris Carnel, 18; Motorman M. E. Daniels and Two Negroes Are Seriously Hurt.

One dead, five seriously injured and five slightly hurt, was the toll of accidents in Atlanta Tuesday.

The lone death came when J. T. Bell, of Kennedy street, succumbed Tuesday morning to injuries received when he was struck by a Southern railroad train at the Johns street crossing Saturday. In addition to having his left leg crushed, Bell suffered internal injuries, physicians at Grady hospital stated.

Two of the ten people injured in accidents during the day were hurt by motorcycles, five figured in a collision between a street car and a locomotive, and the other three, including an aged man, were struck down by automobiles.

Those hurt by motorcycles are Raymond Crowley, 18, of 60 LaFrance street, and Morris Carnel, 18, of 231 Central avenue. Carnel's injuries are serious.

The five injured in the collision between the locomotive and street car are Motorman M. E. Daniels, 302 Lakewood avenue, seriously hurt; Mrs. J. P. Murphy, East Point; conductor C. C. Mote and two negro passengers, Buddie Allen and his wife, seriously hurt.

Collide Head On.

Carnel's injuries were the result of a head-on collision between the motorcycle he was riding and an automobile said to have been driven by E. C. Redwine, address not given. The accident occurred in the Fairburn road near Red Oak. Surgeons fear he is hurt internally, besides having badly mangled arms and legs.

Crowley, who was able to leave for home after his injuries were dressed, was injured as he attempted to make a sharp turn into C-burne avenue from Highland avenue, the handles of the machine becoming locked, it is said.

Motorman in Hospital.

Motorman Daniels, operating the street car that was struck by a locomotive near Hapeville, is in the Atlanta hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. Murray was able to go home after treatment at the hospital. Conductor Mote sustained minor bruises and cuts, while the negro man and his wife were reported to have several broken ribs.

Officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company started an investigation immediately after the accident with the view of fixing responsibility.

Aged Man Knocked Down.

W. J. Perkins, 26, of 213 Stewart avenue, is being held in the Decatur jail as the result of an accident in Clarkston Tuesday, when T. H. Wheeler, 71, was run over and badly injured about the neck by a truck, said to have been driven by Perkins. Wheeler, who is the station agent at Clarkston, was reported Tuesday night to be suffering from severe contusions.

Woman Loses Control.

H. R. Lee, of Ingleside, and N. I. Yates, 510 1-2 Peachtree street, were hurt Tuesday in automobile accidents. Neither is believed to have been seriously hurt.

Lee was injured by the machine driven by his neighbor, Mrs. M. C. Crapp, who is reported to have lost control of the machine as she drove from her yard into the street.

Yates was knocked down by a motor truck driven by an unidentified negro, who, it is claimed, abandoned the machine about three blocks from the scene of the accident and escaped. The accident occurred at Tenth and Peachtree streets.

Drop Name of Flier.

Vernon Castle No Longer Honored in Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11. Overriding protests, which have come from all parts of the nation, especially from patriotic organizations, the city commission this morning granted permission to property owners of Vernon Castle boulevard to change the name of the thoroughfare, dropping the name of Vernon Castle.

The petitioners declared that the name was too long, but it was intimated that it was changed because of the actions of Mrs. Irene Castle Treman. The street was named after the famous flier shortly after he plunged to his death while flying at the Ben Brook field near here during the world war.

Young Girl Is Fined For Smoking on Ferry.

New York, September 11.—Jean Albright, a young miss of 18 today paid a $2 fine, for puffing a cigarette on a part of a Staten Island Ferry boat where smoking is prohibited. She was said to be the first woman ever prosecuted in this city for smoking.

TIGER PAYS $500 TO WIFE OF MAN HE SOLD LIQUOR

Shenandoah, Ia., September 11.—Mrs. Nina Baldwin has been given $500 because her husband of a few months was sent to jail. Baldwin was convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated, and his bride sued Ferrel Patton, alleged to have sold him the moonshine. Patton settled out of court.

FUNERAL PYRES BURN IN JAPAN DAY AND NIGHT

Ghastly Task of Disposing of Earthquake Victims in Stricken Land Will Take Long Time.

Tokio, Sept. 11.—The ghastly task of disposing of Japan's dead is under way.

It will be the work of many more days.

Burial is out of the question, and cremation will continue for a considerable time.

The work of burning the bodies in huge funeral pyres started last Thursday, day and night it continues.

Corpses Floating In.

The corpses come floating into the harbors, both of the Bay of Tokio and at Yokohama, and are picked up by members of the army of survivors who are all engaged in rehabilitation work, carried to the huge pyres on the shore and there burned.

Countless other bodies are taken from the wreckage and similarly disposed of.

Every river and canal in the devastated area is dotted with floating corpses.

The United News correspondent saw thousands of dead in one small area.

The imperial family has ordered the wonderful, ancient forests of pine and other woods in the imperial preserves cut. The timber is to be used for reconstruction and for building emergency shelters for the people.

Much sentiment among the people centered around these ancient trees and the action of the imperial family has touched deeply the masses.

At Seaside Resorts.

It has been learned that all Latin-American diplomats and their families were at the seaside resorts when the disaster visited Japan and that they were all saved, although they went through many harrowing experiences.

A party of foreigners at the Miyakojima hotel, in the Hattori mountains, has been rescued after being marooned for five days in the hotel. Landslides left the hotel standing high in the air with an abrupt precipice on either side. A party sent from Tokio effected the rescue.

Foreigners are loudly praising the morale of the Japanese, and the Japanese are expressing deepest gratitude for America's efforts toward relief.

60,000 Dead Estimated.

Washington, September 11.—The bodies of 60,000 dead had been cremated by the authorities in Tokio to midnight of September 8, the Japanese minister of foreign affairs said in a telegram received here today at the Japanese embassy.

The number of bodies still uncremated is probably very great, it was added.

The casualties at Yokohama were estimated at 110,000, or one-quarter of the entire population, and many of the dead were said to be unaccounted for in outlying districts.

An official investigation, it was said, shows that in Yokohama, 3,000 foreign residents, 100 were killed, including 50 British and 20 Americans.

Aid for Sufferers.

Manila, Sept. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The transport Meigs sailed from Manila today with more than a million dollars' worth of supplies for earthquake sufferers.

The cargo included $800,000 worth of medical supplies sufficient for a population of 150,000 for two months, besides supplies of rice to last a city the size of Manila for a month; 200,000 pounds of beans, the same amount of beans and flour and bakery equipment capable of turning out 500,000 one-pound loaves of bread daily.

Assistant Chief of Air Services Near to Death.

Moundsville, W. Va., September 11. General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the United States air service, died here today, after a long illness, at 7:10 o'clock tonight.

Private J. C. Woodruff was flying to Moundsville at Dayton, Ohio, fell into the Ohio river. Neither were injured.

General Mitchell experienced engine trouble when several miles from the Moundsville flying field and attempted to return but was unable to negotiate the distance. When directly above the Ohio river, the plane fell, diving into the water.

Train Is Burned, But Passengers Reported Safe.

Muskogee, Okla., September 11.—A St. Louis-San Francisco passenger train due at Fayetteville, Ark., from Okmulgee at 7:10 o'clock tonight went through a bridge at McBride north of Muskogee, late this afternoon, according to reports to the division office here. The bridge and most of the coaches are burning, it was said, but no passengers are believed to have lost their lives.

STATE ATTEMPTS TO PROVE DENTIST 'WHIPPING BOSS'

Five Testify at First Day's Trial in Macon Floggings—Yarbrough Object of Testimony.

CALL ATLANTA WOMAN TO TELL HER STORY

Ku Klux Klan Figures in Evidence Given—Durkee Admits Membership. Letters Are Cited.

Macon, Ga., September 11.—Evidence intended to show that Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, on trial in city court here on the charge of rioting in connection with the whipping of R. F. Mills, a chiropractor, had knowledge of letters written by persons seeking to have other persons punished for various offenses featured today's session of the trial. In one instance a state witness, an employee in Dr. Yarbrough's office, told of reading a letter in which a mother, a day or two before her son was flogged, expressed a wish that something could be done to her son.

Impersonation Charge.

Employees of the Ku Klux Klan also testified regarding letters and other matters designed to connect Dr. Yarbrough, who has been called the "whipping boss" of Macon, with the series of floggings that have been going on in Macon and Bibb county for approximately two years and, which for several weeks, had the city and county in a turmoil. It also was charged during the day's testimony that J. P. Durkee, organizer of the Ku Klux Klan in Macon, visited the prosecuting witness in the case and pretended that he was an officer sent by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick to aid in running down the men that had flogged Mills.

Atlanta Woman Witness.

When court adjourned at 6 o'clock tonight until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning five witnesses had been put on the witness stand. The state announced the names of five witnesses at the opening of the case this morning, including the names of former Governor Hardwick and Mrs. Linwood Bright, of Atlanta, while the defense announced the names of more than 100. Indications tonight were that this case, the first of seven charges against Dr. Yarbrough, would last three or four days at least. Judge Will Gunn, of the city court, this morning excused all jurors not selected for duty today until Thursday morning.

The jury selected for today's trial, besides spired by the government, that Germany is ready to conclude a private agreement with France to deliver contracts of potash, wood and coal in exchange for French ores.

The actual desire of the government is to keep German industry operating. They are prepared to make concessions to the French but as yet there are no indications that they will do anything that will enable the French to strengthen their hold on the Rhineland.

No Orders Prepared.

Sensational reports from America that passive resistance had been given up are emphatically denied by German officials. They state that no orders have been prepared.

"No complete surrender on passive resistance is intended," they declare. There has been a breakdown in passive resistance during the past few weeks, but the government realizes that it is too valuable a weapon to surrender until definite results have been gained.

The German situation is rapidly growing worse. Unemployment riots in Dresden resulted in five people being killed Tuesday. The riots continue.

Meanwhile, with increasing internal turmoil, and the threat of a Rhine republic warring the government, the crash of the mark goes on. Tuesday it touched 66,000,000 to the dollar.

Passive resistance depends on the flood of currency that has been poured into the Ruhr by Berlin. This money has gone, in huge quantities, to feed idle workers. The chaotic condition of the mark has forced Berlin to cut down these sums.

Thus the fabric of resistance has been broken. There are indications that resistance cannot be continued indefinitely under such conditions. But Berlin will not cancel the passive resistance orders until the moment she is absolutely forced to do so.

That moment may come soon.

SEPARATION OF RUHR FROM GERMANY FEARED

Duesseldorf, September 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Fear of the ultimate separation of the Ruhr and Rhineland from Germany, rather than the economic pressure wrought by the allies in the occupied territory, is the principal motive behind Germany's renewal of the discussion for an agreement with France, in the opinion of the leader of the trades unions in the Rhineland, as far as the economic phase of the struggle was concerned, he declared.

The Associated Press today the whole German population felt prepared to continue the fight for many months to come.

Despite the continued fall of the mark he was sure the people could hold out until the French became convinced that they could never make the Ruhr industries pay by exploiting them themselves.

Dread Losing Ruhr.

"But what we are beginning to fear the most," he said, "is the possibility of separating the Ruhr and Rhineland from the Reich, which undoubtedly the French can do, at least in name and temporarily, if they stay long enough."

The organization of which this laborite is the head has a membership of more than five million workers of all categories and is associated with the big heads of industry. It wields probably the strongest influence of any organization in the occupied territory.

Its spokesman said he felt that the national sentiment of the population generally was opposed to a republic and separation from the fatherland but sentiment for it was being manufactured by the occupation forces and was favored by the unhappy situation of the people.

The announcement that expelled German functionaries would be replaced by men approved by the Rhineland high commission, he said, was most alarming. He regarded it as the beginning of a plan to have machinery for a new republic already functioning as soon as it was thought advisable to proclaim it, but he thought the separatists would hesitate to decide to issue the proclamation because the opposition was strong and determined.

Republic Move Possible.

Nevertheless the labor leader believed a republic of a "hot house nature" could be nurtured into existence because of the power which the allies could give the movement. That was why in his opinion, Chancellor Stresemann had laid so much stress in his latest speeches on German sovereignty in the Ruhr and Rhineland and had gone further than former Chancellor Cuno in offering guarantees for repatriation.

There is no hiding the fact that the Ruhr population is becoming more conciliatory and is really anxious to settle the whole repatriation tangle, he concluded, adding: "They are in favor of the program of former Chancellor Wirth. Even the big industrial leaders are coming around to this viewpoint but if the question of German sovereignty over the Ruhr is involved we are still prepared to continue the fight."

Germany Admits Negotiations.

Berlin, September 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—By way of clarifying the political situation which has been greatly confused through conflicting reports of local and foreign origin, a semi-official communique issued late this afternoon admits that the government is carrying on personal conversations "with all the powers" and that Chancellor Stresemann and the French ambassador, M. de Margerie, have also personally "exchanged thoughts" on the present situation.

That such informal and non-committal pour parlers are wholly in the nature of a reconnoitering movement is further asserted in the inspired bulletin, although a section of the press believes that they have sufficiently crystallized into something tangible to warrant the French envoy dispatching an official of his staff to Paris for the purpose of appraising Premier Poincaré with the nature of his oral discussions with the chancellor. This emissary is expected back in Berlin tomorrow.

It was stated officially that formal notes had not been exchanged between the German and French governments. The official statement adds that the fundamentals of Germany's position on the Ruhr conflict have been clearly set forth in the chancellor's recent speech, and that it requires further elucidation this will be forthcoming tomorrow when the chancellor addresses the German editors at a public reception. The nature of the reply received from Paris, it is believed, will determine the character of the chancellor's utterances.

None of the varying editorial conjectures attempts to fathom the government's direct position on the question of unconditionally calling off passive resistance or the murmur in which Herr Stresemann proposes to circumvent the very word "capitulation." Some of the more adventurous press prophets assume that the French concessions and works are to be resumed, to return for which there will be a vanishing of French and Belgian bayonets, although the occupation will for the time being continue, but in less objectionable form.

JUNIOR HIGH WORK

STARTS OCTOBER 1

Continued from First Page.

attorney refused to retract his statement and left the hall.

Under the proposal made by Commissioner John T. Hancock, chairman of the administrative committee, children of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades would have been excused from their classes, on written request of their parents, for two 30-minute periods or one one-hour period weekly, to attend classes in religious instruction in the vicinity of their school, the religious instructor to be employed by the churches.

Vote on Bible School.

Those voting against the plan were President Galt and Commissioners Trussell, Eubanks, Peterson and Hess. Those favoring it were Commissioners Hancock, Penn, McCauley and Michael.

About 100 persons were present as spectators. Among those speaking in behalf of the week-day religious teaching were Dr. W. H. LaPrade, Jr., M. M. Davies, Professor Floyd Field, Dr. L. O. Bricker, W. A. Sutton and others.

Kindergarten Plan.

Another important action of the board was the decision to leave to the superintendent's discretion the establishment of kindergartens in the sections where he regards them as most needed. Plans for the kindergartens will be arranged immediately, it was stated.

Violate Constitution.

Speaking in opposition to the method of week-day religious instruction as advocated by the education council, Attorney Blackburn declared that, in his belief, the teaching of religion as proposed would be a "violation" to a system of religious instruction in the public school system that would cause church dissension and violate the United States constitution.

"Public schools are the cradle of our liberty," he said, "and I do not want this cradle rocked by any church or churches."

"The history of the world shows that where the church has interfered with any functions of the state it has destroyed the state and divided the church. I do not think it is wise to parochialize the public schools of Atlanta."

No Designs on Schools.

Plato Durham was the next speaker. He expressed "amazement" that an "unknown man" would come before the school board and deliver such a speech as had the "person who had just spoken." With much apparent feeling he asserted that the attorney had "deliberately and designedly stabbed to the heart the church of God and the people of this city." He said he had no desire to throttle the public schools as Mr. Blackburn had intimated.

At this point Mr. Blackburn arose to a point of personal privilege, stating to the board that he had no desire to continue the discussion, "but I feel," he said, "that I owe it to myself to make a reply to the uncalculated words of this man (pointing to Dr. Durham) for whom I care little or nothing."

"His remarks and the feeling displayed by him justify every position that I have taken in discussing this question," he continued.

"Deliberate Untruth."

"When he says that I designedly stabbed the church of God, he uttered a deliberate untruth," and, pointing to Dr. Durham, said: "You knew it false, if you have any ray of intelligence, when you made it."

Commissioner McCauley arose and declared that "Mr. Blackburn is out of order, and I think he owes Dr. Durham an apology."

"I mean every word that I say, and it matters not who it may have been. I will never apologize," Blackburn declared. "I intend to treat a minister of the gospel as I would anyone else under similar offending circumstances." With that he left the room.

Highway Opened.

Quintan, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—The new permanently paved highway that is being constructed by Brooks county from Quintan to the Madison county line, in Florida, has been practically completed for three miles and this portion is now open to traffic.

U. S. Patent Just Allowed

NIFTY "JIFFY"

Continued from First Page.

while the latter's estimate of its own value was around $26,000,000.

Rejects A. B. & A. Claims.

Outstanding in the points made by the commission, which upheld its tentative valuations with only minor changes, was the declaration that only property actually used in the service of the public and for transportation purposes should be considered and that in no event could cost of reproduction now be considered as the sole or controlling basis for arriving at a single sum value. It rejected such claims by the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, which had made claims in the San Pedro case, each time emphasizing the elimination of such items.

In the San Pedro case, the commission eliminated as a part of the property or assets upon which a valuation could be placed about $25,000,000 in capital stock held by H. H. Harrison and William A. Clark, declaring such elimination was "proper under all circumstances."

The action with respect to Harrison-Clark stock was construed to mean by some that the commission purposed in its valuation proceedings to hold the stock investment to a close line of actual requirement as it had done with respect to property not actually used in transportation. The block of stock and been deducted by the commission in its tentative valuation of the San Pedro line and the carrier had made strong protests against it.

Additions Not Considered.

No consideration will be given by the commission in valuation proceedings to proposed or projected additions and betterments or extension of facilities. His explanation was made in the San Pedro opinion that definite rules had been prescribed for placing any capital expenditures within the final single sum value and, therefore, the property as of the valuation date furnished the limited basis for computation of the road's worth.

While the commission cut sharply the valuation of the roads as made by carriers, its action was not determined, it was said, as indicative of a policy.

In setting a value for the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, the commission disagreed from a discussion of income and property values to give consideration to the responsibility that a carrier has to communities it serves.

The Atlanta line was described as having sprung "from a dream that never materialized," yet it rendered a distinct service, the commission said. It added that although consistent losses had been recorded, consideration must be given to all relevant facts.

In the determination of a value for rate making purposes, "the decision continued, "we are not limited and can not be confined to a mere formula."

$72,000,000 to Replace.

Following receipt of advice from Washington that the interstate commerce commission had placed a valuation of $72,245,257 for rate making purposes upon the property of the At-

ANESTHESIA FOUND

BY CRAWFORD LONG,

JACOBS DECLARES

Continued from First Page.

Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Athens, was declared the discoverer of anesthesia by Dr. Joseph Jacobs, of Atlanta, at the 71st annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical association, held in Asheville last week.

Dr. Jacobs, who is head of the Jacobs Pharmacy company, is leading the Georgia movement to gain recognition for his friend, Dr. Long, as the discoverer of anesthesia. Besides this paper, Dr. Jacobs read another on "Some Private and Quasi-Public Hospitals and Drug Stores."

WOMEN WILL ASK

JAP RELIEF TODAY

Continued from First Page.

most worthy and pressing need. Georgia renowned for generosity and humanitarians to give with willing hearts to the Japanese must never be questioned. The Red Cross has been officially designated to handle the relief fund. Let us give, give liberally, give cheerfully, and give today.

(Signed)—C. B. Bidwell, Atlanta; Joseph C. McMillin, Atlanta; E. R. Holston, Athens; T. K. Bonmeister, Waycross; John Graham, Rome.

Mrs. H. G. Hastings, vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs and Mrs. Arthur H. Hays, who have been appointed treasurers of the Japanese relief fund with headquarters in the woman's division of the Red Cross.

From the hour when business opens until tonight, hundreds of Atlanta's most prominent women will conduct the street campaign in an effort to raise the city's quota.

Churches Help Some.

Although no complete computation was available of the total collection taken up in Atlanta churches Sunday, following the pastors' appeal for immediate relief for the stricken Japanese, the following churches reported the amount of their collections Tuesday:

West End Baptist, $128.28; Second Baptist, $100; Druid Hills Baptist, $87.05; Berean club of the First Presbyterian church, $50; Georgia Avenue Baptist, $20.50; Grant Park Baptist, $13.90; Ponce de Leon Methodist, $10; churches of Piedmont, Ga., $47.50; churches of Lawrenceville, Ga., $18.22; Ponce de Leon Baptist, $50.

New Committee Members.

Additional committees for the canvass completed Tuesday are as follows:

Mrs. E. W. Moore will be assisted by Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, Mrs. A. F. Brew, Mrs. Clarence Roemer, Mrs. Louis McKain, Mrs. Lillian V. Venable, Mrs. Ruth Northing, Mrs. Frank Marsh, Mrs. J. E. Hunsfutt, Mrs. George Long, Mrs. M. J. McArthur, Mrs. Weldon, Mrs. J. B. Houser, and their station will be Franklin & Cox, corner of Whitehall and Alabama.

Mrs. Frank Logan will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Potts, Mrs. Annette Dugan, and Misses Isabelle and Caroline Howard. Mrs. George Hinnman will have with her Mrs. Evelyn Knox, Mrs. Chesley Howard, Jr., Misses Caroline Beckham, Pauline Howard, Eleanor McGinty and Mrs. Mark O'Connell.

Mrs. Louise Spaulding Foster will be assisted at Peachtree and Linden streets by Mrs. N. J. Ferguson, Mrs. Emma Martt Bord, Mrs. H. C. Sagar, Mrs. H. H. Collier, Mrs. Herbert Dull, and Misses Mary Brown Spaulding, Ethel Miller, Margaret Hodnett.

Mrs. L. C. Holmback will be assisted by Mrs. Jack Lane, Mrs. J. Robert Kleidol, Mrs. Howard Hays, Mrs. G. E. Leathers, Mrs. R. C. Boatwick, Mrs. Harry Fair, Mrs. J. E. Hudson, Mrs. R. E. Wise, Mrs. George Childs, Mrs. J. H. Ziegler, Mrs. Elmer Russell and Misses Margaret Boatwick, Elizabeth Allen, Elizabeth Holmback.

PLANS POWER PLANT

PURCHASE IN 2 TOWNS

Huntsville, Ala., September 11. (Special.)—Wells M. Stanley, superintendent of the northern division of the Alabama Power company, is here from Boaz, Ala., where he has been negotiating for the purchase by the company of the electric plants in the two towns.

Boaz has made a definite proposition of sale, ratified by the people in a popular election, and if Alleville voters do the same, it is expected the power company will take over both towns and franchises and extend their hydroelectric system to both towns.

A., B. & A. VALUED

AT $23,240,000

Continued from First Page.

Rejects A. B. & A. Claims.

Outstanding in the points made by the commission, which upheld its tentative valuations with only minor changes, was the declaration that only property actually used in the service of the public and for transportation purposes should be considered and that in no event could cost of reproduction now be considered as the sole or controlling basis for arriving at a single sum value. It rejected such claims by the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, which had made claims in the San Pedro case, each time emphasizing the elimination of such items.

In the San Pedro case, the commission eliminated as a part of the property or assets upon which a valuation could be placed about $25,000,000 in capital stock held by H. H. Harrison and William A. Clark, declaring such elimination was "proper under all circumstances."

The action with respect to Harrison-Clark stock was construed to mean by some that the commission purposed in its valuation proceedings to hold the stock investment to a close line of actual requirement as it had done with respect to property not actually used in transportation. The block of stock and been deducted by the commission in its tentative valuation of the San Pedro line and the carrier had made strong protests against it.

Additions Not Considered.

No consideration will be given by the commission in valuation proceedings to proposed or projected additions and betterments or extension of facilities. His explanation was made in the San Pedro opinion that definite rules had been prescribed for placing any capital expenditures within the final single sum value and, therefore, the property as of the valuation date furnished the limited basis for computation of the road's worth.

While the commission cut sharply the valuation of the roads as made by carriers, its action was not determined, it was said, as indicative of a policy.

In setting a value for the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic, the commission disagreed from a discussion of income and property values to give consideration to the responsibility that a carrier has to communities it serves.

The Atlanta line was described as having sprung "from a dream that never materialized," yet it rendered a distinct service, the commission said. It added that although consistent losses had been recorded, consideration must be given to all relevant facts.

In the determination of a value for rate making purposes, "the decision continued, "we are not limited and can not be confined to a mere formula."

$72,000,000 to Replace.

Following receipt of advice from Washington that the interstate commerce commission had placed a valuation of $72,245,257 for rate making purposes upon the property of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad, Receiver B. L. Bugg stated Tuesday that it would require about $72,000,000 to reproduce the present properties of the road.

Colonel Bugg said that the commission's figures do not include considerable valuable property bought by the road for use in industrial development, but not strictly for railroad transportation purposes.

These latest figures are more than two million dollars less than a tentative valuation put upon the road last April and which the road claimed to be too low.

Colonel Bugg stated that he did not think it proper for him to comment upon the accuracy of the commission's valuation. He said that the commission based its figures on July 1, 1914, prices, and allowed depreciation since then. This was under directions of a recent act of congress.

KAMPER'S

Let Us Help You Solve the School Lunch Problem

The matter of lunches for children is something which should have serious consideration. The day has passed when mothers ushered their little ones off for a long day with the left-overs from breakfast or a few dry crackers for lunch.

Thoughtful mothers today realize that the lunch is as important as any lesson. The little bodies must be properly nourished before they can absorb the lessons—they must be nourished anyway—and hit-or-miss foods lunches will not answer the purpose.

Kamper's offers exceptional opportunities for meeting the lunch problem. Our stocks are complete. Purity, Quality and Variety are essential features, and with us these are paramount, added to which is the convenience of our telephone service and fast truck delivery system—everything necessary.

Some School Lunch Suggestions

BRAN ROLLS
Highly endorsed by physicians for adults and children.
Dozen . . . . . 20c

RAISIN BREAD
High in food value and much appreciated.
Loaf . . . . . 15c

CINNAMON ROLLS
These are the large size—each one a lunch.
Dozen . . . . . 20c

COTTAGE BREAD
A rich, large loaf, fine for sandwiches.
Loaf . . . . . 10c

HOME-MADE MAYONNAISE
A food of unusual value. Rich, Wholesome and Healthful.
Pound . . . . . 39c

Lunch Box

Special

A substantial lunch box, made of heavy metal, nicely decorated and filled with Block's Pure Sugar Stick Candy. The candy alone usually sells for 50c.

BOTH for . . 41c

TWO Kamper's STORES

MAIN STORE
492-498 Peachtree
HEmlock 5000

10th ST. STORE
820 Peachtree
HEmlock 5700

KAMPER'S ATLANTA

THE KIND OF MONEY BANKERS LIKE

HE bank president says: "Jones is entitled to this loan. His business is sound and his record is all right. But can we let him have the money? How does our reserve stand?"

If all a bank's customers wanted to borrow and nobody deposited any real cash, the bank would soon have to go out of business. The more a bank lends, the more cash reserve it must keep on hand. Ability to lend depends largely on the amount of "new money"—actual gold, silver, currency, or checks on other banks—which customers deposit.

And how this "new money" multiplies a bank's power to serve its community! In most cases, every dime of cash reserve enables a bank to lend a dollar. Those borrowed dollars go to pay labor's wages, to buy raw materials, to pay the bills of the jobber and manufacturer and wholesale merchant. They quicken the pulse of trade all along the line.

Every dollar of cash reserve in the hands of the South's progressive bankers is a magic dollar, capable of reproducing itself prolifically. That is why banks put a high value on the outside cash which flows into their tills.

THE millions of dollars which G. L. Miller & Company furnish each year for the construction of income-earning buildings in Southern cities are "new money," gathered through the sale of Miller Bonds all over the United States. This cash is raw material out of which Southern bankers manufacture loans for their customers. Every dollar paid for a Miller Bond becomes a basis of credit, a manifold dollar whose effects on the prosperity of the South are beyond calculation. No wonder that bankers, working hard to promote the South's well-being, often say to us: "More power to you in bringing money this way."

G. L. MILLER & COMPANY

1756 Hurt Building, Atlanta, Ga.
30 East 42nd Street, New York City

PHILADELPHIA BOSTON ST. LOUIS MEMPHIS PITTSBURGH KNOXVILLE

There's a ROGERS Store near you

ROGERS

Where Satisfaction Is a Certainty

Our Two Extra Specials For Today

No. 1 Macaroni or Spaghetti

Regular Price 8c

3 for 19c

Saving You 25 per cent—Isn't it Worth Saving?

El Food Mayonnaise

Two sizes—A delicious Mayonnaise.

3½ ounce 8-ounce

2 for 25c 2 for 41c

You pick up 20 per cent When you buy this.

BEANS -- BEANS

Home-grown Red Valentine Beans—Fresh and Tender.

2 quarts, 15c

—OR—

4 quarts, 25c

There's a ROGERS Store near you

ROGERS

Where Satisfaction Is a Certainty

R.A. Broyles & Co.

16 CASH STORES

5 lbs. SUGAR . . 43c

5 lbs. Yellow Yams . 19c

Fresh Green Cabbage, lb. 5c

5 lbs. Irish Potatoes . 19c

FULL CREAM Cheese 31c

Maury Co. BUTTER . . 53c

Creamery

FRESH EGGS . . . . 38c

California Oranges . . 24c

24-lb. Bag FLOUR . . 89c

Plain or Self-Rising

10-lbs. MEAL . . 33c

Waterground

MALAGA GRAPES . 10c

BROYLES

Solid Carload

Of Delicious and Healthful

FIG BARS

at

12½c lb.

Regular 20c to 25c seller. Fine for the kiddies' school lunch

Another Good Value

FANCY PORTO Yams 5 lbs. 14c

RICAN

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC CO. Over 7500 stores in the U.S.A.

U. S. Patent Just Allowed

NIFTY "JIFFY"

Continued from First Page.

Rejects A. B. & A. Claims.

Outstanding in the points made by the commission, which upheld its tentative val

TIME IS EXTENDED ON GORGAS PLANT

Washington, September 11.—The Alabama Power company today agreed to extend the time limit within which the government must determine whether it will sell to the power company its interest in the Gorgas unit and transmission line of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, properties.

The extension granted was only for a ten-day period, until October 24, although Secretary Weeks had asked for a delay until November 1. The extra time was desired that Henry Ford might be able to consider fully whether he will eliminate the Gorgas property from the offer he has made to purchase and lease the Muscle Shoals projects.

Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama company, in a letter to Mr. Weeks, wrote:

"We acknowledge your request of September 6, 1923, that the time be extended from October 14, 1923, to November 1, 1923, for the government to determine whether it will sell to this company its interest in the Gorgas unit and transmission line located on the lands of this company, or remove the same, which request we understand is made on behalf of Mr. Ford.

"We are in urgent need of these premises in order to meet the additional demands for power in the communities served by our company and to provide steam reserves for the dry season of 1924. There would be embarrassment to us in delaying the ultimate disposition of this matter until November 1. You will recall that our contract with the government has been under public discussion and consideration for several years, and it would seem that those interested in the contract have had every possible opportunity to know its terms and conditions.

"We feel, therefore, that in all the circumstances we can not agree to an extension of the time to the first of November, but in order to accommodate Mr. Ford we will agree to an extension through and including the 24th of October, 1923, for the purpose stated."

STATE ATTEMPTS TO LINK DENTIST

Continued From Page One.

chief deputy, should not be permitted to go near the jury.

The courtroom today was crowded with spectators and the afternoon session one woman fainted in the rear of the courtroom because of the heat beating down on the flat roof of the garage building being used as a temporary courthouse. The spectators at the morning session virtually all were men, but this afternoon many women appeared. At one time testimony became a bit rough and Judge Gunn cautioned the women that it appeared that the testimony was being used as a vulgarism and if they wished they might leave the courtroom. Every woman left, but some returned later.

Laughter greeted the answers of a number of witnesses. Judge Gunn several times cautioned the spectators and finally instructed the sheriff's force to watch the audience, arrest the first person who "giggled or made a demonstration," and bring him before the court on a charge of contempt. After that there was no more laughter.

Victim Is Witness.
R. F. Mills, twice victim of the Macon floggers, was the first witness called by the court. He was on the witness stand for more than three hours and told how he was called from his home on January 13, 1922, presumably to make a professional call, and how, when he got into a small automobile he supposed had come to meet him, he was taken to a point on the Columbus road, placed flat on the ground and held there by two men while another man flogged him. He said there were five or six men in the gang and that they were dressed in black robes with white caps and masks.

Mills testified that although he had been warned that he would be killed if he did not keep his face to the ground, he had turned it in such a way that he saw several men disrobing near an automobile and that he saw Dr. Yarbrough walk into the lights of the machine. His story was not shaken on cross-examination.

Mills created a stir in court when he was being questioned about a letter he wrote to Governor Hardwick asking for protection. He had testified that a day or two after the letter was written on October 31, 1922, a man who gave his name as Payne called on him and said he was from Governor Hardwick. He said that the man, on being asked for his credentials, showed a badge.

"Have you seen this man since," he was asked by Solicitor Roy W. Moore. "Yes," he replied, "I saw him yesterday."

"Who is he?"

"His name is Durkee, I believe."

J. P. Durkee, organizer for the Ku Klux Klan in Macon, was arrested last night in connection with the Mills case and is now free on $5,000 bond.

Mills testified that a few days after this man called on him he was again taken out and whipped. He has since left Macon.

The defense several times during the day sought to get into evidence matters reflecting on Mills' past actions or character, but each time Judge Gunn sustained state objections after sending the jury out of the room while the attorneys argued.

Mills, on cross-examination this afternoon, was asked particularly about his actions after he was flogged. He testified that he went to Barnesville to see a postal clerk. He was then asked a long series of questions regarding what he told the chief of police of Barnesville and others about the identity of the floggers and finally was asked if he did not tell some one that J. P. Durkee did the whipping. Although Judge Gunn intervened to state that the groundwork for such a question had not been laid, Attorney Ross replied that if the witness would admit the statement he would not push the question.

"I'll admit that he wrote the letter," Mills replied. This letter was one that was read to Mills at the time he was first flogged.

Did Not Make Threat.
Asked if he did not threaten to kill his uncle, he said that he did not make any such threat, but that he did "give him ten days in which to admit it."

On redirect examination this afternoon Solicitor Moore asked Mills to state his reason for going to Barnesville. He replied that he had gone there to see a man then working in the postoffice to try to find out if he could tell him who mailed "that letter" to the Ku Klux Klan in Atlanta. After Mills was excused J. P. Durkee was called to the stand. Durkee was asked by the state if he had been arrested in connection with the case and stated that he had been. He identified three letters which he said he had obtained from Dr. Yarbrough or from a desk in Dr. Yarbrough's office, one letter was addressed to Dr. Yarbrough personally and the other was addressed to the Ku Klux Klan.

Durkee testified that many letters were received by him and that he read some of them and others he merely scanned and that he gave them to Dr. Yarbrough. On cross-examination he was asked whether or not Dr. Yarbrough read the letters and he said that he knew the dentist read some, but he did not know whether he read all of them. He said that the letters identified by him had been shown to M. O. Dunning, chief of staff of the Ku Klux Klan for the realm of Georgia, and that he then turned them over to Sheriff Hicks, Employee on Stand.

Deputy Sheriff J. Lane Mullally was arrested Dr. Yarbrough, H. L. Perryman and J. E. Simpson, the latter two Ku Klux Klan investigators, testified regarding alleged actions of Dr. Yarbrough.

Miss Elizabeth Culpepper, the final witness of the day testified that she had been an assistant in Dr. Yarbrough's office for three years. She testified that the close letter being received by Dr. Yarbrough from a Mrs. Perry and of its being given her to read.

"Who gave you the letter to read," she was asked. Before she could reply, however, the defense objected and the objection was sustained because the proper groundwork had not been laid by the state. Before the dentist could read the letter, she said, she read it. She said that she handed the letter to Dr. Yarbrough after reading it.

"Did Dr. Yarbrough make any comments about the letter," she was asked.

"He asked me what I would do in such a case," she replied.

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him I didn't know, it was private."

Miss Culpepper had not been allowed to relate what was in the letter while Judge Gunn looked up precedents but at this point he stated that he had found that such evidence was permissible. She then was asked what was in the letter and said that it was from a Mrs. Perry who expressed a wish that something might be done to her son Ollie M. Perry and saying that she had no husband and that the son had been selling whisky.

Tells About Women.
Miss Culpepper then was asked, "do you know Mrs. Lynwood Bright?"

"I've seen her but don't know her," she replied.

"State if on the day before Lynwood Bright was whipped Mrs. Bright didn't send the afternoon in Dr. Yarbrough's office?" Solicitor Moore told the witness.

"Did she have dental work done?"

"No, she just came up to see him."

"Do you know W. F. Delamar?" the prosecutor continued.

"I have seen him in Dr. Yarbrough's office."

"Did you see him there often?"

"Yes, we did some dental work for him."

"Did he come into the office when you were not doing dental work for him?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever see J. D. Patrick there?"

"Yes, several times."

Many Under Arrest.
She also testified that she had seen J. E. Bloodworth, J. F. Alexander and Attorney Goodrum in the office a number of times. Most of these men, she said, had dental work done by Dr. Yarbrough, but they made some trips to the office when they were not having work done. All of the men named, except Attorney Goodrum, who is one of the defense attorneys in the trial of Dr. Yarbrough, are under arrest on various charges.

"How long would they stay there?" she was asked.

"I don't know," was the reply.

"Who did they talk to?"

"Dr. Yarbrough."

"What is your usual hour of leaving the office?"

"Seven o'clock."

"Were they often there when you left?"

"I don't remember, sometimes there was somebody in the reception room, but I don't know who was there."

Miss Culpepper was asked how many rooms Dr. Yarbrough has in his office and stated there were two dental offices and a private room. She said Dr. Yarbrough received the men named in the private room.

Had Many Patients.
On cross-examination she was asked about the business of Dr. Yarbrough and testified that he waited on from 20 to 40 patients a day and often had engagements booked for all evening. She also was asked if she did not know a drive for members was being conducted by the Ku Klux Klan and replied that she did not know this.

In connection with the presence of Mrs. Bright in Dr. Yarbrough's office the defense asked her if she did not know that Dr. Yarbrough signed a bond for Mrs. Bright and that she had come to the office to thank him for it. She said she had heard that that was the reason for the visit. Miss Culpepper also was asked about Dr. Yarbrough's reputation and declared that it was good.

JAIL MEN SOUGHT IN JANINA MURDERS

Continued from First Page.

the martial preparations apparently indicate that the Italian forces are "gigging in" for a long stay there.

Holding Corfu, Mussolini successfully bottled up Jujo-Slavia's only two seaports, Split (Spalato) and the minor base of Sussak, opposite Fiume.

Thus while he negotiates with the Serbs nation over the status of Fiume he keeps the whip hand by blocking Fiume's only access to world trade routes through the Corfu occupation.

Time Limit Near.
Italy's second time limit for the conclusion of the Italian-Jujo-Slav negotiations over Fiume expires in five days, and the western powers fear that he may repeat his Corfu exploit at the northern Adriatic port.

Dreams of the Adriatic as "An Italian lake" seem well under way as long as Italy holds the gateway of the island sea and agitates for control of its northern seaport.

Austria-Hungary and the Balkan zones now grouped in Jujo-Slavia all centered their export trade on Adriatic ports in pre-war days. Italy holds Trieste, most vital of these ports, today, and even those not Italian are now dominated by her seizure of the Corfu district.

Greece Is Anxious.
Athens, September 11.—Anxiety here over the Italian occupation of the island of Corfu has been increased by the reported substitution of Italian police for the Greek functionaries in Corfu.

A Corfu dispatch last Friday said

the Greek police force was again on duty, but was serving under the orders of an Italian captain.

No Appeal to League.
Geneva, September 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Jujo-Slavia foreign minister, M. Ninichich, declared in a statement today that his government had no intention of submitting to the league of nations its differences with Italy over the Fiume question.

Eight Suspects Jailed.
London, September 11.—The Greek government has arrested eight persons suspected of the murder of the members of the Italian boundary commission in Janina, according to a Rome dispatch to the Central News. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, Greek member of the Greco-Italian boundary commission, is said to be imminent.

Greek Fleet Arrives.
Athens, September 11.—(By the United Press.)—The Greek fleet has arrived at Phalaron, to await the allied squadron which Greece must salute in accordance with the terms of apology to Italy.

The town of Phalaron lies on the coast a mile below Athens and near the port of Piræus.

The Greek government has requested the council of ambassadors to set the day on which the salute is to be given.

It is reported here that Italian troops have established an airdrome at Valona, Albania.

Atlanta Scouts Receive Honors

Left to right, William Martin, Burton Hudgins, Ernest Huffner and (seated below) Charles Cox, Atlanta Boy Scouts who were awarded Eagle Scout badges by the Atlanta court of honor Monday night. To receive Eagle Scout badges a scout must have received twenty-one merit badges and to have successfully passed a rigid examination in scoutcraft. Dr. Floyd W. McRae, chairman of honor division No. 1, presented the coveted badges.

Fiume's only access to world trade routes through the Corfu occupation.

Time Limit Near.
Italy's second time limit for the conclusion of the Italian-Jujo-Slav negotiations over Fiume expires in five days, and the western powers fear that he may repeat his Corfu exploit at the northern Adriatic port.

Dreams of the Adriatic as "An Italian lake" seem well under way as long as Italy holds the gateway of the island sea and agitates for control of its northern seaport.

Austria-Hungary and the Balkan zones now grouped in Jujo-Slavia all centered their export trade on Adriatic ports in pre-war days. Italy holds Trieste, most vital of these ports, today, and even those not Italian are now dominated by her seizure of the Corfu district.

Greece Is Anxious.
Athens, September 11.—Anxiety here over the Italian occupation of the island of Corfu has been increased by the reported substitution of Italian police for the Greek functionaries in Corfu.

A Corfu dispatch last Friday said

the Greek police force was again on duty, but was serving under the orders of an Italian captain.

No Appeal to League.
Geneva, September 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Jujo-Slavia foreign minister, M. Ninichich, declared in a statement today that his government had no intention of submitting to the league of nations its differences with Italy over the Fiume question.

Eight Suspects Jailed.
London, September 11.—The Greek government has arrested eight persons suspected of the murder of the members of the Italian boundary commission in Janina, according to a Rome dispatch to the Central News. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, Greek member of the Greco-Italian boundary commission, is said to be imminent.

Greek Fleet Arrives.
Athens, September 11.—(By the United Press.)—The Greek fleet has arrived at Phalaron, to await the allied squadron which Greece must salute in accordance with the terms of apology to Italy.

The town of Phalaron lies on the coast a mile below Athens and near the port of Piræus.

The Greek government has requested the council of ambassadors to set the day on which the salute is to be given.

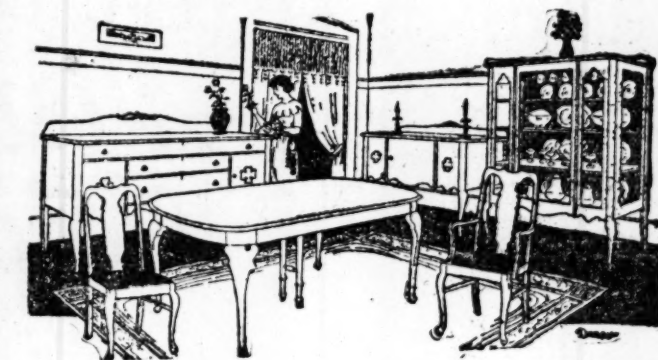

It is reported here that Italian troops have established an airdrome at Valona, Albania.

HALF-PRICE Everything HALF PRICE

We Must Raise
$10,000

Hundreds Have Already Bought Saving Half

We started out last Monday to raise $10,000 this week by placing our entire stock of Furniture and Rugs on the market at Half Price for Cash. Judging from our sales for the two days, the $10,000 will be raised long before the week is out. Come in today and select anything you need at just exactly Half Price.

Dining Room
Suites at Exactly HALF For Cash

Our new fall suites are exceptionally pretty and you are sure to find just the kind you want and his week you save half by paying cash. Prices range from—

$85 to $245

Overstuffed Suites
At Half Price

While They Last

If you intend buying a Living Room Suite this fall, buy it now and save from

$75 to $200

Bed Davenport
Suite

Only six of these handsome suites left. Just the solution to that extra bed problem. They cannot be told from any attractive Living Room Suite and yet they can be changed instantly into an extra bed.

HALF PRICE FOR CASH

Bedroom Suites

In Walnut, Mahogany,
Ivory and Grey—

ALL HALF PRICE

Have you been wanting to furnish an extra bedroom, but hesitated because of the expense? If so, this is your opportunity to furnish it at half the usual cost. Prices range up from

Fiber Settees . . $5.00
Odd Chairs . . . $1.50
Odd Rockers . . . $3.50
$65.00 Chiffonrobes . . . $32.50
Kitchen Tables . $2.25
Ladies' Desks . $10.00
$25.00 Fiber Tea
Wagons . . $12.50

Floor Covering
All Kinds,
$1.00 Goods,
This Week
Only 50c sq.
Yard.

— WHERE PRICES ARE LOWER — JOHNSON'S — FINE —
FURNITURE
28-30 S. Forsyth St. BETWEEN HUNTER AND ALABAMA

Fine
Kitchen Cabinets
HALF
PRICE

the Greek police force was again on duty, but was serving under the orders of an Italian captain.

No Appeal to League.
Geneva, September 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Jujo-Slavia foreign minister, M. Ninichich, declared in a statement today that his government had no intention of submitting to the league of nations its differences with Italy over the Fiume question.

Eight Suspects Jailed.
London, September 11.—The Greek government has arrested eight persons suspected of the murder of the members of the Italian boundary commission in Janina, according to a Rome dispatch to the Central News. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, Greek member of the Greco-Italian boundary commission, is said to be imminent.

Greek Fleet Arrives.
Athens, September 11.—(By the United Press.)—The Greek fleet has arrived at Phalaron, to await the allied squadron which Greece must salute in accordance with the terms of apology to Italy.

The town of Phalaron lies on the coast a mile below Athens and near the port of Piræus.

The Greek government has requested the council of ambassadors to set the day on which the salute is to be given.

It is reported here that Italian troops have established an airdrome at Valona, Albania.

the Greek police force was again on duty, but was serving under the orders of an Italian captain.

No Appeal to League.
Geneva, September 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Jujo-Slavia foreign minister, M. Ninichich, declared in a statement today that his government had no intention of submitting to the league of nations its differences with Italy over the Fiume question.

Eight Suspects Jailed.
London, September 11.—The Greek government has arrested eight persons suspected of the murder of the members of the Italian boundary commission in Janina, according to a Rome dispatch to the Central News. The arrest of Colonel Botzaris, Greek member of the Greco-Italian boundary commission, is said to be imminent.

Greek Fleet Arrives.
Athens, September 11.—(By the United Press.)—The Greek fleet has arrived at Phalaron, to await the allied squadron which Greece must salute in accordance with the terms of apology to Italy.

The town of Phalaron lies on the coast a mile below Athens and near the port of Piræus.

The Greek government has requested the council of ambassadors to set the day on which the salute is to be given.

It is reported here that Italian troops have established an airdrome at Valona, Albania.

UNKNOWN PERSONS BLAMED FOR SIX DEATHS AT BRIDGE

Conway, S. C., September 11.—The coroner's jury, investigating the deaths of six persons who plunged in an automobile through an open draw of the bridge over Waccamaw river near here, on the night of August 28, late this afternoon held that the draw was opened by persons unknown, which action caused the deaths of Mrs. Marvin Connor, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Culpepper and Culpepper's three children. The only survivor, Marvin Connor, testified at the inquest.

JOHN GRIER IS WINNER OF RAPID FIRE MATCH

Camp Perry, Ohio, September 11. Civilian John Grier, of Rockland, Del., today was announced winner of the 300-yard rapid fire National Rifle association match, in which seven competitors tied for first place, necessitating the firing of extra strings. Grier's score was 50, plus 48 secured in the shootoff. Lieutenant G. A. Rehm, Des Moines, and private George D. White, of the United States Marine corps at Quantico, Va., were tied with scores of 50, plus 47.

The finals of the 200-yard rapid fire National Rifle association match, which opened yesterday, will not be fired until Wednesday.

GOMPERS WARNS AGAINST FOSTER

Decatur, Ill., September 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Warning against "amalgamation" and "labor party" proposals, the two things for which William Z. Foster has announced he came here to fight for, was given the Illinois Federation of Labor convention this morning in a special delivery letter from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

WAR'S OLDEST SOLDIER IS DEAD IN MAYENCE

Los Angeles, September 11.—Lieut. Georges Le Mesurier, 70 years old, said to have been the oldest soldier to serve throughout the world war, is dead in Mayence, France, according to word received by the Los Angeles Times.

D'Annunzio in New Role.
Milan, September 11.—Gabriele d'Annunzio is reported to be studying harmony and counterpoint with the pianist Signora Bacara. It is said that he intends to compose the music for his own new opera entitled "Frante solo."

Blackstock-
Hale-Morgan Co.

Two Stores in Atlanta

Just Arrived!

Our big new stock of Fall Suits and Overcoats has just arrived. We feel sure you are going to like the new shades and patterns of these absolutely up-to-the-minute models.

These suits can be had with two pairs of trousers if desired.

Come in while our selection is complete, and look at these unusual values at $25, $27.50, $30, $33.50

Blackstock-Hale-Morgan Co.

Distinctive Clothiers and Furnishers

2 Peachtree Street
Stetson Hats

39 Marietta Street
Manhattan Shirts

Good business judgment dictates this policy to make business good—

Keep on telling them
And you'll keep on selling them

It's the keeping on that keeps business coming in

Don't Tell 'em Yesterday
Tell 'em Today

TELL them regularly in

The Atlanta Constitution

MAin 5000

Carlton Shoes
$7.50 to $12.50

HANAN
SHOES

New-models for fall are now ready for Hanan wearers. All leathers and lasts. Come in and be fitted now, while style range is complete.

$13.50 to $14.00

Carlton's
36 Whitehall St.

Valiant Warriors in Gray Gather For Rome Reunion

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Home is tonight the center of the Confederate hosts of Georgia. The gray-clad heroes began making their appearance in the city early this morning, and throughout the day each incoming train has brought others. Scores have come in automobiles, and not a few from nearby towns and rural sections have come in more humble conveyances.

Tonight, with "An Evening of Southern Song and Story," the 31st reunion was actually begun, although it does not officially open until tomorrow morning. A crowd that filled the city auditorium to overflowing, one of the largest that ever gathered here on such an occasion, sat for more than an hour and listened to songs and recitations that were in the heyday of their popularity in the sixties. "Auld Lang Syne," "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground," "Swanee River," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe," and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground" were sung by the entire audience with more feeling than audiences are wont to display nowadays. The veterans present sang too, and more than a few weather-beaten cheeks were wet as the answers that were given to the question, "Where were you when the war broke out?" were given. The veterans were inclined at first to leave the singing to the chorus, but after the first verse or two of the first song had been sung they began to join in one at a time, until finally the most of them were singing with right good will.

The city began to take on a "reunion air" early this morning. Most of the decorations were put up yesterday, and one or two veterans reached the city about midnight. This morning they began coming in in earnest, and by mid-afternoon, when Commander A. J. Twigg reached the city with several members of his staff, reunion headquarters at the General Forrest Hotel were beginning to be thronged with men in gray uniforms and gold braid. It is believed that considerably more than half of those who will attend the reunion have already reached the city tonight, although the reunion proper does not begin until tomorrow morning.

Automobiles in larger numbers than necessary to accommodate the incoming veterans have been meeting every train into the city today and the same will be true tomorrow. As fast as the veterans arrived, they were escorted to the homes where they will be guests while here, and were then carried to reunion headquarters.

Tomorrow morning will be given over to the business of the reunion. The session will be held at the city auditorium. Hon. E. E. Lindsey, first commissioner of Rome, and Attorney C. E. Maddox will deliver addresses of welcome on behalf of Rome and her people. Ex-Governor Nat E. Harris, of Marion, and Nathan Bedford Forrest, of Atlanta, will respond to the welcome addresses.

In the afternoon, a concert by the Lindale band will precede the regular business session. At 5 o'clock the veterans will be tendered a tea at the Coosa Country club and immediately afterwards will be taken on an automobile tour of the city.

The grand ball of the reunion will be held at the Armstrong hotel tomorrow night, led by General Twigg.

The list of the official ladies of the reunion of veterans, as announced here today, is as follows:

Rome Camp.

Miss Corbie Mae Dean, sponsor; Miss Lila Williamson, maid; sponsors for Esau H. W. Powell, Vienna, Miss Mattie Lou Hoosey, Americus, Miss Carrie Winder, Albany.

Misses: Miss Lucy Mae Hall, Vienna; Miss Eva Howell, Dublin; Miss Etzel Ryals, Macon; Miss Martha Anderson, Atlanta; Miss Allin Woodall, Atlanta; Miss Virginia Daniel, Rome; Miss Mary Forrester, Leesburg, maid of honor; Miss Elsie Williams, Cordele, maid of honor; Miss Sarah Seely, Outhbert, maid of honor; Mrs. Bessie Moore Churchill, Rome, honorary chaperon; Mrs. Allen Dexter Maddox, Rome, honorary chaperon.

Other official ladies will be: Miss Emma J. Twigg, of Augusta; Miss Rebecca Harmon, of Augusta; Miss Margaret Clay, Savannah; Miss Cecil Carr Smith, of Augusta; Mrs. Maryland Randall, of Augusta; Mrs. R. H. Chertie, of Atlanta; Mrs. Benta Smith Hankinson, of Atlanta.

Study Curb Market.

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Four Alabama farm demonstration agents were in Rome this morning studying the local curb market and getting data as to its operation and the success that it attended the venture. They came as the result of recent correspondence with Secretary Crites, of the local chamber of commerce.

E. B. Blaford, district agent, with headquarters at Auburn; C. E. Stapp, of Gadsden, county agent for Etowah county; S. P. Daughtry, of Gadsden, assistant county agent for Etowah, and R. C. Lett, of Tuscaloosa, county agent for Tuscaloosa county, were those who made the trip.

The visitors expressed themselves as very much impressed with what they found and predicted that their trip will result in the spread of the curb market program in their respective cities.

To See Polo Game.

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Rome will see its first polo game Thursday afternoon when two picked teams from the Sixth cavalry will meet here under the auspices of the Rome Woman's club. The contest is expected to prove one of the outstanding features of the Confederate veterans' reunion. All veterans will not only be admitted free, but will be furnished automobile transportation to and from the field.

The game will be between the Headquarters team and the Second squadron outfit. The two teams, headed by General Wyman, who is a player, accompanied by 40 polo ponies and a detachment of 50 men, will reach Rome tomorrow afternoon. The two teams have been with the Sixth cavalry at Camp McClelland, near Anniston, and are now en route to Fort Oglethorpe, their home station.

The entire Sixth cavalry, which is making the return trip from Camp McClelland to Fort Oglethorpe, will pass through Rome on Friday. The regiment, numbering more than 800 men and horses, will spend Thursday night at Annuchee, eight miles from Rome.

Six to Chaingans.

Rome, Ga., September 8.—(Special.)—For the second time in two days six train riders pleaded guilty in the city court this morning and were sent to the chain gang in lieu of fines of $10 and costs. Five of the six go to the local road gang and the other to the state farm.

Negro Held as Thief.

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—In Forrest Duffy, a negro arrested this morning by the sheriff's department, officers think they have the burglar who has broken into a number of residences in rural sections near Rome recently. Loot taken from one white residence and a negro house were said to have been found in Duffy's possession.

J. R. Tillery Funeral.

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—John R. Tillery, Jr., who died yesterday afternoon, will be buried tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The funeral will be held at the Maple Street Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member. Mr. Tillery, who had been in bad health for several years, was 23 years of age. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Tillery. Besides his parents he leaves one sister, Mrs. George M. Woods, Jr., of this city.

PEACHTREE ARCADE PUBLISHES NEWS IN PAPER OF OWN

"The Peachtree Arcade News," a monthly paper devoted to the interests of merchants of the arcade, has made its initial bow to the clientele of the shops of that institution.

The September number features articles on the guarantee plan of the Arcade association, a complete directory of the building and a number of breezy features on individual tenants. Officers of the association are G. C. Green, president; J. J. Bookout, first vice, president, and T. H. Fulton, treasurer.

Colonel Fred J. Paxon, past president of the Retail Merchants' association, with which the Arcade association is affiliated, addressed the latter body at the first fall membership meeting, speaking on "Handling the Finances of a Retail Business."

SEPARATE TRIALS IN TROUTON CASE

Newnan, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Floyd Weldon, Leon Goodman, Jeff Minter and Walter Felton, four white men who are held in Coweta county jail in connection with the slaying of Millard Trouton, ex-service man, on August 10, will face a jury in Newnan Wednesday morning to answer charges of murder. J. W. Minter and his son, Grady, have already been tried, the former being sentenced to hang on October 12, and the latter sentenced to life imprisonment.

It was learned Tuesday night that a change of venue would be asked by Attorney George O. Finch, of Atlanta, leading counsel in the defense on the grounds of "local prejudice" against his clients. Immediately after the cases against the accused men are called Wednesday, the motion for a change of venue will be made and argued before the court.

Claude Washington and Charlie Joiner, two other white men who were jailed following the finding of Trouton's dead body in Line creek on August 14, four days after he was slain, are held as accessories after the fact and will be placed on trial following disposition of the four murder cases scheduled to be tried Wednesday.

It was stated Tuesday night that Attorney Finch would demand separate trial for each man, thus exploding the theory advanced recently that the men would be tried jointly.

Under no circumstances will these men be tried together, Attorney Finch declared.

During the recent trials of J. W. Minter and Grady Minter, it was brought out that Trouton was killed because he is alleged to have severely whipped his wife, a daughter of J. W. Minter and a sister of Grady Minter. The four men to be tried Wednesday in Coweta county were implicated, it is claimed, in the use to get Trouton into an automobile which took the party to a lonely spot on the night of August 10 where he was killed and his body thrown into Line creek, where it was found four days later.

TAX LAWS COURSE FOR REVENUE AGENTS

Federal internal revenue field forces of Georgia and Alabama will assemble in Atlanta Thursday for a week's course of instruction in tax laws and regulations, according to an announcement Tuesday by J. T. Rose, collector of the Georgia district. Gordon Louk and C. W. Coleman, supervisors of accounts and collections in the department at Washington, will be present to take part in the instruction.

Income tax levy will take up the five days of the meeting. The remaining days will be given over to other internal revenue and field procedure.

Client Defeated In First Trial Against Lawyer

A verdict of not guilty on a charge of larceny after trust in connection with the alleged misuse of funds furnished by a client was returned in Fulton superior court Tuesday afternoon in favor of Attorney Fred E. Harrison.

Attorney Harrison was under indictment for misappropriation of $150 furnished him by J. H. Kirby, Jr., to pay fines imposed on Kirby in the recorder's court. Judge Humphries directed the verdict following a strong defense by ex-Governor Hugh M. Dorey and H. A. Allen, Atlanta attorneys, who were employed by Harrison as counsel.

Kirby was arrested in Atlanta some time ago on a charge of passing a forged check and employed Attorney Harrison as counsel. Money was obtained for the defense both from J. B. Kirby, the father of the boy, and J. H. Burke.

The indictment heard Tuesday was brought on complaint of Mr. Burke. Another indictment rests against Attorney Harrison of the same nature, involving the misuse of $200. This charge is preferred by the boy's father.

The defense showed that the sum of money Attorney Harrison was charged with misappropriating had been used legally and in the interest of Kirby's case.

F. E. Fenn, assistant superintendent of the local Pinkerton Detective agency, was adjudged Tuesday morning in contempt of court by Judge John D. Humphries, after his failure to appear as witness in the trial of Attorney Harrison.

THREE TULSANS HELD ON CHARGES OF RIOT

Tulsa, Okla., September 11.—Riot charges were filed today against three more Tulsa county citizens and for the second time within a week Owasso, little village in the eastern part of the county, became involved in the military investigation of floggings.

The men accused are Lee Willis, J. E. Moore and J. B. Swift, all of Owasso. They are charged with having whipped W. H. Craighead, the night of July 1, 1922.

The three accused floggers are in the custody of military officials and will be arraigned Wednesday morning. This is the second information in which Craighead has been the complaining witness. The other riot charge was filed against C. E. Dixon, Owasso banker, John Doe, Richard Roe, and several other unnamed persons. It is understood that the charge against Dixon and the charge filed today grew out of the same alleged flogging party.

BOSWORTH'S REVIVAL IN CITY AUDITORIUM

The Friday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday night services of the Bosworth revival will be held at the city auditorium.

This announcement was made at the Tuesday night meeting by Rev. R. A. Forrest, pastor of the Gospel tabernacle on Capitol avenue, near Fair, under whose auspices the revival meetings for the last three weeks have been held.

The meeting tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock and the meeting Thursday night, will be held at the Gospel tabernacle.

The evangelist announced he would deliver his strongest sermon on divine healing at the Friday night meeting at the auditorium. He said he would speak from the subject "Why all who are prayed for are not healed."

His subject Tuesday night was "How everyone may receive the baptism of the Holy Spirit."

"We cannot measure the consequences for this life and for eternity of yielding to the Holy Spirit and letting Him have His way with us," he said. "It is the will of God that every Christian be baptized by Him. All Christians in the New Testament were baptized. Under the influence of such a baptism, Finney, the great

"Standard" PLUMBING FIXTURES

THE comfort and pleasure in a well equipped bathroom is particularly marked after the day's work or play.

The "Standard" Showroom maintains an exhibit of plumbing fixtures for the home, complete with designs of the better kind. You are invited to visit it, and will not be importuned to buy.

Standard Sanitary Mfg. Co.
Atlanta Showroom
281 Peachtree Street

Fixtures shown: Pembroke Bath, Laton Lavatory

See the Specials

Special Kodaks are just as good hand cameras as it is possible to make and any one of them will put prints in your album to prove it.

The 2C Special with Kodak Anastigmat lens f/6.3 and Kodamatic shutter is the latest model. It's here, of course.

Developing, printing and enlarging of the superior kind.

Eastman Kodak Co.
(Glenn Photo Stock Co.)
183 Peachtree St.

KODAK

Better Carry Me Along, Mr. Motorist

Besides saving you a whole lot of bother in waiting for change, or of carrying extra change along, I save you money when you buy me and just as long as you use me.

I'm The Handy Standard Oil Coupon Book

You get me at a discount and trade me, full face, at any of the following, or any other Standard Oil Company (Kentucky) Service Station, for Crown Gasoline and Polarine Oil, which insure you more mileage and more satisfaction for your money.

Ballwood Ave. and Means St. Buckhead.
Central Ave. & Mitchell St. S. Forsyth & Garnett.
Edgewood Ave. & Butler St. Boulevard and Highland Ave. Howell Mill Road.
James Street, No. 19. Pryor St. & Georgia Ave. Whitehall and Humphries. East Lake Drive & College Ave. Decatur.

Court House Square, Decatur. Marietta & Simpson Sts. Park & Lee Sts. Moreland & Euclid Aves. Spring & West Peachtree Place. West Peachtree & 10th St. No. 514 Peachtree St. Ponce de Leon & No. Boulevard. Porter Place & Peachtree. Walton St. Peachtree & Sixth Sts. Cascade & Gordon.

ATLANTA, GA.
and nearly everywhere you go.

Better Stick To The Standard
STANDARD OIL COMPANY
INCORPORATED

General Motors Trucks

Uninterrupted Service—Low Operating Cost

"The wonderful performance of our fleet of GMC trucks—which consists of one two-ton truck, two three and a half-ton trucks and three five-ton trucks—urges me to express my pleasure in having them part of our equipment. I may state that the operating cost is amazingly low. The two-range transmission, removable cylinder walls and the accessibility for readjustment and replacement are features, to my mind, which go to make truck construction as near 100% as is possible."

CRANE ICE CREAM CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

GMC trucks are built oversize in every part to insure extra long wear and continuous service. In addition, every wearing part is easily accessible and quickly replaceable. When repairs are eventually necessary, they can be made in a fraction of the usual time and at proportionately small expense.

Combined with these savings and adding further to GMC economy is the remarkably low operating cost of GMC trucks—a constant source of gratification to GMC owners.

GENERAL MOTORS TRUCK COMPANY
Division of General Motors Corporation
PONTIAC, MICHIGAN

GMC Truck chassis list at the factory as follows:
1-Ton, $1295; 2-Ton, $2375; 3 1/2-Ton, $3600;
5-Ton, $3950; Tax to be added.

Atlanta Branch
207 Ivy Street IVy 6411

"GMC trucks are seven steps ahead"

Protection for every need

FOR re-surfacing old roofs, Carey Asbestos Fibre Coating adds years of wear and safety to the roof.

For plugging holes, as a roof repair cement or waterproofing putty, Carey Noahs Pitch will do the business right.

For painting metal tanks and all exposed metal surfaces, Carey Black Asphalt Paint will give the best of results.

For hot smokestacks, boilers, etc., Carey Carbon Paint stands terrific heat, withstands weather and rust.

We stock the above materials and will be glad to furnish full information and prices.

STATE DISTRIBUTORS THE R.O. CAMPBELL COAL CO. IVY 5000
232-234 MARIETTA ST.
LIME, CEMENT, PLASTER, BRICK, SAND, GRAVEL, NAILS, HARDWOOD FLOORING & GENERAL BUILDING SUPPLIES.

Bituminous Coal Production Cost Shown in Report

Washington, September 11.—The cost of a ton of bituminous coal to a mine operator ranges from $1.20 to $2.80, the coal commission reported to President Coolidge today, submitting the latest installment of its report on the industry in compliance with instructions from Congress.

The cost study was based upon statistics from 296 mines located in four states, and covered operations in 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919. The commission reported that throughout that year were considered approximately uniform.

Examining in detail the various factors which make up the difference in cost of coal delivered at the mine mouth, the commission listed estimates of operations and certainty of coal supply as superlatives.

Economy of Full Time.
The advantage and economy of full-time operation is clearly indicated, the report said. "As between two similar mines, each having a cost of production of $2.20 per ton, working 25 days per month, the mine which enjoys the best working time under conditions of coal shortage and a strong market for coal will make the larger profits because of lower costs, or under conditions of poor market one may undersell the other and realize a profit, because with more days worked the cost will be lower."

No Notable Difference.
One day per week brought the difference up to 40 cents per ton. There is thus no notable difference in unit cost of production caused by short-time operation, whether this broken time be due to lack of transportation or lack of market. The real difference enters in the reduction in the base cost, which can and quite generally is reduced in times of inactive demand.

"It may be inquired, in view of this factor of cost of idle time, what effect on the country's coal bill the fact may have had that in the past 20 years the soft coal mines have worked an average of but 220 days, or about 72 per cent of full time. If the price paid by the consumer were cost of production or a fraction of cost, then the answer would be that the total cost to the country was about 8 per cent more than it would have been if few mines working full time had produced this coal."

Says Public Will Pay.

Gloversville, N. Y., September 11. Settlement of the anthracite suspension mine was characterized today by Byron R. Newton, former assistant secretary of the treasury, as "a patchwork which will cost the public about $35,000,000, of which Pennsylvania is the chief beneficiary."

His statement was made in an address before the New York State Coal Merchants' association, in convention here.

The public will pay from 75 cents to $1 more on each ton of coal, Mr. Newton said. "The cure rests with the public," he added.

Begin Probe.

Harrisburg, Pa., September 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Governor Pinchot's plans to safeguard anthracite coal consumers against increased prices were followed today by state agencies, which at his instance yesterday began an investigation of conditions governing the industry in Pennsylvania.

At the same time local unions of the United Mine Workers prepared for meetings at which delegates will be elected to a district convention in Scranton next Monday when the terms of the proposed new wage contract will be submitted for ratification. Favorable action by the convention will be followed by immediate resumption of mining operations.

Governor Pinchot proposes separate state investigations of means of preventing "gouging" of consumers, with a view to a personal conference later. With his plans under way, the governor left Harrisburg for a two weeks' holiday.

Inquiry Already Ordered.

Washington, September 11.—John Hays Hammond, chairman of the coal commission, issued a statement today pointing out that the inquiry into anthracite freight rates suggested by Governor Pinchot was ordered by the interstate commerce commission more than a month ago.

"The coal commission in its anthracite report issued July 9 to the president and to the congress," said Mr. Hammond, "recommended that the interstate commerce commission institute an inquiry into anthracite coal freight rates."

The interstate commerce commission on the next day, July 10, in response to the recommendation of the coal commission, ordered an investigation into this question and on August 31 fixed September 24 as the date on which hearings would begin.

FLAMES DESTROY BLECKLEY SCHOOL NEAR CLAYTON, GA.

Clayton, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Fire totally destroyed the Bleckley Memorial school building here at a late hour today. The flames were not discovered in time for any effective efforts to combat them, and the structure was doomed within a short time after the blaze had been discovered. None of the pupils was injured, although several were placed in peril as the fire quickly spread. Loss is estimated at several thousand dollars. It is not yet known whether the building will be replaced. The school was a private preparatory institution founded by the late Judge Logan Bleckley, of Clayton, who died several months ago.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. E. B. PRICE

Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Bradley Price, 80, who died at the residence, Emory drive, Monday afternoon, will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning from the Baptist Tabernacle. The board of deacons will act as honorary pallbearers and Rev. John W. Ham will officiate.

Mrs. Price came to Atlanta from Edgecomb county, North Carolina, in 1890 and affiliated with the Baptist church where she remained a member until her death.

She is survived by three sons, Oliver A. Price, of Philadelphia; John A. and Julius S., of San Francisco; Mrs. Dr. J. R. Duvall, of Dallas, and two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Riley and Miss Ella Price, of Atlanta.

Young mussels attach themselves to gills of fishes as parasites until old enough to form shells, then begin an independent existence.

CAMPBELL KILLING TO GRAND JURORS

Man Who Slew Son-in-Law Reiterates Defense of Self and Daughter as Cause.

A thorough investigation into the killing of W. C. Campbell, 35-year-old farmer of Stone Mountain and former police chief of Phoenix City, Ala., by his father-in-law, J. Monroe Gresham, 68, a farmer who lives about 200 yards from Campbell's home, Monday night.

W. C. Campbell, Stone Mountain farmer, who was shot to death Monday night by his father-in-law, J. Monroe Gresham, following an alleged attack by Campbell upon his wife.

was in progress Tuesday night under the direction of Claude S. Smith, solicitor general of the Stone Mountain circuit. It was rumored that the evidence will be presented to the grand jury today, although it was not definitely announced.

B. H. Burgess, Decatur attorney, was employed by Gresham early Tuesday. The two conferred throughout the day. It was reported that Attorney Burgess had demanded a preliminary hearing for his client Tuesday afternoon, but later abandoned this plan. He was engaged in a murder trial Tuesday afternoon in the DeKalb county courts.

Maintains Self Defense.

Gresham still maintains his first position, namely, that he shot in defense of his own life, as well as for protection of his daughter, Mrs. Campbell, and his wife, who had intervened during an alleged attack by Campbell upon Mrs. Campbell.

It was generally believed that the solicitor would be in readiness to put the case before the grand jury this morning. The three eye witnesses to the shooting, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Gresham and Campbell's 16-year-old son, together with several others familiar with events leading up to the shooting, were examined Tuesday.

The shooting occurred in the Campbell's side yard, about one mile from Stone Mountain. Mrs. Gresham and her daughter and Campbell's son were standing a few feet away as Gresham fired upon Campbell with a 12-gauge shotgun. The load tore off one side of his head. He died almost instantly.

Wife Supports Father.

Mrs. Gresham, who discussed the killing freely, stated that her father had been attracted to the scene by her screams during an alleged attack of Campbell upon her and her mother Monday night. Campbell is alleged to have threatened Mrs. Gresham's life as well as that of his wife. She stated that he held a large stick in his hand with which he threatened to beat her. He advanced upon Mr. Gresham, she said, with this stick, and as he did the latter fired. Mrs. Gresham corroborated the statement of her daughter.

Both men had been living near Stone Mountain for some time.

It was made known that Campbell had served a sentence in the DeKalb county chain-gang for murder, but was pardoned. He married Mrs. Campbell while he was a convict. It was stated.

The government granted the utmost facilities to the visiting Americans. All of those with whom the correspondent talked left Russia impressed with the stability of the government, though differing on the merits of its methods. During their short stay in Russia some of them failed to foreigners long residents in Russia and non-government Russians, but in consequence of the shortness of their visit they had to confine most of their talks to leading officials.

Some of the officials who discussed the situation with the American visitors expressed the opinion that there will be proposals in the next congress at Washington for some official American relations with Russia. Senator LaFollette was the most noncommittal of all the visitors. He declined to make any statement of his viewpoint until he arrived home. He said, however, that all doors here had been speedily opened to him and that it would be entirely wrong to advance the impression that he had curtailed his stay because he had not been impressed.

Paraffine and rubber become harder than soft steel under a pressure of 12,000 atmospheres.

ATLANTANS LEAVE FOR CONFERENCES ON TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. Carl C. Aven, Miss Rubie Busha, J. P. Faulkner, managing director of the Georgia Tuberculosis association, and B. H. Clark, new field secretary, left Atlanta Tuesday evening for Asheville to attend a two-day tuberculosis conference of workers from the ten southern states and reorganize the southern conference.

The party is to be joined by Dr. E. W. Glidden, superintendent of the state sanatorium at Alto, and Mrs. Marjorie C. McGehee, executive secretary of the Savannah association. The Asheville meeting was arranged by the managing director of the Georgia Tuberculosis association.

MAD DOG KILLED

Supposed Hobo Saves Man From Beast's Jaws.

A mad dog was killed, his intended victim escaped and a man represented to be a "globe-trotter" broke into the limelight as a hero Tuesday.

The drama was staged in the neighborhood of the stock yard on Market street. The near-victim of the mad canine was J. S. Bullard, and the "hobo hero" is reported to bear the name of Bruce McBride, whose lodging is "here and yonder."

But something did happen. Hundreds who watched the milking contest at the annual fair at Topeka, Monday, when Matilda competed with six other girls for first honors, will vouch for this.

While the other girls worked in nervous haste the champion was at ease. She even petted the cow which unknowingly was to share her honors later.

And at the end of four minutes Matilda's bucket weighed 11 3-4 pounds, and a new milking record had been established in the state. Twelve pounds of milk in six minutes was made by the champion's nearest competitor.

The shy little country miss was reluctant to talk about her victory. "I'm glad I won," she said. "I went into the contest to win. I go into everything that way. I wasn't nervous because of the confidence I had in my ability to beat the other girls."

The plain simple life is good enough for her, the champion milk maid declared.

"I live in the city?" she asked. "No, I wouldn't like it. I milk six cows every day. I didn't work harder at Topeka in the contest than I do on the farm."

Miss Herman's hands are well kept. Her fingers are slender but seem to embody strength. She uses very little powder and no rouge.

"I am a plain little farm girl and want to remain one. I don't want to paint and be some one I know I am not," she explained.

BROOKHAVEN TO VOTE ON BIG BOND ISSUE

Brookhaven, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—A special election will be held here Saturday, September 16 to vote on a proposed $300,000 school bond issue for the Cross Keys district. A rally will be held Friday night by proponents of the bonds, at the Pine Grove avenue school house.

GEORGETOWN WOMAN IS DEAD IN ALABAMA

Eufaula, Ala., September 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. Lucretia Atwell Crumley, 60, of Georgetown, Ga., died here Tuesday. Surviving children are Dr. Cope Crumley, of Leesburg; Dr. James Crumley, of Sylvester; Joe Crumley, Mrs. J. W. Castellor, Mrs. W. W. Bledsoe, of Georgetown, Ga.

Baseball rules of America have been translated into Spanish and printed by the government printing office in Yucatan for public distribution.

Mitchell, who was originally from Augusta, Ga., a baseball player, was killed in a local mill village on August 9, 1922, by R. Clayton Under-

Kansas Champion Milk Maid Will Remain on Farm

Berryton, Kan., September 11.—Miss Matilda Herman, 23 years old, shy and pretty, and the champion milkmaid of Kansas, was back on the farm Tuesday, milking the same six cows that she has milked for many months as if nothing had ever happened.

But something did happen. Hundreds who watched the milking contest at the annual fair at Topeka, Monday, when Matilda competed with six other girls for first honors, will vouch for this.

While the other girls worked in nervous haste the champion was at ease. She even petted the cow which unknowingly was to share her honors later.

And at the end of four minutes Matilda's bucket weighed 11 3-4 pounds, and a new milking record had been established in the state. Twelve pounds of milk in six minutes was made by the champion's nearest competitor.

The shy little country miss was reluctant to talk about her victory. "I'm glad I won," she said. "I went into the contest to win. I go into everything that way. I wasn't nervous because of the confidence I had in my ability to beat the other girls."

The plain simple life is good enough for her, the champion milk maid declared.

"I live in the city?" she asked. "No, I wouldn't like it. I milk six cows every day. I didn't work harder at Topeka in the contest than I do on the farm."

Miss Herman's hands are well kept. Her fingers are slender but seem to embody strength. She uses very little powder and no rouge.

"I am a plain little farm girl and want to remain one. I don't want to paint and be some one I know I am not," she explained.

Biggest Family Will Get Ribbon From Evangelist

Colonel Walt Holcombe, evangelist, declared from the pulpit Tuesday night that a blue ribbon will be presented the proud parents bringing the largest number of children to the "family night" services at Wesley Memorial church tonight. The evangelist recounted an instance in North Carolina when a proud father appeared in the church pew on such an occasion in company with 23 children.

One of the largest audiences to hear Colonel Holcombe was present Tuesday night. The service was arranged especially for young people and signaled the joining of the Christian Endeavor societies, the Baptist Young People's unions and Epworth leagues of Atlanta in support of the revival meetings which are now in progress.

The evangelist's talk Tuesday evening was taken from the 13th verse of Philippians.

"But Christ first in all things," he said. "If every society woman would be a Christian first and a society woman second, she wouldn't be a society woman for more than a second."

Baseball rules of America have been translated into Spanish and printed by the government printing office in Yucatan for public distribution.

Mitchell, who was originally from Augusta, Ga., a baseball player, was killed in a local mill village on August 9, 1922, by R. Clayton Underwood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

Lions Get Collars Of Lion Trade-Mark At Weekly Luncheon

Each member of the local Lions' club is the possessor of half a dozen brand-new Lion collars.

Of course Press Huddleston and Clarke Reynolds and other members of the Atlanta den of Lions would look a bit odd if they were to appear on the streets attired in neck apparel of the cast iron type which holds in leash the king of the jungle as the circus parades him before the public.

Know you, then, that the Lion collars so highly prized by the Lions are brand-new starched snow-white collars of the Sunday-go-to-meeting variety. They were donated to the Lions' club at its weekly luncheon Tuesday by Lion Collars and Shirts, Inc., of Troy, N. Y., through Frank W. Perkins, Atlanta manager.

HUGHES FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Greenwood, S. C., September 11.—A verdict of not guilty was returned at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon in the case of Berry R. Hughes, tried in court of general sessions here for complicity in the murder of Oscar Mitchell. The jury was out two hours.

Mitchell, who was originally from Augusta, Ga., a baseball player, was killed in a local mill village on August 9, 1922, by R. Clayton Underwood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

NEW CADILLAC CAR ON DISPLAY TODAY

Detroit, Mich., September 11.—(Special.)—Announcement was made today by H. H. Rice, president and general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company, of a new car, the V-63, equipped with a new V-type, ninety-degree, eight-cylinder engine, harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design. The car reveals many other fundamental improvements in chassis and bodies, to be shown for the first time Wednesday.

Cadillac engineers consider the new engine the most important contribution to motor car progress since the introduction by Cadillac of the first V-eight in 1914.

A Cadillac system of mechanically operated four-wheel brakes and new bodies of exceptional comfort and graceful lines, are other leading features. The factory is producing the new models on a large schedule and deliveries will be made immediately.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

Biggest Family Will Get Ribbon From Evangelist

Colonel Walt Holcombe, evangelist, declared from the pulpit Tuesday night that a blue ribbon will be presented the proud parents bringing the largest number of children to the "family night" services at Wesley Memorial church tonight. The evangelist recounted an instance in North Carolina when a proud father appeared in the church pew on such an occasion in company with 23 children.

One of the largest audiences to hear Colonel Holcombe was present Tuesday night. The service was arranged especially for young people and signaled the joining of the Christian Endeavor societies, the Baptist Young People's unions and Epworth leagues of Atlanta in support of the revival meetings which are now in progress.

The evangelist's talk Tuesday evening was taken from the 13th verse of Philippians.

"But Christ first in all things," he said. "If every society woman would be a Christian first and a society woman second, she wouldn't be a society woman for more than a second."

Baseball rules of America have been translated into Spanish and printed by the government printing office in Yucatan for public distribution.

Lions Get Collars Of Lion Trade-Mark At Weekly Luncheon

Each member of the local Lions' club is the possessor of half a dozen brand-new Lion collars.

Of course Press Huddleston and Clarke Reynolds and other members of the Atlanta den of Lions would look a bit odd if they were to appear on the streets attired in neck apparel of the cast iron type which holds in leash the king of the jungle as the circus parades him before the public.

Know you, then, that the Lion collars so highly prized by the Lions are brand-new starched snow-white collars of the Sunday-go-to-meeting variety. They were donated to the Lions' club at its weekly luncheon Tuesday by Lion Collars and Shirts, Inc., of Troy, N. Y., through Frank W. Perkins, Atlanta manager.

HUGHES FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

Greenwood, S. C., September 11.—A verdict of not guilty was returned at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon in the case of Berry R. Hughes, tried in court of general sessions here for complicity in the murder of Oscar Mitchell. The jury was out two hours.

Mitchell, who was originally from Augusta, Ga., a baseball player, was killed in a local mill village on August 9, 1922, by R. Clayton Underwood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

wood, who was sentenced to life imprisonment after trial in sessions court here. Hughes was trial at the same time, the state charging that the slaying was done with his pistol, and a mistrial was ordered in the case.

ATLANTA SCHOOLS BEGIN REAL WORK

Classwork began in all grammar schools of the city Tuesday morning, and during Wednesday practically all seating arrangements and class schedules will be completed, according to school officials.

M. E. Coleman, in charge of registration for grammar grades, states that official figures on opening day have not been compiled, but will be ready within a day or two.

More than 95 per cent of the pupils in the senior high schools last term have enrolled for the term just beginning, according to H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools.

The enrollment at Tech High school was the greatest on opening day, a total of 1,117 boys registering for the term. This number was but one more than the Girls' High school enrollment. At Boys' High school, 554 students enrolled and at Commercial High school a total of 1,160 were registered.

GEORGIANS TO ATTEND WEEVIL CONFERENCE

Governor Walker received a telegram Tuesday from C. G. Rivers, president of the Louisiana State Bankers' association, asking that a Georgia delegation be named to attend a meeting of the National Weevil Conference, which will be held in New Orleans on September 25 and 26. Methods of fighting the weevil will be discussed, the telegram said. Governor Walker said he would name delegates this week.

Recipe

#12

Rice Cheese Fondue

You will say this is delicious, if Kraft Cheese is used.

One cup boiled rice, two table-spoons milk, four eggs, 1/2 lb. Kraft American Cheese—rubbed through grater, 1/2 cup butter, salt and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Heat the milk and rice together in a double boiler, add remaining ingredients and cook slowly until cheese is melted. Serve on toasted crackers or toast slices of bread. Food value about 1200 calories.

A varieties: American, Pimento, Swiss and Brick, sold by the tin, pound or loaf

8 VARIETIES IN TINS

KRAFT IN LOAVES

KRAFT IN TINS

Look for This Label

DRINK OR DRUG

POISONING requires ELIMINATION. The Zonite treatment acts as an ANTIDOTE to these poisons, creates a healthy blood and drives out the poisons. No Hysterics used. Dr. J. H. Conway, 10 years with the Zonite, in charge Zonite Institute, 220 Woodward Ave., Atlanta, Ga. (4-97).

Skin Eruptions

Many forms of eczema and other skin eruptions yield readily to Zonite.

Skin troubles induced by systemic disorders should receive the attention of a physician.

Zonite NON-POISONOUS

Manicure and Toiletware sets in the new models, engine-turned and engraved, are distinctly handsome and useful Gifts That Last.

We want you to come in and let us have the pleasure of showing you the latest designs in Sterling Silver Toiletware.

If out of Atlanta, write for twenty-eighth annual catalogue.

Sterling Silver Toiletware

MAIER & BERKELE, Inc.,

Gold and Silversmiths,
31 WHITEHALL STREET,
Established 1887

GIFTS THAT LAST

Ten Officially Hanged in State, Is 1922 Report

Officially, only ten people met their death by hanging in the state of Georgia last year, 1922, inclusive of both legal executions and illegal hangings, or lynchings.

These figures, while they are believed far too low, particularly in the legal hangings, are the total of such deaths which have been properly reported to the state bureau of vital statistics.

If there were any others who died at the end of a rope, either their bodies have never been buried, or the internment has been illegal. For, under the laws of Georgia, a person cannot be legally buried without the filing of a certificate of death, giving the cause, and the securing of a burial permit.

Of the legal hangings, two were in Fulton county, one white male and one negro male, and one negro male was hanged in each of Hart, Morgan and Wilkinson counties.

Illegal hangings, in each case the victim being a negro male, took place in Barrow, Columbia, Miller, Johnson and Monroe counties.

The department of vital statistics has been unable to check these figures through any other state department, both the prison commission and the governor's office not having any record of cases where no appeal for clemency is made.

SATTERFIELD TO FACE TRIAL FOR LIFE TODAY

J. B. Satterfield will face trial in the Fulton county superior court this morning for the killing of his brother-in-law, R. H. Hart, in Atlanta, on December 22, 1921. It was announced Tuesday by Solicitor-General John Boykin that the state's case against Satterfield has been completed and that the trial will be held at the opening of court. Attorney Murphy Holloway, representing Satterfield, said he expected to be ready for trial, but refused to divulge the nature of the defense he would make.

Dr. W. H. LaPrade, Jr., To Speak Wednesday At First Methodist

Dr. W. H. LaPrade, Jr., presiding elder of the north Atlanta district, will speak at the First Methodist church Wednesday night at 8 o'clock on "The Interesting Facts of Atlanta Methodism."

This meeting will take the place of the regular Wednesday night prayer service at the church, and the public is invited to attend.

Immediately following the close of the meeting the third quarterly conference of the north Atlanta district will be held.

Dr. LaPrade is one of the most forceful platform speakers in the North Georgia conference. It is said, and members of the First Methodist church are looking forward to an enjoyable meeting Wednesday night.

TECH NIGHT SCHOOL OPENS REGISTRATION

Registration for the Georgia Tech night school, which begins the fall session September 26, has been begun at 18 Auburn avenue. Professor Thomas W. Noel, of the Tech school of commerce, announced Tuesday. Offices are open to students for registration from 12:30 to 1:30 o'clock each day. Classes will be held from 6:45 to 8:45 o'clock in the evening at 18 Auburn avenue.

REQUISITION ASKED FOR LAW VIOLATORS

Applications for requisition papers for Douglas Scurry, said to be in Ohio, wanted in Mitchell county on a charge of violating the prohibition law, and D. C. Weaver and C. M. Joiner, reported to be in Florida, both wanted in Mitchell on a charge of violating the prohibition law, were received Tuesday by Governor Walker. Decision on the applications will be reached later, it was stated.

CAPTURED CONVICT CONFESSES MURDER

Chicago, September 11.—John E. Hale, who escaped from the Joliet penitentiary on March 29, today faced a charge of murder following a confession by him to detectives that he had shot and killed Henry H. Rhodes, wealthy dry-goods merchant in this city, on a lonely cross road near Evanston three years ago. His accomplice, he said was Harry H. Ward, hanged two years ago for two other murders.

Hale was arrested here a few days ago in connection with several robberies. While being questioned by detectives, he said he suddenly confessed the Rhodes murder, which had never previously been solved by the police.

MRS. EVANS' TRIAL TODAY IN DECATUR

Mrs. Hazeline Evans, charged with murder in connection with the death of her husband, W. W. Evans, Atlanta policeman, will go on trial this morning in Decatur.

It was predicted that the case would rest in the hands of the jury before the day ended. Both sides were apparently prepared to begin the trial, and Mrs. Evans expressed herself as being anxious for the case to come on.

She told her story in the belief that she will be vindicated. Mrs. Evans will base her defense on the contention that her husband's death was an accident and that the pistol from which two bullets were discharged into his head and neck was in his hands.

The state will attempt to prove that Mrs. Evans shot her husband deliberately, following a quarrel.

Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, will preside at the trial.

Jewish New Year Celebrated Here At Synagogues

The Hebrew New Year, Rosh Hashana, was observed Monday by the Congregation Or-Yeshua at the Jewish Temple on South Pryor street and at 236 Central avenue with impressive ceremonies at special services. The worship continued through Tuesday.

Rosh Hashana is one of the two major holidays on the Orthodox Jew's calendar, the other being Sukkot, which will be celebrated on September 19 and 20. Jews the world over celebrated it.

A special junior service, with Rabbi David Marx officiating, was held Tuesday morning celebrating the holiday.

Life With Shiek After Marriage Pointed in Court

London, September 11.—A question which has suggested itself to every reader of these columns—what happens to marriages with sheiks from the point where the novel ends—has been answered in the trial of Princess Fanny, charged with the murder of her husband, the Sybarite sheik, Prince Fahmy of Cairo.

All the mystic atmosphere of the east pervaded the Old Bailey Tuesday when Sir Edward Marshall Hall, opening the defense, described what he termed the "curious" and "fascinating" life of the woman with which Fahmy had wooed the French girl who became his wife.

Fahmy, according to Sir Edward, painted a picture of a life of yachts, jewels and palaces, all of them waiting for the beautiful French girl should she marry him.

"But after marriage all restraint ceased," Sir Edward said as he developed the tale of the Fahmy romance. "From a kind of plausible and attentive lover, Fahmy became a ferocious beast. His wife discovered for the first time that he not only had a violent temper, but was a villain. From that day she has lived under conditions that make me shudder."

Readers who have closed their books on the happy fade-out of romance in the snugly spaces received further enlightenment on the unwritten future of shiek adventure when the attorney for the princess alleged that Fahmy had made her "practically a prisoner" during the night of a menacing host of black servants in the prince's employ.

Fahmy, Sir Edward charged, kicked and bruised his wife into that state of obedience which the black man wants from the woman who becomes his chattel. "One of Fahmy's favorite threatening words expressed itself in the pastime of firing a pistol over his wife's head, the attorney said.

Swore to Kill Her. Marshall Hall told the jury that last January the Egyptian prince had sworn an oath on the koran that he would kill the princess. The threatened princess, the next day, to visit her lawyer and leave a sealed statement to be published upon her death.

This romance of the east, unfolded by the princess' attorney reached another dramatic point in July when she received an anonymous letter warning her against traveling to Egypt with Fahmy. Her informant warned: "A journey means a possible accident—a poisoned flower—a subtle weapon—something neither seen nor heard."

On the night of the prince's mysterious death, Fahmy tried to strangle the princess. In defense she fired through the window. Sir Edward explained, then, thinking there had been only one shot in the pistol, she turned it on Fahmy and pulled the trigger. Thus ended the story of shiek love—in real life.

UNCLE SAM'S BUDGET BETTER AND BETTER

Washington, September 11.—The first two months of government operation in the current fiscal year has given the budget bureau renewed hope that its previous estimates of increasing receipts and reduced expenditures for the 12 months, ending June 30 next, will be carried out. Director Lord declared today that receipts for July and August were greater by $19,500,000 than for the same two months last year while a reduction of nine million dollars had been accomplished in expenditures.

The budget director said he was not entirely satisfied, however, with the rate of reduction in expenditures although the decrease had been substantial. He reminded department heads and others that the administration program was to hold the outgo for the current fiscal year within three billion dollars, exclusive of public debt retirements and postal expenditures. Routine governmental withdrawals from the treasury, he explained, must be kept at the minimum if the purpose is to be accomplished.

Supreme Court of Georgia

Judgments Reversed. Fudget v. Gaddler et al.; from Floyd superior court. Harris v. B. Banks, Porter & Mahone, contra. Roberts v. Groover et al.; from Brooks superior court. Judge W. E. Thomas. John E. Morris, Jr. John T. Norris, Branch Snow, for plaintiff in error. Bennett & Hixon v. Hinkle; from Bibb. Bank of Chastawh v. Hargraves Construction Company; from Murray.

Rehearing Granted. Morris v. Clark, Warden; from Fulton. Harrell, contra.

Rehearing Denied. Cochran v. Groover, from Cobb. National Council J. O. U. A. M. v. Bopworth; from Fulton.

Corfu and British Prestige

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS

Washington, D. C., September 12.—

In the last analysis the Corfu episode must be recognized as a consequence of the Franco-British break over the Ruhr. Like the onrush of the victorious Turk into Europe just one year ago, and like his subsequent and incidental defence of Europe, the Italian performance results from an accurate appreciation of the fact that although many nations will disapprove none will venture to defy disapproval to the point of war.

Thus, Italy may hope to draw from her action some of the profits and most of the prestige which fell to the Turk for his defiance of what was once the concert of Europe.

Italy has attacked Greece for a double reason. In the first place, Greece is a commercial rival, a political danger and the single considerable obstacle to Italian aspirations in the Near East, and in the second place, Greece has been the object of British ever since the world war. In analyzing situations like that which has just developed at the foot of the Adriatic it is essential to discover, first of all, what is the underlying interest of the aggressor nation.

Thus, British concern over the Turkish affair last year was in the main due to the fact that the most vital communications of the British empire lie along the eastern end of the Mediterranean. Anything which affects the security of this area is of the utmost importance for all British statesmanship. French solicitude for north African interests is precisely because of the present French concern over Tangier.

Dream of Italy. Now, it has been the dream of a restored and reunited Italy to establish in the Near East that supremacy which has twice fallen to the inhabitants of the Italian peninsula, once under Rome and again under Venice. The bulk of the inhabitants of the British empire dwell in India, second only to that of Britain.

But while Great Britain and France were Atlantic as well as Mediterranean sea powers, Italy is a purely inland sea and, although the heir to the Roman tradition, the Savoy monarchy saw itself at best the third power in strength and in position.

To restore the balance a little, Italy went to Tripoli more than a decade ago, waging war upon Turkey, indeed opening a series of conflicts which, through the two Balkan affairs, was to lead to the world war itself. But the Tripolitan venture was neither very successful nor very profitable. France and Britain had already divided between themselves the most and the best of north Africa and Italy acquired little but unhealthy deserts infested with violent Senussi. Moreover, to hold this Libyan shore cost much in men and money and when Italy's title to the world war she had to retire to the coast, abandoning the interior to the wild Arab and Berber inhabitants.

But long before this happened Italy had turned her face eastward, her dream was to establish her control over all of the eastern shore of the Adriatic and to dominate the Aegean from the Anatolian coast and the Turkish islands, including Rhodes and the Dodecanese, which she had seized as a part of the booty of her Turkish struggle.

Despite all her ante-bellum arrangements, however, Greece saw the best prizes escape her. Jugo-Slavia came down to the Adriatic coast with the backing of Italy's allies demanded Fiume and even questioned Italian title to Trieste. And although Fiume had so far escaped the Serbs, Italian possession remains incomplete and open for Zeno, the Southern Slavs.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

be a man's task by comparison with taking Corfu from the Greeks in the existing situation. And Corfu not only gave Italy control of the Adriatic, but at the same time it struck directly at British interest and British prestige, because Corfu in Italian hands gravely compromises Malta, and because Corfu had once been British, and by giving it to Greece, Britain had pledged herself to maintain its neutrality.

Supremacy Challenged. Contrary to all her hopes and purposes, then, Italy has seen rise on the opposite shore of the Adriatic a Slav state which may, at no distant date, challenge Italian supremacy in the Adriatic as it already contests Italian title to such towns as have fallen to Italy as a result of the collapse of the Dual Monarchy. Moreover, although the Italians had hoped, with the approval of Europe, to transform the somewhat sketchy state of Albania into an Italian protectorate, the Skiptars have shown a violent determination to accept Italian protection and forcibly expelled Italian troops from Valona and its vicinity where Italy planned to construct a Gibraltar to control the outlet of the Adriatic.

In the Aegean Italian fortunes have not been on the whole more conspicuously fortunate. Promised Smyrna by her secret bargains with France and Britain, Italy has seen Greece push in to forestall her. The Greek route to the Dardanelles, expelled, they were replaced not with Italians but by Turks. While France has acquired Syria and Britain Palestine and Mesopotamia under mandates, Italy has been forced to evacuate her sphere about Adalia and has gained nothing but the right to continue in occupation of Rhodes and the Dodecanese islands. Greek population and in tradition and held by Italy against the will of the inhabitants and in defiance of the sense of justice of all mankind.

But what has hurt and angered the Italians more than the relatively insignificant regard paid to Italian desires for the comparative slender reward for the truly great Italian contributions to the common victory has been the deliberate attempt of the British to construct a strong Greek state, on the basis of Pan-Hellenic aspirations and traditions and to make this greater Greece the soldier of Britain, blocking the pathway to all Italian expansion in the Aegean.

In backing Greece, Great Britain did to Austria in supporting Serbia before the world war. Serbia blocked the Austrian pathway alike to Constantinople and Salonica and challenged the Austrians' claim to exercise control in the Balkan peninsula. And Mussolini has struck at Britain through Greece, just as Berchthold struck at Russia through Serbia.

To understand all the fury and violence of Italian passion and the extent of Italian action you must perceive clearly that the consuming Italian ambition is eventually to gain supremacy in all the Mediterranean and in the eastern half to acquire control without delay. If Italy can not expand she is bound to suffocate with her rapidly increasing population already overcrowded in its narrow territory. Italy wants lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Taking Candy from Baby. If Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

Taking candy from a child would be a more fitting description of Italy's action. Italy was lands to colonize and they are discoverable in the Turkish provinces of Asia Minor facing the Aegean, she wants markets to serve and they, too, lie to the east of her.

Italy is to be a great power, and she means to be a great power, even more she believes that she already is such, then she must assert and maintain a virtual hegemony in the eastern Mediterranean. But she can not gain this, while Greece remains a considerable power, protected by the British and responsible to the British leadership. For the British still dominate the Mediterranean and defended by Britain, Greece can yet, despite her recent defeat, realize her aspiration, which is to restore Hellenic rule in precisely the lands Italy covets.

Like Austria, Italy chose her moment to make her gesture with extreme care. Britain and France were quarreling over the Ruhr and bidding for Italian support on the Rhine and in Morocco. Greece was exhausted as a consequence of her lost war with Turkey and her resources, slender at best, were taxed to the uttermost in care for nearly a million refugees driven out of Asia by the victorious Turk.

the present occupants. It is a mistake to regard Mussolini as personally a firebrand, leading an unwilling nation to war. The truth is that Mussolini represents faithfully the new Italy which desires to take her place among the great powers and to acquire foundations to empire like those now held by her more fortunate neighbors and rivals.

Mussolini's real difficulty, like that of the Kaiser a few years ago, lies in the fact that his designs, the aspirations of his nation, run counter to too many other nations. For to establish Italian supremacy in the Mediterranean it is necessary first to expel the British and second to conquer the French, while the Adriatic designs involve not alone Greece and Jugo-Slavia, but the whole of the little entente. That is why, if there were no Ruhr dispute France and Britain would now be acting together and why they are likely to act together in any event, if the real test comes.

Meantime if there had been no Ruhr there would have been no Corfu episode, but even if there had been no such incident Italian purposes would have continued to develop toward the logical and inevitable end of Mediterranean hegemony. In all human probability we shall escape war now, although there remain obvious dangers, but what Corfu means, is what Agadir meant, namely that one nation is steadfastly pursuing a policy which leads to war and will not abandon it either to avoid conflict or to escape the condemnation of the larger friction of public opinion the world over. Like Agadir, Corfu is a warning; it discloses a national purpose which previous international conflict.

(Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

EPWORTH LEAGUES HEAR WALT HOLCOMB

The Atlanta Epworth League union held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock at the Wesley Memorial church. After a brief business session, the meeting adjourned to allow the members to attend the evangelistic services

SECOND ROUND OF TENNIS MEETINGS COMPLETED

Viv Manning Trims Blake In Splendid Singles Bout, And Owens Is Easy Winner

First Round in Doubles Play Finished, Carey And Jack Caldwell Being Among The Victors, 6-1, 6-0.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

The annual Georgia State Tennis championship now being played on the East Lake courts has progressed into the third round of the singles and the first round of the doubles and is being played off with no particular upsets. The majority of the matches already played have been won in straight sets.

During the play Tuesday afternoon only two matches in the singles had to go into three sets before being decided and both of those came in the early part of the afternoon during the finishing of the second round play. The third round went off well and all of the matches were won in straight sets.

Probably the best match of the afternoon in the singles was between Viv Manning and Blake, in which Manning won out by scores of 6-4, 6-4. Both sets saw about the same play, with the tall Manning on the deciding end all of the time. Manning had perfect control in his placing and many points were won in this way. His service was good but was much better Monday afternoon.

The real feature match of the afternoon was in the doubles when Boyer and Ragdale went against Strickler and Wilmer. Boyer and Ragdale won the match 6-3, 6-2, and led the two youngsters on the deciding end all of the time. The score does not indicate the closeness of the play, as each team played some remarkable tennis.

"Hag" Owens easily defeated Davis, 6-1, 6-2, in the third round of play. Yenawine, the young Georgia Tech freshman, had a good set with R. W. Courts in the second round of an unfinished Monday match. Yenawine was especially good in his service and scored many points in this way.

Jake Orr and Ed Carter, two veterans, won an easy doubles match from Gilreath and McCord, younger opponents.

The scores of the second round follow:

Rosenberg defeated Mansfield, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.
Clerk defeated Reagan, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.
Yenawine defeated R. W. Courts, 6-3, 6-4.

Francis Hunter Wins Net Battle Against Lacoste

Few Upsets Encountered in Second Round of National Tennis Championship Tournament.

Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, September 11.—Francis Hunter, former Cornell tennis champion and finalist in the world's championship tournament at Wimbledon this year, won the most sensational match of the second round of play in the national lawn tennis singles championship on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club, this afternoon. Trailing behind Rene Lacoste, the French school boy, in the first set, Hunter, by a sensational rally pulled out the victory in a five set match. The scores were 1-6, 6-2, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Lacoste, with his usual elimination of the French star, reduced the field of foreigners who will enter the third round tomorrow to four players. Of the twelve, only three are left, cause through their matches today and continue in the tournament, all four members of the Davis cup team are included.

William T. Tilden, U. national singles champion, romped to a victory in straight sets over Cedric Major of New York. William J. Johnston, world's champion, removed Jose Alonso, of Spain, from the tournament; Vincent Richards, of Yonkers, N. Y., won from Harvey Glavin, of Los Angeles, and R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, advanced through default of Claude M. Butler, Mexican champion.

The four foreigners who won their matches were B. I. C. Norton, the South African; Manuel Alonso, the Spanish; Vincent Richards, the American; and Cedric Major, the English.

Many Sensations. Four of the 16 matches were packed with sensations. In addition to the startling victory of Hunter, the triumph of Vincent Richards over Snodgrass, who had defeated him a month ago at Newport; the ease with which Tilden despatched his rival in 45 minutes of play, allowing him only two games, and the ruthless manner in which Manuel Alonso put down Ian D. McInnes, youthful Davis cup finalist from Australia, stood out as features of the day.

Hunter owed his victory over Lacoste to a brilliant rally in the fifth set.

Manuel Alonso's victory was sensational. Pitted against a Davis cup player, the Spaniard had all his shots working ruthlessly and cut his opponent down with only two games. Alonso's marvelous soft shot for short, found McInnes deep in the court. When the Australian tried to come to mid-court, Alonso slashed past him, drove with great precision and ended with a flourish.

R. I. C. Norton, champion of South Africa, won as he was from Philip Neer, California collegian, in three straight sets. Norton did not allow his opponent a game in the first set, then he played to save himself from later matches.

Coach Clarence Rawson, formerly star athlete at the University of Georgia, is now directing the early training of the freshmen football candidates at Davidson.

Five games are on the 1923 freshmen schedule. Of the five gridiron battles, only one is booked for some, that the opening game of the season with Furman University freshmen here October 6.

The full schedule follows: October 6—Furman freshmen at Davidson.
October 13—North Carolina State freshmen at Pinehurst during the Sandhill fair.
October 19—University of South Carolina freshmen at Columbia, R. C. November 10—Haworth freshmen at Spartanburg, S. C.
November 30—Oak Ridge Institute freshmen at Winston-Salem.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Pelicans Have Fine Hurlers To Use Against Cats

HORNSBY MAY GO TO GIANTS

St. Louis, September 11.—Reorganization of the St. Louis Cardinals following the sale of Roger Hornsby, minority of the team, and possibly other players, is expected within a few days as the aftermath of a fight between Hornsby and Manager Branch Rickey, said to have occurred in New York recently.

Rickey, it is believed, will accept a standing offer from John J. McGraw, of the New York Giants, of $200,000 for Hornsby. The Chicago Cubs are also after the Cardinal slugger.

Rickey gave warning of a "shake-up" upon the team's return from its eastern trip last week and released Eddie Ainsmith, veteran catcher, for failure to catch a train in Chicago.

Details of the alleged fight were made public by the St. Louis star. Hornsby told Rickey he had changed his mind about a barnstorming tour at the end of the season, and Rickey told him that he was a very forcible man, the star said.

The manager is said to have hit Hornsby on the cheek, the player countering with a right to Rickey's nose.

A previous misunderstanding over signals between the two was also reported.

Upper Half—F. K. Boland, Jr., vs. R. W. Courts, R. Knox vs. J. Regan, R. A. Rice vs. A. LeCraw, T. M. Wilmer vs. J. T. Chambers, 6-2, 6-3.

Lower Half—Charles W. Wynne vs. W. A. Parker, Jr., W. L. Carey vs. Ed Van Winkle, E. M. Grant, Jr., vs. C. P. Rosser, M. F. Rickenbacher vs. E. Nolan.

Play will commence Wednesday afternoon.

Play in ladies' singles will commence Wednesday afternoon and schedule is as follows: Miss Alice Lowndes vs. Miss Marion Bonnell, Miss Charles Ewing drew a bye, Miss Peggy Porter vs. Miss Frances Kern, Miss Mary Hutchinson vs. Helen Holiz, Miss Ruth McCullough vs. Miss Emily Mayberry.

Play in mixed doubles will commence Thursday afternoon and drawing is as follows: Miss Alice Lowndes vs. F. C. Owens vs. Miss Corday Rice vs. A. Rice, Miss Elizabeth Hutchinson and Nat Thornton vs. Miss Emily Mayberry and A. M. Kennedy.

Coste to his resourcefulness, physical condition and his courage in persisting in playing a net game in the face of his defeat in the fourth set.

The point scores—First set: Jean R. LaCoste, of France, 4-14 4-4 2-6 6-3 1-6 2-11.

Second set: Lacoste, 1-6 2-11 2-6 6-3 1-6 2-11.

Third set: Lacoste, 4-10 3-6 5-10 1-6 2-11 2-6 6-3 1-6 2-11.

Fourth set: Lacoste, 4-10 3-6 5-10 1-6 2-11 2-6 6-3 1-6 2-11.

Fifth set: Lacoste, 4-10 3-6 5-10 1-6 2-11 2-6 6-3 1-6 2-11.

Manuel Alonso's victory was sensational. Pitted against a Davis cup player, the Spaniard had all his shots working ruthlessly and cut his opponent down with only two games.

Alonso's marvelous soft shot for short, found McInnes deep in the court. When the Australian tried to come to mid-court, Alonso slashed past him, drove with great precision and ended with a flourish.

Tilden's triumph was the work of a master of the game. Though opposed by a player far below his caliber, and playing a leisurely game in the back court, the tall champion showed marvelous command of his deep forehand shot.

William J. Johnston, America's second ranking player, was a slow starter against Jose Alonso, of Spain, but after the first set the Californian drove with great precision and ended with a flourish.

R. I. C. Norton, champion of South Africa, won as he was from Philip Neer, California collegian, in three straight sets. Norton did not allow his opponent a game in the first set, then he played to save himself from later matches.

Coach Clarence Rawson, formerly star athlete at the University of Georgia, is now directing the early training of the freshmen football candidates at Davidson.

Five games are on the 1923 freshmen schedule. Of the five gridiron battles, only one is booked for some, that the opening game of the season with Furman University freshmen here October 6.

The full schedule follows: October 6—Furman freshmen at Davidson.
October 13—North Carolina State freshmen at Pinehurst during the Sandhill fair.
October 19—University of South Carolina freshmen at Columbia, R. C. November 10—Haworth freshmen at Spartanburg, S. C.
November 30—Oak Ridge Institute freshmen at Winston-Salem.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Boy Scout Rally. Albany, Ga., September 11.—(Special.) A district rally of Boy Scouts will be held in Tifton, October 19, 20, 21, the second to be held this year by the Noxahucan council.

Who's Who in Amateur Golf Meet

Jesse Guilford and Bob Gardner

NO. 5—BOB GARDNER.

Were one to stick closely to the figures, serious consideration could not be given the chances of Bob Gardner, who, like Evans, has twice won the amateur. Gardner is a born competitor and quite capable of arising to any situation facing him during this competition, although he has given little attention to play these past few years.

Gardner has rarely been seriously considered before previous championships. His first victory in 1900 was a distinct surprise, and when he came through again in 1915, against a field containing Jerry Travers with four titles to his credit and a recent win in the national open, as well as Quimet and Evans without having given much time to golf that year, considerable proof was offered to the effect that Gardner is a natural golfer.

There is a strong possibility of his doing the unexpected. Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

Again, Gardner showed these same qualities when in England a few years ago representing the U. S. G. A. in a rules conference. Being present, he took a liking to the British amateur title and his effort only to lose to the Englishman in the final match when Cyril Toller defeated him by sinking a long putt for a birdie 2.

There is nothing to go by to indicate just how Gardner is playing this year. He was captain of our Walker cup team in England and figured in a win in every match played, but he was quite off during the British amateur. This means nothing in the case of a player who has such a pronounced habit of doing the unexpected.

Gardner is a long driver and is especially strong in the long game, which will help him in the final round.

R. M. A. CADET TEAM STARTS

Larry Gilbert's Smartness May Aid Southern Circuit Champs in Approaching Tilt

Gainesville, Ga., September 11.—Riverside Military academy, state prep football champions of last year, this season will begin practice with out six regulars of 1922 who are lost to the team through graduation.

Rosenfeld, one of the most brilliant halfbacks in prep circles last season, will enter the University of Alabama. Hatcher, the other halfback, also a star, goes to the University of Georgia. Sanders enters Vanderbilt; Grimes, the University of North Carolina; Livingston and DeVane, the University of Florida; and Scholl, the University of Pittsburgh.

Every member of the football team that graduated has qualified academically for entrance into a higher institution, according to Colonel Sandy Bear, president of the school.

Regulars from last year's squad who will be present when practice starts later this month are Vaden, R. Williams, and Forsythe.

To this number may be added seven or eight second string players of last year, among them being Jennings, Smith, Autrey, Holt and Johns.

The University of Georgia Freshmen, University of Florida Freshmen and a number of preparatory schools in the south have been invited to play against the Riverside team.

Captain Cunningham, who for nine years was head coach at the University of Georgia, will be assisted by Riverside this fall by Captain Jerry Bunting, a four letter man from the University of Virginia, and other faculty officers.

There can be no doubt that the "Gun," as they call him down Boston way, has the winning stuff for the Riverside team.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

For several years, the Riverside team has been a power in the Southern League. This year, the Riverside team will be a power in the Southern League.

Fort Worth Outfit Will Have Big Edge in Swatting Department and Fielding Of Club Is Very Good.

New Orleans, September 11.—(Special.)—Texas fans are going to see the smartest Southern League ball club sent to Fort Worth to battle for the Class A series when Larry Gilbert and his New Orleans Pelicans take the "Cats" in the 1923 scramble.

Gilbert, coming through with a pennant-winner in his first start as a manager, is perhaps the best man in the Southern association in the adoption of versatile methods to win a game.

Pulling the unexpected hit and run when most managers depend upon the sacrifice, has won game after game for the Fort Worth outfit that is well out of a standard star and one of the few listed as such to win a pennant.

Gilbert will show a fairly good trio of 300 hitters against Fort Worth. Pitchers in Tucker, Bogart and himself, all outfielders. Tucker has a swat mark of 320; Bogart, 310, and Gilbert, 300.

Ready catchers, in an emergency, are perhaps the best in the Southern association in the adoption of versatile methods to win a game.

Sharp defense. Base runners. Smart defense. Ready catchers. In an emergency, are perhaps the best in the Southern association in the adoption of versatile methods to win a game.

And last, but not the least, the mixing 'em up system when the opposition is not looking for a surprise.

There are two good southpaws, too. In Robinson, former Little Rock center, and in the pitcher, who is an expert in the league. Winn, pitching 68 balls against 30 Nashville hitters in nine innings, established a record two months ago.

Old faces known in the Texas circuit comprise the major part of the Pelicans. Two singles with Pichler, a double with Ewoldt, with Fort Worth and Shreveport last season: Knaupp, once of San Antonio, and last but not least, Joe Martina, the old-time Houston hero.

The Pelicans, however, are not the flashy type. The secret of their success is that of the pitchers and their guessing the hitters. As a pair they are perhaps the most cunning men in the league, though taking singly, other than a great hitting average than either man.

New Orleans, all pepped up for the Fort Worth series, anticipates sending a splendid delegation to root for the Pelicans. For several months the fans have been busy calling upon business interests and civic organizations to be represented at Fort Worth, the argument being that the Pelicans would duplicate their performance of the past three years and win the championship.

If just half of the plans already regarded claimed materialize, the Pelicans probably will win 12 or 14 series, as two trains of 10 cars each.

TEXANS INSTALL CATS AS FAVORITES. Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 11.—(Special.)—Although the Panthers are the favorites in the series, it is not impossible for the Bears, Steers and Spudders to nose them out in the 1923 Texas league pennant chase.

KARR FINDS LOOKOUTS EASY AND ATLANTA TANS WIT

Brown Hurls Charlotte to Victory Over Peaches

Hornet Pitcher Very Good In Pinches and Wins, 3 to 1; Manager Coffey Hits Homer

Cumiskey's Fielding for Macon Aids Peaches In Holding Down Charlotte's Score; Carlisle Gets Homer.

The Charlotte Hornets hopes of winning the post-season and thereby the championship for 1923 of the South Atlantic association were strengthened today when they defeated Macon for the second consecutive game, 3 to 1.

Charlie Brown, today, like Lee Bolt yesterday, pitched almost invincible ball, and in the field today, as on yesterday, his team-mates played errorless ball, at times giving him brilliant support.

Macon secured her lone tally in the seventh inning when Jack Coffey hooked a low one and drove it over the fence for the circuit.

Charlotte scored in the opening frame when Knappp walked and Hoblitzel laced one to right field fence for two bags and Knappp tallied.

The locals' second tally came in the sixth when Hoblitzel hit to Smith. Paschal walked, Carlisle sacrificed both base runners and Cumiskey dropped Swartz' throw with Hoblitzel safe at third. With the bases full and none out, Kennedy hit to right centerfield and Hoblitzel scored, but Paschal was out at third. Then Cumiskey started a fast double play and the Hornets were through for this inning.

Charlotte made her last run when Carlisle drove over right centerfield fence.

Cumiskey started two very fast double plays that cut the Hornets runners from the paths of the home plate. Both teams played championship ball in the field.

Swartz, the losing moundman, like Hope in the first game, also a loser, pitched excellent ball, but his team was unable to bring him and his team to a win.

Harvard Starts Football Practice Week From Today

Filling Charlie Buell's Shoes Is Hardest Job Facing Staff of Coaches at Cambridge.

Cambridge, September 11.—(Special.)—The Harvard football season starts one week from Wednesday, when candidates are requested to report to Head Coach Robert T. Fisher and Captain Charles J. Hubbard.

With prospects for a heavy, experienced rush line, coupled with the possession of fast veteran ends, the team has very little brilliant material of demonstrated strength in the backfield.

The training season precedes the college year by one week, according to the agreement entered into by Harvard, Princeton and Yale, in order to lessen the importance of football as a collegiate activity. The first game is set for October 1, at the Rhode Island State. The schedule is not so formidable as a number of other college ends, but Dartmouth, Princeton, and Yale assure the Crimson no end of an argument.

Behind the line Harvard will be without the resourceful 1922 captain, Charles Buell, the big threat, George Owen, Vinton Chapin, Roscoe Pitts, and Winthrop Churchill, the cream of last year's backfield. There is a possibility that Ervin Clarke, near fullback, will not be available this year, and Jack Hammond, regular right halfback, Roger Doherty and George Bradley, will be out to play during the first two games, at least, as they have oral exams in French or German to pass, before they can become in good standing as members of the junior class.

With Gehrke out of it, Karl Pfaffmann is the only back from last year's team now eligible. The lanky tennis captain was used chiefly as a drop kicker, and played very little. The unexpected return of Phil Coburn, however, makes this situation appear brighter. Coburn is a resourceful player, and of proved value on the defense. He was in the regular backfield two years ago, but missed out in the Yale game last fall on account of injury. He was to have graduated last June but failed, and he will be back to make up work enough to receive a degree. Coburn played second team football only two weeks in 1920, and is eligible this season.

Two Quarterbacks. Phil Spaulding and Jimmie Lee, a pair of "H" men, are available for quarterback, but will hardly fill Buell's shoes. Both, however, have stood up well under fire. Lee starting last fall's Yale game when Buell was kept out for a while on account of injury, and Spaulding setting in as a substitute. Joe McGone, freshman quarter last year, should make a good fight for a place. Nathaniel Howe, 1922 yearling leader, Fred Mosely and Marion Cheek, rubs last fall are likely-looking halfbacks.

Henry Clark at center and Phil Kunhardt at guard are the only regulars missing from the line. Kunhardt, however, was second string to Henry Greer, but the latter found an injured knee making him a sideline during the Yale game week.

Frank Kernan, sub center, and Stan Bradford, also on the varsity squad, are still available. The former is a freshman center, John Addies, is a likely-looking prospect.

Greer and Captain Hubbard are the regular guards, and the Eastman and Heiney are the tackles. In playing condition, Dunker is the only one below 200 pounds. Eastman and Greer weigh 210 pounds, but are extremely active. The former and Dunker were with the Harvard track team in London this summer. Mal Greenough, sub tackle, who played nearly every game last year, is on hand again.

Percy Jenkins and Louis Gordon were the regular ends against Yale. The former may be transferred to the backfield, where he played in 1921. Kenneth Hill, a letter end, Ted Crosby, hockey captain and Sanchez, of the out-of-town team, will also be candidates for the extremity posts.

Eddie Mahan will be head coach of the backfield and will work with George Ostrander, Charles Butler and Vinton Chapin, of last year's team. Dr. Derris Zimmerman will be center coach, and Kite Kane, 1921 leader, will also work with the line.

LYMAN IN CHARGE OF DARLINGTON ATHLETES

Rome, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—With an increase of approximately 35 per cent in the attendance this year, Darlington Schools will get under way on Wednesday when the first of the out-of-town students will reach this city.

This is the first year the school has accepted boarding pupils and it has already registered 20 of the 30 it expects to turn out an even better team than the machine which won every game played last season.

AUBURN GETS GOOD START

Auburn, Ala., September 11.—(Special.)—When the clock announced the hour as being four bells yesterday afternoon Coach John Pitts and his corps of Tiger coaches with thirty-four Plainmen coaches were already on Drake field for the initial day's work of the season ahead.

Prior to the appearance on the football field of the grid man the symposium was a scene of much activity. Student Manager "Bookie" Snapp with his crew of assistant managers double-lined while the eager pigskinners were being fitted out with their toggeries with which to equip their locker wardrobes for the rough and tough scrimmages that are to follow.

The workout consisted of the usual preliminaries of kicking and passing with a real stiff liberating exercise thrown in for good measure. The performance lasted for more than an hour and with the extreme hot weather that has prevailed on the plains for the past several days and the eagerness of everyone to get in a first day's right every one worked to "knock off" when the coaches gave the word.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Coach Snapp, "Pats" Lawrence, "Swee" Stix, "Hardy" Pruitt, "Red" Harkins, "Flivver" Ford and a score and a half of others from last season's reserves and freshmen were participating in the afternoon's activities. Dean Peterson, Alton Howe, Harrison, Olinger and the other members of the staff were expected the early part of the week. Freshmen workouts will start Friday according to Coach Neville who will be in charge.

The sidelines were lined with freshmen, rain, new students, sophomores and seniors, townspeople and visitors anxious to see the Tiger overture of the 1923 season.

Luis Firpo Answers Old Trainer He Never Consulted De Forrest

DISAPPROVED OF JIMMY'S SYSTEM

BY LUIS ANGEL FIRPO.
Atlantic City, N. J., September 11.—(Special.)—Today they read to me an article in the paper by Jimmy De Forrest, my former trainer, who said I would not permit to go unanswered.

De Forrest says that he disapproved of my fight through this country and to Cuba following the fight with Willie Williams. He said nothing to me of this disapproval. To be sure he was not working for me after the fight was planned. So after all there was no reason why he should say anything to me about the trip one way or another. The thing I fail to understand is why he should make so much talk about it now when he is not working for me. It would seem that if Mr. De Forrest can't continue to draw a salary from me he must at least make use of the publicity he has gained by having been associated with me in the past to make further gains by writing about me.

I wish that the American people would remember that I hired Jimmy De Forrest to work for me and that the arrangement was for one fight at a time. I would tell him before a fight that I would pay him $10,000 to train me and I would pay for his services and he would accept. After the fight in question our relations were severed until I called him again.

I was not satisfied with the work he did for me while I was training for Willie. I have not said this to anybody before because, while I was disappointed with the way he did for me, I liked him, considered him my friend and so did not wish to do him harm. But now since he goes about saying bad things of me I must tell the truth.

My plan of battle for the Willard fight was my own. De Forrest did not have anything to do with it. One day he would say one thing and another day another thing. As late as the day before the fight he thought of a plan that he wanted me to do. I paid no attention to it. When a man has something he wishes to teach me I am glad to listen, but I make up my mind as to whether I accept the teaching.

Firpo's Original Idea.
It may be of interest to Jimmy De Forrest when he learns that I never mean that he should train me for the Dempsey fight. No, from the first time I began to think that some day I might have a match with Dempsey I determined that when I trained for the match I would do it my own way, surrounded by my own people.

De Forrest says in the article that was read to me that there is no discipline in my camp. I would very much like to know how he found this out. Perhaps he spoke with some native who lives in the neighborhood in which my cottage is located. Certainly he did not find out anything about it by seeing his own eyes. He also said that he did not come to see me at the cottage, he did not even come to my dressing room to shake hands with me. How can he know anything of my camp or of my people when he sees nothing of it? On one afternoon only he came to the park where I spar and watched me work. He only sat in the grandstand and watched me spar for some rounds. Before he saw at all he said some bad things about me to some newspaper men. After he saw me he said more bad things.

Then he went away. It would seem that he came to Atlantic City not to really find out my condition, but to say bad things of me to the public. He says that I have no masseur who is to be trusted. I have the well known colored masseur, Dan Washington. I am satisfied that he is not only the best in the United States but the best in the world. I have tried many and certainly Dan is the best who has ever worked on me.

Certainly, many famous American athletes will agree with me that Dan Washington is a competent masseur. It seems to me that perhaps De Forrest is not only a liar but a fool. It is not training me for the fight. It seems to me that if I do win he will certainly not be able to claim any credit for it. He will say that it will be Firpo and Firpo alone who has won the championship. It will be victory for Firpo, the Argentine, trained by men of the Argentine. If I lose the fault will be my own.

(Copyright, 1923, in United States and Canada by the North American Publishing Co., Inc., New York, N. Y.)

stand, these teams will play at Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

That all roads leading to Marietta today and the best players of both clubs will play against the Crackers Thursday.

WILLIAMS HITS COUPLE

Philadelphia, September 11.—Cy Williams, the Philadelphia Nationals' battering centerfielder, turned in two home runs in today's game with Brooklyn and advanced his season's total to thirty-seven, two notches ahead of Babe Ruth, whose number is thirty-five.

The first circuit smash was made off Ruetter in the seventh and there was none on base.

The second was at the expense of Smith in the eighth and there was one on base.

TAURIDA WINS CIRCUIT RACE

Syracuse, N. Y., September 11.—Taurida, Alonzo McDonald's fleet bay mare, won the 2:08 Empire State $100,000 trotting stake here this afternoon, the Grand Circuit feature, beating out Clyde the Great and Fawcett, the favorites.

The Senator, with Lon McDonald up, won the 3-year-old trot with Anna Bradford's Girl, undefeated this season, was the class of the 3-year-old pacing feature, beating out Clyde the Great and Fawcett, the favorites.

Frisko June won the 2:04 pace in straight heats, but Peter Elavah, Miss Eleanor Neil took the 2:18 pace, the final event on the day's program after coming in third in the first heat.

Three-year-old trot, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $4,024.14; The Senator, ch. b., 2:07.1; The Senator, ch. b., 2:07.1; The Senator, ch. b., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Three-year-old pace, the Western Horseman stake, 2 in 3; purse $1,539.61; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1; Anna Bradford's Girl, br. f., 2:07.1.

Chattanooga Rally in Ninth Falls Far Short of Runs Needed to Overtake Locals

Great Fielding by Eddie Moore and Danny Clark Contributes to General Success of Cracker Outfit.

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 11.—(Special.)—Atlanta easily walloped Chattanooga today 10 to 5, in another one of those melancholy affairs whose monotony was broken by a sensational exhibition of infield play by Moore and Clark, which cut down many Lookout hits and saved Beanie Karr from a drubbing.

In contrast, the locals booted five chances and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the latest Lookout addition, from the Kitty league, was shamed hard in the first inning and base-on-balls himself out in the second. Eddie Moore, pitching for the first time in two months, was fairly effective, but suffered from the slow support.

The home athletes sprang a tremendous rally, in the end scoring four runs and slow fielding allowed at least three or four others to go for hits. Young Fort, the

SOUTH LAGGING IN RELIEF DRIVE

Washington, September 11.—The five million dollars originally asked of the American people for Japanese earthquake sufferers was exceeded by more than a hundred thousand dollars today as contributions continued to pour in from every section of the country, but Red Cross officials sent forth the word that continued support of the public was necessary.

A total of $5,108,990 had been pledged, when the books were closed for the day.

Three of the country's divisions to which the work of collecting money was allotted exceeded their quotas on the first $5,000,000. They were the Washington, Central and New England divisions. The Washington reported $3,014,000 against a quota of $2,000,000; the Central gathered $801,000 with a quota of $800,000, and the New England showed returns of $400,000 against $350,000 asked.

Other contributions by divisions were:

Southern $96,000; Southwestern $300,000; Pacific $295,000; insular and foreign $201,500.

Of the amount subscribed $3,768,500 has been utilized, of which $2,401,000 was expended for food, clothing, medicine and building materials. The remaining $1,367,500 represents donations of actual money for use in Japan and the Philippine Islands for the purchase of supplies. Of the latter sum, $1,000,000 was set aside today in response to the appeal of Ambassador Woods at Tokyo, to be placed at the disposal of the Japanese emergency relief bureau.

Nine Red Cross relief ships, carrying

HINTS FOR MILADY WHO WOULD BE IN FASHION SWIM

Chicago, Sept. 11.—If one really hopes to be in the feminine fashion swim this year, according to additional pointers given Tuesday at the convention of the Fashion Art League of America, one must have:

A sweater coat falling to the heels.

A "boa" collar of yarn attached, worn high.

A character theatrical fan for evening wear.

A "moon-shaped" vanity case containing space for one's opera glasses and a puff for powdering one's back.

A Paisley pocketbook, rather than a Paisley shawl.

A knitted dress adorned with knitted lace panels.

A wrist powder puff, worn like a wrist watch.

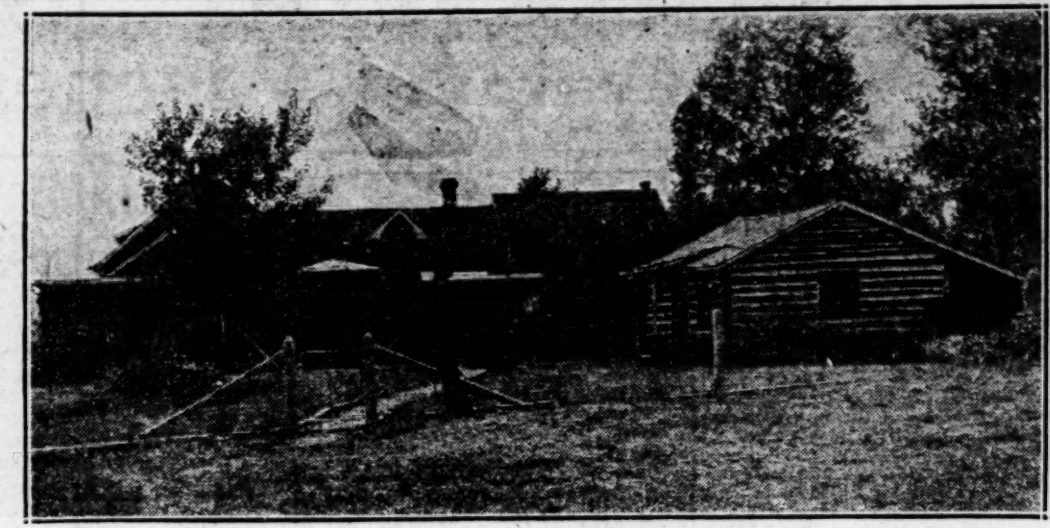

ing thousands of tons of clothing, building materials, food and other necessities either have sailed, or will sail within a few days from Pacific coast ports. The commodities making up these shipments account for expenditure of the $3,401,000.

President Coolidge expressed today to John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, his deep personal gratification at the response made by the American people to the appeal for relief funds. He asked to be kept informed of all details of the work, including the quantities of commodities forwarded and the plans for additional measures.

Through the state department, Ambassador Hanabusa transmitted expressions of gratitude from Premier Yamamoto of Japan.

The south's quota is $250,000 and Georgia's $30,000.

Prince Called Down by Cattleman On Former Visit to Canadian Ranch

General view of house on the Prince of Wales ranch, Pokisko, near High river, Alberta, Canada, where he will stay during his visit to Canada in September.

PRINCE POPULAR ON LINER

London, September 11.—Wireless messages published in the newspapers give details of the Prince of Wales' trip across the Atlantic on his way to Canada.

The Daily Mail says the prince, as Lord Renfrew, has made himself the most popular passenger on the Empress of France by his unassuming demeanor and charm, and has made many friends on shipboard, some of whom are invited to dine with him each night.

Brisk walks on deck and physical exercises in the ship's gymnasium keeps the distinguished passenger in good condition, and at a fancy dress ball, during which the ship was ablaze with color, Lord Renfrew fully entered into the spirit of the festivities and appeared to enjoy the dancing.

(Copyright, 1923, in United States and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

The following is the second of a series of special articles which describe for readers of The Constitution the country, the men and the conditions which form the background of the Prince of Wales' incognito vacation trip to his Alberta cattle ranch.

High River, Alberta, Canada, September 11.—Court etiquette does not carry on the cattle ranges of Canada—and the Prince of Wales seems glad of it. At least he was glad, and obviously, at the freedom on his last formal visit and it is expected that he will fit into the western conditions as readily as into affairs of the highest social import when he reaches his 4,000-acre cattle ranch on his present vacation trip under the incognito of a British lord.

There was no standing on ceremony when the prince turned vaquero on his last visit, and it was that which, to a large degree, detained him to buy the E. P. ranch where blooded stock from royal estates in England is setting a high standard.

The prince himself saw the joke in an incident on his previous trip in which formality went by the board with a bang.

It happened on the 10,000-acre ranch of George Lane, which adjoins the E. P.

"Plain Westerner" Speaks.

Mr. Lane styles himself "a plain westerner" and he takes great pride in the fact that through his industry and foresight he has won the title of "the greatest and most successful rancher of the Dominion."

When he suggested that the prince pass a few days on his ranch, the prince accepted. It was a new experience to him.

His royal highness appeared to enjoy the dropping of ancestral titles and in true democratic fashion lent himself to all suggestions for his entertainment. One of these was taking part in the fall roundup. The prince on a western pony accustomed to such work was shown how to assist in this annual affair.

But no one can learn all about such matters in one lesson and the prince committed the faux pas of failing to drive his horse in between a cow and calf to separate them into proper different groups for branding the calves.

This mistake resulted in the valuable but distracted calf being sent galloping off in the wrong direction, deserting the whole show.

Mr. Lane shouted to the prince and, riding up, said with some perturbation: "Young feller, don't you know that every calf like that, without a brand that may get lost goes to the crown?"

And the Prince Winked.

Before his head seemed to realize that he was addressing a high representative of the crown, the prince with a wink asked with good-natured concern: "Are many lost to the crown, Mr. Lane?"

The prince's liking for the real west is shown not only by his purchase of the E. P. ranch and his attention to its development, but in his interest in the history of the west.

Charles M. Russell is widely known as the cowboy artist, and the prince is the owner of one of his typical pictures. It is said the price paid was $10,000.

Russell hails from Great Falls, Mont. He was a cowboy before he was a painter and he is a cowboy still in that he knows his genre to the last detail. He rood the range in the eighties and turned to art when he found it easier to report to his employers with pictures than with written accounts. There came a hard winter. He sent in a picture of a lone cow in the drifts. "The last of 5,000," scribbled beneath, was his report. It made him famous.

Heard Call of Ranges.

Russell was once induced to go to New York to study art, with Europe in the future. He stayed in New York a month. When he left he headed not toward Paris, but toward the ranges.

The prince is coming for a western vacation and he is declining Canada's important invitations to formal affairs.

Nevertheless, he will be followed even to the log cabin which he will make his headquarters by a voluminous mail which every day makes that of an active business executive seem fairly small in comparison. It averages around a hundred letters a day. Coming from all parts of the empire,

INCREASE IN BUILDING

13.9 Per Cent Gain in Leading U. S. Cities Shown.

New York, Sept. 11.—Building in leading American cities during August increased 13.9 per cent over the same month last year and involved an expenditure of $205,230,374, the heaviest since May, according to statistics compiled today by Dun's Review. New York City led with an expenditure of $47,920,568.

Mail Theft Charged.

James E. Craig, negro mail truck driver in the government motor vehicle service, was ordered held for a federal grand jury by Police Judge G. E. Johnson Tuesday afternoon.

Craig was arrested by Inspectors Tomlinson, Barry, Ellis and Reese, following the purloining of several letters from a sack of mail. Craig had the letters in his hat when arrested, it was charged.

Statement by Atlantian.

Basil E. Newton, of Atlanta, a national lecturer for the Klan, who delivered the principal address, declared that klansmen in Oklahoma would not resist the "zeal" but would satisfy themselves with action at the next election.

Three demands are required from the Klan, Governor Walton announced.

"1. The Klan shall unmask and cease all demonstrations of such a nature as to alarm and disturb the public and peace of the community."

"2. Flogging parties, threats and intimidations and unlawful activities must be banned."

"3. The Klan must cease to exercise, or attempt to exercise, any influence over municipal and county officials, juries and courts."

These demands will be applicable to all other organizations, the governor said.

All reports leading to the belief that local governments have become subservient to any secret organization, he said, will be open to prompt investigation, and upon establishment of sufficient proof, such cities or counties will be placed under military law until such time as constitutional government should have been restored.

A reward of $1,000 for any person that can prove that he ever signed an application for membership in the Ku Klux Klan was offered by the executive last night. Klan officials had made public what purported to be an application showing that the executive had been "obligated" in the Klan on February 13, last.

Governor Walton denied that he had ever sought membership in the Klan and declared that he had refused to join the organization after being urged for more than a month.

In a formal proclamation the executive ordered all state and local authorities to disperse masked demonstrations. Gatherings of persons masked, or with their faces disguised, the proclamation declared, "are deemed to be violations of the constitution and laws of the state of Oklahoma, and constitute the crime of disturbing the peace, of riot, and unlawful assembly, and are hereby forbidden."

BOY SCOUTS ENTER COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN PLAN

Entrance of the Atlanta Boy Scouts as the twenty-third organization to enter the program of the Community Chest is regarded as adding material strength to the Community chest idea. Eugene Black, chairman of the proposed campaign, stated Tuesday.

"Community chests have been successfully conducted in Dallas, Danville, Lexington, Louisville, Macon, Nashville, Memphis, Knoxville, Asheville, Spartanburg and many other southern cities," Mr. Black explained.

"Southern cities have problems peculiar to them and which are best solved by giving them special and specific study."

"Memphis is the southern city which most nearly has the same needs as Atlanta, and a careful study of the system in vogue there has been made with the intention of reproducing as nearly as possible the same one here."

"In 1923 charitable organizations of Memphis, numbering 22, asked for a subscription of $450,000, and the amount was over subscribed, the total reaching $480,000. It took one week to complete the subscriptions. Agencies and business men of the city expressed themselves as being heartily pleased with the outcome of the drive. The Atlanta drive will be modeled after the Memphis plan and we expect a similar success."

Quitman Aids Japan.

Quitman, September 11.—(Special.)—At a meeting of Red Cross officials and citizens Quitman subscribed $250 for the relief of stricken Japan, all being voluntary contributions without any public solicitation.

FARMERS MUST UNITE, DECLARES ROOSEVELT

Syracuse, N. Y., September 11.—Combination and co-operation is the hope of the American farmer, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, of the navy department, declared today in an address at the New York state fair. The government's part in aiding the agriculturist, he said, should be confined to legalizing fullest co-operation and assisting it through the federal agencies of information, and in extending credit facilities "where it serves some practical purpose."

"In my opinion," Mr. Roosevelt said, "the farmer has not kept step with the times. The day of the small individual has passed. Economy and efficiency are vital to success and it is axiomatic that either in buying or selling, if you deal in bulk, you can deal to your advantage."

"There is one way and one way only that the farmer can meet this condition. He must combine himself. If he does not combine and co-operate with his brother farmers he will unquestionably be forced under. The proof of this is everywhere around us."

"New York state is one of the leading states in co-operative movement but even in New York state we have only begun the journey."

"Co-operation is necessary for the salvation of the farmer and the salvation of the farmer is necessary for the salvation of the general public."

One effect of co-operation in the future may be expected in improved warehousing, the speaker predicted, with huge storage plants probably located at strategic points in relation to markets.

These, he believed, should be owned by the farmers' co-operatives themselves, for besides being better managed, the politics which invariably creep into state-owned industries could be kept out.

Mr. Roosevelt concluded with a word of warning against "quack remedies."

"All over the country," he said, "there are sincere, but mentally limited fanatics, and self-seeking politicians peddling false doctrines. These comprise such things as government price fixing and unsound loans. Steer clear of them. Remember, that in the long run, anything which hurts the farmer hurts the country."

Dr. Mack on Trial.

Talbotton, Ga., September 11.—(Special.)—Dr. C. M. Mack has been placed on trial here before Judge

George P. Monroe, charged with the killing of J. C. Magouirt on July 5. The jury has been selected and the trial is under way.

WHAT, WHERE, WHY IS YOUR COLON?

The Most Critical Part of Your Anatomy and Physiology.

It is a wise man who understands his colon and keeps it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon can give you—and a lazy colon can take away.

But, back to our question:—What is your colon; where is your colon; why is your colon? Listen attentively for only a minute and you may learn something that may add half-a-century to your life.

Your colon is the last five feet of your digestive canal. It is your sewerage system; your garbage can, so to speak. Keep it clean and you are well and happy; let it stagnate and it will distill the poisons of decay, fermentation (gas) and putrefaction into your blood, poisoning your brain and nerves so that you are restless, irritable and blue; poisoning your heart so that you are weak, listless and lazy; poisoning your lungs so that your breath is heavy or foul; poisoning your stomach and digestive organs so that you are bloated, belching and uncomfortable with gas pains; poisoning your blood so that your skin looks yellow, sallow and unhealthy; poisoning every part and organ of your body, through your blood, making you look and feel old and ugly long before your time; making your joints and your back stiff, your eyes dull and your brain sluggish.

By the perfect law of Nature, your colon should empty itself three times a day—within an hour after eating. Does your colon work that well? If not, it has lost its tone. What do we mean by tone? Your colon is a hollow muscle. Its walls are made up of long, muscle fibres or muscle cells which, by their contraction, empty the colon just as you would squeeze a rubber hose pipe. These muscle fibres should contract three times a day—within an hour after each meal. If they do not contract, they have lost their tone—their power to contract.

But, there is a practically perfect remedy for lazy, flabby colons. This remedy quickly restores the tone, is absolutely harmless and decidedly pleasant to take. Clip this article and take it to your druggist. Tell him to give you a bottle of that new preparation, called Colotone—the colon tonic. It will cost you one dollar if you are pleased with it, nothing if you are not pleased with it, for every druggist has been instructed to refund the price and ask no questions if his customer is not thoroughly satisfied.

But you will be delighted with Colotone for it will make you feel like a different person. Your eyes will sparkle with vitality and alertness; your brain will be clear and active; your complexion will be fresh and transparent, reflecting the purity of your blood; your digestion will be thorough and your appetite keen, for your food will taste delightful and will agree with you; you will sleep and awake refreshed; your system will be full of vim and vigor; you will feel younger, stronger, vigorous—you will enjoy the pleasure of living.

Get started on Colotone today. Nearly every person over twenty-five or thirty years of age, and many younger, need Colotone more or less. You will be simply delighted with it. Colotone cannot possibly do you any harm—it can only do you good. Try it on our guarantee. It will help you live long, well and happily.—(adv.)

PEASLEE-GAULBERT CO., Inc.

60 W. Fair St. ATLANTA

USE CONSTITUTION WANT ADS

The White Flag

By GENE STRATTON-PORTER

210th Thousand

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

A FACT!

All the "Combinations of Previous Engineering Are Eliminated by Their Simplicity of Design"

Single Eight
Single Six

Simplicity

Economy

Power

"Ask the Man Who Owns One"

469 Peachtree

Can Europe Hold Together?

Finland—

A corner of northern Europe—cold—no more than a name to most of America, a spot on the map half remembered from the days of the geography class.

Finland is the soundest country in Europe today.

Why? What does it mean? What conditions make this out of the way bit of a land in some respects the superior of the British Empire?

"Can Europe Hold Together?"

By John F. Sinclair

—A series of twenty articles beginning next Sunday in The Constitution.

Shows where Finland stands, and Great Britain too, and France and Germany. It makes clear, in plain every-day language, the condition of the world today as revealed by an economic study of sixteen countries.

Do you think you can't understand the simplest part of economics? Can't make head or tail of what's across the Atlantic? You'll find you CAN.

Watch for "Can Europe Hold Together?"

Starting Next Sunday in The Constitution

Every table should have its Daily Portion of Grape-Nuts
"There's a Reason"

News of Society
and
Woman's WorkMiss Winslow Is Honored
At Tea by Mrs. T. A. Branch

The first of a series of parties for Miss Beatrice Winslow, a charming bride-elect of October, was the beautiful tea at which Mrs. Thomas Alfred Branch, Jr., entertained on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Sycamore street, in Decatur.

A graceful arrangement of yellow garden flowers was used throughout the house, and the color motif of yellow and white was carried out in the refreshments.

A large silver basket of yellow dahlias stood in the center of the tea table, which was covered with an exquisite white cloth. Surrounding this were silver compots holding yellow and white mints.

The receiving line consisted of the bride-elect, her mother and the members of the bridal party. Mrs. T. A. Branch, Jr., Miss Beatrice Winslow, Mrs. T. E. Winslow, Mrs. Arthur Laird, Mrs. George Freeman, Miss Dorothy Matthews, Miss Ethel Pritchett and Miss Hazel Lamar.

Assisting Mrs. Branch were her mother, Mrs. J. A. Montgomery, and the members of the bridal party. Miss Mary Will Montgomery, Mrs. Clifford Ansley, Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. P. H. Jeter, Mrs. Laurence Everhart, Mrs. E. B. Branch, Miss Jane Jackson, Miss Katie Hazel Houston, Miss Harriet Mack.

Little Anne Jeter and Sara Catherine Terrell, flower girls in Mrs. Branch's wedding, received cards at the door. She wore a yellow chiffon frock, and Sara Catherine wore a crisp pink organdy.

Mrs. T. A. Branch, Jr., wore her wedding gown of white satin, trimmed in rose point lace and pearl ornaments.

Miss Winslow wore a becoming costume of coral chiffon embellished with cheville and trimmed with iridescent ornaments.

The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. T. E. Winslow, wore black georgette trimmed with jet. Miss Hazel Lamar wore orchid georgette.

Each end of the table, cast a soft glow over the lovely scene.

Miss Manley wore a dainty gown of pink chiffon beaded in crystals.

Mrs. Manley's gown was flesh colored, chiffon combined with cream lace.

Miss Greene wore a gown of light blue panne velvet trimmed in rhinestones.

Covers were laid for twelve guests, including the members of the bridal party.

Atlanta Red Cross Has 450 Veterans Aided in Summer

The executive committee of the Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross held the first fall meeting Monday at luncheon at the Coca-Cola plant as guests of Turner Jones. At the business meeting which followed, Mrs. Albert Thornton presided in the absence of the chairman.

The reports given of the work done during the summer months showed that the activities of the chapter had in no way diminished.

The home service department rendered aid on an average to 450 ex-service men and their families per month. The Junior Red Cross, in addition to holding a summer school, equipped a sun parlor for children at the Battle Hill sanitarium. The activities of Mrs. J. E. Summerfield's committee at Hospital 48 were carried on for the patients.

Ice Cream Sale For Church.

Circle No. 8, of St. Pauls M. E. church, will sell ice cream and cake on the lawn of the home of Mrs. R. I. Grinnell, 317 Grant street, Thursday afternoon.

Whiteford Ave. P-T. A. To Meet Thursday.

The Whiteford Avenue Parent-Teacher association will hold the first meeting of the new term Thursday, September 13, at 2:30 o'clock, at the school.

Canada Visitors To Be Honored.

Miss Edith Coleman will entertain informally at breakfast this morning at her home in Ansley park in compliment to Miss Helena Hermance and Miss Virginia Peeler, of Toronto, Canada, who will resume their studies.

A group of friends of the honor guests have been invited.

Greene-Sawtell Wedding Party Is Honored by Miss Manley

Miss Valeria Manley was hostess at a beautiful dinner party Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Manley, on Pace's Ferry road, in honor of Miss Alice Greene and Richard Sawtell, whose marriage will be a brilliant social event of this evening.

The handsomely appointed table was covered with a cloth of Venetian lace and adorned in the center by a tall silver vase filled with various colored flowers from the gardens of the home. Smaller silver vases of the same flowers were placed at intervals. Silver candelabra, placed at

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

The marriage of Miss Alice Greene and Richard Sawtell will take place at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents on Ponce de Leon avenue.

A tea will be given at the Wren's Nest, in West End.

Alfresco supper-dance at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mid-week dinner-dances at East Lake Country Club.

The ladies of the Altar Society of the Immaculate Conception church will give a benefit card party at the Ansley hotel roof garden this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The friends of the members of the Rainbow club will be entertained at a dance this evening, at Hurst hall, corner Peachtree street and North avenue.

Miss Edith Coleman will entertain informally at breakfast in compliment to Miss Helena Hermance and Miss Virginia Peeler, of Toronto, Canada.

Miss Mary Malone will entertain at luncheon today in honor of Miss Sarah Greer, of Greenville, S. C., the guest of Miss Ernestine Campbell.

Miss Grey Poole will entertain the members of the Pi Pi society of Washington seminary this afternoon at her home, 700 Ponce de Leon avenue.

The Grand Rebekah lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows will give an extravaganza this evening at the Auditorium at 8:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Waddy Thompson will be hostess at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Frank Spain, of Jacksonville, Fla., the guest of Mrs. E. Rivers.

Mrs. Albert Niall Gives Supper-Dance For Mr. Mitchell

A pretty social event of Tuesday evening was the supper-dance at which Mrs. Albert Benjamin Niall entertained at her handsome home on Oakdale road in Druid Hills in compliment to her nephew, Sanford Mitchell, of London, Canada, who has recently moved to Atlanta to make his home.

The color scheme throughout the spacious reception room and dining room was developed in pink and gold. Large baskets filled with pink roses and marigold adorned the wide mantels and the tables in the library.

The supper table in the dining room was covered with a light cloth and vase filled with pink gladioli. Encircling this were silver compots filled with gold mints, while silver candlesticks holding gold tapers were placed at intervals.

Mrs. Niall was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Miss Winifred Niall, and Miss Jeanette Bayley. Punch was served on the terrace from crystal bowls embedded in ferns and flowers. Presiding here was Miss Mary Goddard.

Music was rendered during the evening by a favorite orchestra.

Mrs. Niall was gowned in blue chiffon.

Miss Winifred Niall wore an Irene Castle model of peach color satin.

Invited to meet the honor guest were Miss Claire Hamer, Miss Jeanette Bayley, Miss Laura Candler and Miss Mary Goddard, Edgar Fincher, Jack Mathers, John Candler, Frank Walsh, Perry Crawford, Wallace Smith, Tommy Rice, of Houston, Texas, and others.

Baptist W. M. S. Will Meet.

The W. M. S. of Western Heights will hold the monthly mission program at 8 o'clock, at the church, Wednesday, September 12, at 2:30 o'clock, at the church.

The program will be given by circle 1.

At 7:30 o'clock, the W. M. S., assisted by the different organizations, will observe the state prayer program. All members of the church and friends are urged to come.

Woman's Auxiliary To Have Meeting.

The woman's auxiliary of the Georgia Baptist hospital will meet Friday, September 14, at the hospital, at 10:30 o'clock.

This meeting is important, and every Baptist woman is urged to attend.

Visitors Are Honor Guests.

Three charming visitors, Miss Sara Geer, of Greenville, S. C., Miss Sarah Lummus, of S. C., and Miss William Shippe, of Miami, Fla., were guests of honor at the swimming party given Tuesday morning by Miss Wilmette Perdue at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Luncheon was served on the terrace at 1 o'clock. The table was decorated in various colored garden flowers. Covers were laid for fourteen.

Miss Perdue was gowned in a black satin, trimmed with white chiffon ruffles and worn with a black lace turban.

Miss Geer wore a black and white georgette crepe and a small black hat.

Mrs. Shippe was gowned in a smart fall model of black georgette crepe combined with velvet and worn with a small black hat.

Miss Lummus wore a black ruffled georgette crepe with a small gray felt hat.

Tea Honors
Symphony Leaders.

An interesting social occasion was the tea at which Mrs. E. M. Horine, chairman of the membership committee of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra association, entertained Tuesday afternoon at her home on East Fourth street, the guests being the members of the committee.

The handsome home was decorated throughout with quantities of early fall flowers attractively arranged.

Presented on this occasion were Mesdames Alonzo Richardson, Alfred Newell, R. K. Rambo, T. T. Stevens, Norman Sharp, Ransom Wright, E. Marvin Underwood, Benjamin Elsas, Edwin Peeples and George Walker.

Miss Nina Hornady Gives Dinner.

A happy occasion assembling a number of relatives and close friends was the informal dinner at which Miss Nina Hornady entertained Tuesday evening at her home on Linden street in compliment to her brother, Rev. G. A. Hornady, of Montgomery, Ala., who is her guest.

Quantities of old fashioned garden flowers were used in the decorations. The handsomely appointed table held in the center a large silver vase filled with marigold, dahlias and zinnias.

Miss Hornady received her guests wearing black lace and satin.

Covers were placed for Mrs. John Randolph Hornady, I. John Randolph Hornady II, Miss Ernestine Hornady, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Butt Hornady, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Howard, Murray Howard, Miss Jamie Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Wurm.

Women's Athletic Union Suits, 95c

Full weight—made of heavy checked nainsook. Step-in styles with bodice top. Regular and extra sizes. Also of pink muslin in large sizes only.

Women's Knit Union Suits, $1.00 and $1.25

The two prices are for regular and extra sizes respectively. Of white cotton run with fiber thread that looks like silk. Band top and cuff knee. Fall weight.

Children's Socks, 25c

Broken assortment of 50c grades. White with fancy tops. Sizes 7 to 9½—not all sizes of every kind.

Women's Silk Hose, $1.25

Regular $1.75 qualities—all silk, semi-fashioned. Excellent wearing qualities. Brown, Russian tan and white.

Long Chamissette Gloves, $1.00

Assortments that are broken in size and color—representing regular $1.25 and $1.50 values, brought together in one group; 16-button length.

Short Silk Gloves, 69c

Odds and ends of novelty silk gloves—including many kinds. Values $1.50 and $1.75, for clearance at 69c.

All-Linen Handkerchiefs, 19c

Or 3 for 50c. Women's handkerchiefs, all linen, colored, with embroidered corners. Excellent 25c values—specially bought, specially priced.

Large Boys' Handkerchiefs, 12½c

Fine for schoolboys—plain, white, hemstitched handkerchiefs with narrow hems. Unusually good.

Talcum Powders, 83c

Regular $1.00 qualities—including Houbigant's, Ideal, Quelques Fleurs, Mon Boudoir and Coty's L'Origan and Jasmin.

A Special Lot Ribbons, ½ Price

Wash ribbons in various widths and colors—two-tone ribbons, hairbows, mostly fancy—some fancies in both wide and narrow. Were 12½c to $4.25.

Women's Coats $10.95

A small group of silk and wool coats at this give-away clearance price. Strictly speaking they're summer coats, but are of weight and style to serve ideally through the fall. Some half, some full lined. Striking braided and embroidered effects.

Overblouses . . . $2.50

Fancy silk overblouses at just a small part of their original prices. Numerous Persian and Chinese effects—substantial in quality, well made, serviceable in every sense.

Fourth Floor

You'll open your eyes in real surprise when you see these Wonderful Values in New Silks

New Crepe Moire . . . $4.25

Beautiful, soft, drapy crepe moire—one of the season's newest and most lovely fabrics for dresses; 40 inches wide. In all the popular shades, including brown, navy, gray, tan, peach and black. Very specially priced.

Brocade Roshanara . . . $3.89

Heavy, handsome quality in this fabric that's so popular for one-piece dresses. Tan, gray, navy, black and white. Also navy and gray brocade stripes. Real $6.50 quality.

Satin Roshanara . . . $3.89

Exquisite satin Roshanara crepes, in navy, Pekin, brown and black. High in fashion's favor for the season. Regular $4.89 quality at $3.89.

Brocade Crepe Poplin . . . $2.49

You rarely find its equal at such a low price. Beautiful quality, in a range offering choice from several of the season's most popular shades.

Main Floor

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES & Co

Features Which Will Interest
Every WomanMiss Fair Honors
Charleston Guest.

Miss Frances Fair entertained at a swimming party at the East Lake Country club Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Mary Elinor Maxwell, of Charleston, the guest of Miss Wilhelmina Cooleidge. Those present were Miss Mary Elinor Maxwell, Miss Wilhelmina Cooleidge, Miss Virginia Cooleidge, Miss Ruth Madden, Miss Eliza Haines, Mrs. Albert Maxwell, of Charleston; Mrs. F. J. Cooleidge, Jr., and Mrs. Frank Fair.

Quantities of old fashioned garden flowers were used in the decorations. The handsomely appointed table held in the center a large silver vase filled with marigold, dahlias and zinnias.

Miss Fair received her guests wearing black lace and satin.

Covers were placed for Mrs. John Randolph Hornady, I. John Randolph Hornady II, Miss Ernestine Hornady, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Butt Hornady, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Howard, Murray Howard, Miss Jamie Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Wurm.

Women's Athletic Union Suits, 95c

Full weight—made of heavy checked nainsook. Step-in styles with bodice top. Regular and extra sizes. Also of pink muslin in large sizes only.

Women's Knit Union Suits, $1.00 and $1.25

The two prices are for regular and extra sizes respectively. Of white cotton run with fiber thread that looks like silk. Band top and cuff knee. Fall weight.

Children's Socks, 25c

Broken assortment of 50c grades. White with fancy tops. Sizes 7 to 9½—not all sizes of every kind.

Women's Silk Hose, $1.25

Regular $1.75 qualities—all silk, semi-fashioned. Excellent wearing qualities. Brown, Russian tan and white.

Long Chamissette Gloves, $1.00

Assortments that are broken in size and color—representing regular $1.25 and $1.50 values, brought together in one group; 16-button length.

Short Silk Gloves, 69c

Odds and ends of novelty silk gloves—including many kinds. Values $1.50 and $1.75, for clearance at 69c.

All-Linen Handkerchiefs, 19c

Or 3 for 50c. Women's handkerchiefs, all linen, colored, with embroidered corners. Excellent 25c values—specially bought, specially priced.

Large Boys' Handkerchiefs, 12½c

Fine for schoolboys—plain, white, hemstitched handkerchiefs with narrow hems. Unusually good.

Talcum Powders, 83c

Regular $1.00 qualities—including Houbigant's, Ideal, Quelques Fleurs, Mon Boudoir and Coty's L'Origan and Jasmin.

A Special Lot Ribbons, ½ Price

Wash ribbons in various widths and colors—two-tone ribbons, hairbows, mostly fancy—some fancies in both wide and narrow. Were 12½c to $4.25.

Women's Coats $10.95

A small group of silk and wool coats at this give-away clearance price. Strictly speaking they're summer coats, but are of weight and style to serve ideally through the fall. Some half, some full lined. Striking braided and embroidered effects.

Overblouses . . . $2.50

Fancy silk overblouses at just a small part of their original prices. Numerous Persian and Chinese effects—substantial in quality, well made, serviceable in every sense.

Fourth Floor

You'll open your eyes in real surprise when you see these Wonderful Values in New Silks

New Crepe Moire . . . $4.25

Beautiful, soft, drapy crepe moire—one of the season's newest and most lovely fabrics for dresses; 40 inches wide. In all the popular shades, including brown, navy, gray, tan, peach and black. Very specially priced.

Brocade Roshanara . . . $3.89

Heavy, handsome quality in this fabric that's so popular for one-piece dresses. Tan, gray, navy, black and white. Also navy and gray brocade stripes. Real $6.50 quality.

Satin Roshanara . . . $3.89

Exquisite satin Roshanara crepes, in navy, Pekin, brown and black. High in fashion's favor for the season. Regular $4.89 quality at $3.89.

Brocade Crepe Poplin . . . $2.49

You rarely find its equal at such a low price. Beautiful quality, in a range offering choice from several of the season's most popular shades.

Main Floor

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES & Co

Splendid Veilings, 25c

Both solid colors and combinations—dotted and plain and fancy mesh. A collection of 50c values at 25c.

10c, 12½c, 15c

Val Laces, 6c

Edges and insertions—mostly odd—some in matching patterns. Round thread and diamond mesh. A clearance lot.

Embroideries Special, 15c

Edges, insertions, ribbons, headings and entre deux—of Swiss, nainsook and long-cloth. Widths ¼ to 5 inches. A few in matching patterns.

3 Yards Stickerei, 10c

Stickerei edges and braids on three-yard pieces. Red, navy, lavender, pink and white. Also tat edges. Slightly soiled—therefore, 15c and 25c values at 10c.

32-inch Gingham, 29c

Comes in line for fall sewing, doesn't it? A good range of patterns and colors. Standard quality—regularly 39c.

36-inch Percales, 25c

Light colors only—shirting and dress patterns. Under-priced for this one day's selling.

Huck Towels, 11c

Splendidly serviceable. Size 16x32 inches. Regular 15c grades in this sale at 11c.

Bath Towels, 29c

Regularly 39c—heavy bath towels, a good, large, serviceable size—22x44 inches. Particularly good.

Mercerized Damask, 55c

The quality is such as will wear well and look well; 64 inches wide—assorted patterns; 69c value.

Pretty Crepes, 85c

A splendid showing of crepes in a range of pretty shades. Very low-priced for such quality.

Cedar Chests Special

Of construction that absolutely prevents cracks at joints or corners. Quite a range of sizes. Particularly good.

Window Shades—Special

Made of sun fast oil shade cloth in both plain and duplex. Size 3x6 feet. Regular $1.50 and $1.75 values—priced at—

Plain . . . $1.10

Duplex . . . $1.25

Model 789 Price $9.50

Model 382 Price $5.00

Gossard CORSETS They Love in Front

Get the benefit of an expert fitting by one of our trained corsetiers. You are welcome to go over the entire line and select the type and style which pleases you best.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

as the milk from the neighbors COW.

BLOCK'S ATLANTA BAKED CRACKERS

Model 789 Price $9.50

Model 382 Price $5.00

Gossard CORSETS They Love in Front

Get the benefit of an expert fitting by one of our trained corsetiers. You are welcome to go over the entire line and select the type and style which pleases you best.

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

DAILY CALENDAR OF WOMEN'S MEETINGS

The regular quarterly meeting of the Fulton County council, P. T. A., will be held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock at the court house.

The executive board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Georgia Children's Home society will meet this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home, Ormewood court.

A regular meeting of Oglethorpe chapter 122, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held in the Masonic temple on Peachtree road at Buckhead this evening at 8 o'clock.

The baby health center will be held at Hill Street school this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Mrs. A. W. Harrington will lead the regular meeting of the Atlanta Truth Center at Carnegie library this morning at 11 o'clock. The evening class will be held at 6 o'clock.

The Reviewers' will meet this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with Mrs. George Breitenbucher, 66 West Fifteenth street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Travelers' Aid will be held at Edison hall this morning at 10:30. The executive board will meet at 10 o'clock. Please notice change of meeting place.

The Woman's Missionary society of Western Heights Baptist church will hold its monthly mission program today at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

The School of Voters of the Eleventh ward will meet today at 3 o'clock in the Whiteford Avenue school, beginning the series of meetings which will continue through the fall and winter months.

School Psychology New Profession in Education

By MARTHA GOODE ANDERSON

Enter the school psychologist. Miss Marion Hanckel, of Charleston, S. C., who is the guest of Miss Beulah Phillips, of 44 Bedford Place, leaves Atlanta Sunday to enter on her new duties as school psychologist in the famous "city-by-the-sea."

The world moves along and takes us with it in the stream of its changing ideas. Of all the changes time has brought nothing is more marked than that which has come to education. The modern keynote stresses the individual development of the individual child. No longer is the educational idea based on memory and parrot-like repetitions of teacher-taught lessons, for the modern teacher studies each child and seeks to place it in the environment best suited to its need, endeavoring to make its education a genuine factor in its life outside the school, and bringing out the child's mental quality, rather than pressing it into the class mold. Charleston is the first city officially to adopt the new idea and with it in view Miss Hanckel will make group and individual tests of primary and grammar grade pupils in order to place them to the pupils' best advantage in classes where they belong.

Is Noted Educator.

Miss Hanckel is returning from the annual meeting of the Southwest Texas Teachers' Institute, San Antonio, where she has been lecturing daily on modern educational methods. She is one of the south's best known educators and is a leader in all progressive movements.

The promotion of the kindergarten movement in the south has always received Miss Hanckel's heartiest support.

For some years, Miss Hanckel has held the position of kindergarten and primary supervisor in the public school system of Richmond, Va., and is now returning to her home in Charleston, S. C., where she has accepted the position of school psychologist.

Atlanta teachers have had the pleasure of knowing Miss Hanckel as an instructor in the summer schools of the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; Peabody college, Nashville; summer normal, Asheville, N. C.

The South Carolina's Idea.

In addition to the very modern psychological tests which will be inaugurated in Charleston, Miss Hanckel will also give instruction to teachers in Charleston county, who will study while in service. This is a part of their course introduced in the state for the higher education of teachers and is compulsory. These study centers for teachers in charge of noted educators will be established all over South Carolina. Credit for work done will be given at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, for classes conducted by Miss Hanckel.

Great Benefit.

"I feel that this newest idea," said Miss Hanckel yesterday, "will bring mutual benefit to city and county teachers who will come to know and understand each other better in these study groups. So many teachers can not afford to go away to summer school, ambitious as most are to keep up and advance in their work."

The Modern Idea.

"As to the modern idea of psychological tests for school children which Charleston is inaugurating when our schools open September 27," commented Miss Hanckel, "the study of the individual child is to be of the greatest benefit for future generations. I believe that heredity and environment are so much stronger than any education that environment plays the most important part in a child's development and classes, therefore, ought to be selected with a far greater care than has heretofore been given. We shall endeavor to make the school life as much like real life as possible. Group criticism by the children will be introduced in place of the autocratic judgment and punishment by the teachers alone. This is an advanced step leading towards a greater democracy than we have ever had as the child will learn that the transgressor will be punished by the group, or praised, and in this way group responsibility will be developed."

Helps to Reason.

"The child of five years reasons according to his experience, as well as he ever will in his whole life. We can help reason to develop as far as nature intended, and this is the keynote of modern teaching thought; observe the child before teaching him anything, then place him in the environment best suited to his development."

"In the words of a western educator," concludes Miss Hanckel, "What Is Worth While? 'Life,' answered the eyes of a child with a smile, 'To grow and to be.' 'What God planned for me.'"

McPHERSON TROOPS PARADE IN ANNISTON

Anniston, Ala., September 11.—(Special).—Led by the infantry band and commanded by Colonel James M. Kimbrough, Jr., the units of the Twenty-second infantry, which have been stationed at Camp McClellan during the summer training camps, Tuesday morning staged a parade through Anniston immediately preceding their departure for their permanent station at Fort McPherson, Ga. The march of the soldiers through the city was viewed by a large crowd. Officers of the chamber of commerce, civic clubs and other organizations reviewed the procession.

The Twenty-second infantry marched about ten miles off the direct route to Fort McPherson in order to pass through Anniston, having continued as far south as Oxford and proceeding from there to Iron City to pick up the main route to the Georgia camp.

DIVERSIFICATION PAYS, SAYS TWIGGS FARMER

Jeffersonville, Ga., September 11.—(Special).—Not a stalk of cotton on a six-acre farm, and he will sell his crop for more than $5,000, is the record of J. R. Cook, a Twiggs county farmer, according to D. S. McGhee, county farm agent.

Sixty acres of peanuts that will produce more than twenty-five bushels to the acre, 100 acres of peavine hay already saved, 150 acres of corn, with velvet beans and peas; two acres of sugar cane, which will make 75 gallons to the acre; four acres of sweet potatoes, thirty acres of oats, with a bumper crop, are all among the products of Mr. Cook's farm this year.

Miss Hanckel, of Charleston, To Be School Psychologist

Photo by Mathewson & Price, Staff Photographers.

Miss Marion Hanckel is the first in the south to become official psychologist for a southern city. Charleston, S. C., her native home, is creating this position with the desire to improve modern teaching methods by studying the individual pupil.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For That Black Eye.

After a fall or a blow, the skin may be kept from discoloring by applying a poultice of starch mixed with cold water on the injured part.

Save Yourself Labor.

The top of the stove is really the only part that needs blacking as the sides will keep bright and clean if wiped off occasionally with a cloth.

To Renovate Linoleum.

Worn places and holes in the kitchen linoleum may be mended by filling them with chopped cork mixed with liquid glue. When it has hardened rub down with emery paper and pain to match the linoleum.

Tasty Left-overs.

An excellent way to utilize the last bit of chopped meat is to make a biscuit dough, spread it lightly with butter and sprinkle on the meat, roll like a jelly roll and bake in a hot oven. Serve with tomato sauce.

Canning Time.

The time has come to put up cat-soup and you are wondering why you threw away all those corks. Start a box right now and keep corks and pieces of paraffin from jellies in it and you will be very grateful in preserving time.

Miss Swilling Weds John B. Beck.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam B. Swilling, of Atlanta, announce the marriage of their daughter, Tommie Lee, to John Brinker Beck, of Columbus, Ga.

The marriage was solemnized September 3, the Rev. J. B. Mitchell, pastor of St. Marks M. E. church, officiating.

Rhinoceros forms are chiefly used for handles for umbrellas or walking sticks.

Don't Squeeze Black-

Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of calomel powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.—(adv.)

Genuine Orange Blossom Wedding Rings and Mountings at E. A. MORGAN'S 10 E. Hunter St. There is economy in a few steps around the corner.

Gores

The New Note in Fall Footwear

SOROSIS

—Gore Pumps, the most popular new Fall style—because they are the smartest design of the season, comfortable and have excellent fitting qualities.

(As this illustration)

—Log Cabin Suede $12.50
—Bronze Kidskin

SOROSIS

One-Strap Cut Out Slipper

For Misses and Growing Girls (Sizes 11½ to 2 and 2½ to 6)

—Patent Leather
—Red Kidskin
—White Kidskin

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

For the School-Bound Miss

Our Juvenile Section Is Ready With

Dresses, Coats, Hats and other timely togs

Whether the most inexpensive tub frock that is really good at a very modest price, or the smartest little wool dress for the cooler days, there's style and originality of design to be found in these Junior dresses that will appeal to the discriminating mother.

Realizing that school days demand extensive wardrobes, we have arranged an especially attractive showing of wearables for young folks at prices that are surprisingly low for qualities that are pleasingly good.

Tub Frocks

Sizes 7 to 14

Ginghams, Chambrays, Linenes. There are the checks and plaids of course in every attractive color. Especially pretty are the solid shades of rose, blue, tan, yellow, brown, henna—trimmed in embroidered white collars and cuffs, contrasting shades, or with checks and plaids. Very new are the smartest little jacquette models and others with fullness at each hip with narrow self sash tying on one side.

Wool Dresses

Sizes 7 to 14

Crepes, Velvets, Flannels, Jerseys—very pleasing combinations of two-tones and of solid bodies with skirts of checks or plaids. Gay wool embroideries and medallions and bands of color are seen in the trimmings. Some are very simply tailored and trimmed with many small buttons. Wool crepes show ruffles of self material. Very smart are navy blue serges with bright hand-embroidery.

$1.95 $2.50 $3.95 $4.95 $4.95, $6.95, $9.95 and $12.95

The New Coats

Sizes 7 to 14

Novelty woollens of rough weave in solid shades, checks, and big plaids are at once warm and serviceable and quite smart in design. Big collars, patch pockets, and belts are of self material, with large buttons as trimming. Some are more elaborately trimmed with bands of contrasting color.

Browns, tans, greys, blues, reds are the colors most in favor. Splendid little coats at such modest prices as

$6.95 $9.95 $12.95 $14.95

Raincoats

Just as well prepare before hand with one of these really good little coats at a surprisingly low price. Navy blue with attached plaid-lined hood.

The New Hats

Tams at 95c are fine for school wear and knockabout—red, tan, cocoa, brown and navy.

Felt Hats, 95c, are surprisingly good values in navy or black, with soft curled brims.

At $1.95 to $3.95 are many really smart little models of plain felt or tailored designs with self or ribbon trimmings.

Corduroy Robes

Sizes 14, 16, 18

Pretty breakfast coat models in soft warm shades of rose, coral, open and purple. Quite unusual values at

$2.95 and $3.95

Corsets and Girdles

A Clearance-Sale at Much Less Than Half Former Prices

Broken size ranges and odd lots of quite a variety of makes and models. All types—all materials. Short, medium and long models, including elastic tops. Many are priced at a mere fraction of the regular stock price.

$1.49 and $2.95

Brassieres

Odd lots and sizes in many models of satin, lace, and other materials—including extra large sizes in "Comfort" brassieres.

Extremely Reduced Prices

95c and $1.49

Corsets—Second Floor

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

The Most Exclusive RESIDENTIAL SECTION In New York City

Extends from 13th Street to Washington Square on Fifth Avenue. Here stands the Church of the Ascension, with its world famous paintings by La Farge and Saint Gaudens. Here still live the traditions of another day, and another world, and here stands the Hotel Van Rensselaer, a family hotel, the home of substantial New Yorkers and discriminating visitors. A hotel that represents the modern idea of a well appointed home. Exclusive, conservative, convenient.

RATES
Single room with bath...$5.00 per day
Double room with bath...$8.00 per day
Suite, 2 rooms with bath...$10.00 per day
Two persons...$10.00 per day
The above rates are American Plan (includes meals). Weekly rates for a stay of two weeks or longer. Even plan: Double room with bath $3.00 per day.

Hotel Van Rensselaer
11th Street and 5th Ave.
NEW YORK CITY

On and After this Date

THE
Chas. S. Robison
Furniture Co.

will be located at their new home, at 17-19-21

E. Hunter Street

The large building just above their old stand, nearer Whitehall Street.

Blunders

Menu
Tomato Douillon
Braised Steak
Fresh Peas
Pineapple Salad
Lead tea, Pineapple Pie

What combination of dishes in this menu is undesirable?

The answer will be found among today's want ads.

In the Onyx Lobby

By Carolyn Wells

Next Week: "BLACK MONEY."
By J. S. Fletcher

Continued From Yesterday.
"Yes, that's the source of the hints I had given me. The matter must be looked into, for there is a motive, and your aunt—we must question her."

"All right, but there are other directions in which to look. Don't be too sure that women committed the deed."

"No use your trying to throw over that dying statement."

"Now, look here: Suppose, just for a moment, there had been no written message—which way would you look then?"

"Toward some business complications," said Gibbs.
"I've dug into all those issues. He was off with the Patisserie people weeks ago. He finished discussion with the Vail Company some days since, and the only one pending was the Crippen bunch. I've looked up Crippen's alibi, and it's gilt-edged. Vail was in the elevator with Bob Moore at the time of the murder, and the Patisseries are back numbers."

"They might have come back to it," suggested Bates.
"So they might—so might Crippen or Vail. But if they did we're no evidence of it. You don't know of anything against the bakery men, do you, Peters?"

"No, sir. But Mr. Crippen and Mr. Vail have both been here—"
"Here! In Sir Herbert's rooms?" cried Bates.
"Mr. Vail, he just dropped in, as he was passing by, and looked round the room, like idle curiosity. He said, 'Poor old chap! he was a good sport,' and went away. That wasn't so strange, for he often used to drop in for a chat with my master. But Mr. Crippen, now, he never came here, that I know of, while Sir Herbert was alive. But the day after he died, Mr. Crippen came with a sort of determined air and he wants to look over Sir Herbert's papers."

"I shall get into the game myself," said Bates, "and spare no effort or expense to dig up the truth! And, first of all, I'm going back to Bob Moore. I don't think he knows anything more than he's told, but I do think I can learn more from him now."

Moore was not in the house, and Bates went to Julie Baxter, who was at her switchboard.
"Now, Julie," Bates said, "you've got to come across with the true story of your doing the night of the murder. You are not suspected, but you will be if you don't fuss up. So out with it."

"I'll tell you where I was, if you'll promise not to tell anybody else."
The detective agreed, and Julie went on. "Specially, I don't want Bob Moore to know. I went with a crowd on a trip to Chinatown. It wasn't any harm, but we were out late, and if he knew I'd give him a whole lot of trouble for us all."

In a moment Gibbs rang the bell. Richard admitted him, and with him came both Adeline Everett and the maid, Kate.
"It was a strange gathering. Letitia Pratt sat on a straight-backed chair, erect and still. Eliza Gurney, small, pale and with a distracted face and angry eyes that darted venomous glances at the visitors."

Mrs. Everett had chosen for her role an amused superiority, knowing it would irritate Letitia Pratt more than any other manner.
The detective did not ask direct questions, but rather broached voluntary remarks by adroitly suggesting them.

"Now, that paper knife—" he began, musingly.
"Is what they call a clue," said Mrs. Everett, "but if a paper knife was used to kill somebody I should think the owner of the weapon must be more or less suspected."

"Of course you think that," said Letitia coldly. "I gave that paper cutter to Sir Herbert or get it mended."

"Oh! Is that the story you've told?"
"Well, it's only this," said Letitia, looking relieved at the thought of unburdening herself. "When I was in training the girls used to talk of Kate Holland, who was there many years before, but who seemed to be a sort of star pupil. She was renowned for her surgical skill, and when I heard Bob tell how the murderer, Sir Binney was a knowing one I couldn't help thinking about her. You know, of course, she's Mrs. Everett's maid."

"Oh, Lord!" Bates groaned. "Don't drag the Everetts into this thing! It's bad enough to have my people spoken of without attacking the Everetts too!"

"Now, Bates, you may as well face the music," Gibbs began. "You say you want to find the murderer in order to relieve your aunt from any hint of suspicion. Do you want to do so if the trail leads toward the Everett household?"

"What do you advise?" Bates was clearly at the end of his rope. He was hesitating of manner and despairing of tone.

"Straightforwardness, first of all. I'm going at once, either to Miss Pratt or to Mrs. Everett, and make them come across with something definite."

"Go first to my aunt, then. I'll go with you. Come along."

The two men went up to the Pratt apartment and Bates opened the door with his own key.

"Here's Mr. Detective, Aunt Letty. He wants a little chatter with you." Miss Pratt looked up from her book.
"Be seated, Mr. Gibbs," she said with quiet dignity.

"I'll speak right out. What do you do with the paper cutter from your library table? I see there is an empty sheath still there?"
"The paper knife was broken, and I gave it to Sir Herbert Binney, who had promised to get it mended for me at some specialty place he knew of. Why?"

"Because that was probably the weapon that killed him."

If Gibbs had expected any sudden telltale blush or confusion on Miss Pratt's part he must have been disappointed, for she only said:
"Indeed! How could that happen?"

"I don't know, but the knife has been found, in peculiar circumstances, and I'd like to know just when you gave it to him to get it mended."

"Oh, I don't know; several days before his death. Perhaps four or five days, or a week. Go on."

"The knife was driven by the hand of some one experienced in surgical lore."

"Hah!" The exclamation given by Miss Pratt was full of meaning.
CHAPTER XIII.

"I learned from Mrs. Everett that you said you'd kill Sir Herbert Binney yourself, if you were sure you wouldn't be found out," declared Gibbs.
"What?" Miss Pratt turned perfectly white, but whether with rage or fear Gibbs didn't know. "She said that? The little devil! Just let me get at her once!"

"Didn't you make that remark?" "I did not, but she did, and then I said I would, too. Neither of us meant it, really, but that's what was said."

"The woman is so clever it makes her doubly dangerous!"
"Then, Miss Pratt," Gibbs looked straight at her, "here's the situation: Both you and Mrs. Everett expressed a willingness to kill Sir Herbert Binney—no matter if it was not meant. Both of you may be said to have a motive; both of you could have found opportunity. And, finally, each of you claims to suspect the other. Now, granting for argument's sake that one of you is guilty, would not the plausible procedure be to pretend to suspect the other?"

"Perhaps," Gibbs concluded, "it might be well for us to go to Mrs. Everett, and send for her to come here, and so get the testificatory statement as to these assertions of willingness to kill."

"Now, Miss Pratt," Gibbs resumed, "it is necessary to have an interview at which both yourself and Mrs. Everett are present. I offer you the choice of going there or sending for her to come here."

"I refuse to go to her home, and I certainly shall not let her enter mine."

"Oh, come, Auntie," said Bates. "You're making a lot of unnecessary trouble. You must get it over with at once—for all our sakes."

"I won't!"
Gibbs rose abruptly and left the room.
"He's gone for Mrs. Everett," said Richard, looking severely at his aunt. "Now, you must be careful, Aunt Letty. If you don't look out they'll accuse you of the murder, and, though you'll disprove it, it will mean a whole lot of trouble for us all."

In a moment Gibbs rang the bell. Richard admitted him, and with him came both Adeline Everett and the maid, Kate.
"It was a strange gathering. Letitia Pratt sat on a straight-backed chair, erect and still. Eliza Gurney, small, pale and with a distracted face and angry eyes that darted venomous glances at the visitors."

Mrs. Everett had chosen for her role an amused superiority, knowing it would irritate Letitia Pratt more than any other manner.
The detective did not ask direct questions, but rather broached voluntary remarks by adroitly suggesting them.

"Now, that paper knife—" he began, musingly.
"Is what they call a clue," said Mrs. Everett, "but if a paper knife was used to kill somebody I should think the owner of the weapon must be more or less suspected."

"Of course you think that," said Letitia coldly. "I gave that paper cutter to Sir Herbert or get it mended."

"Oh! Is that the story you've told?"
"Well, it's only this," said Letitia, looking relieved at the thought of unburdening herself. "When I was in training the girls used to talk of Kate Holland, who was there many years before, but who seemed to be a sort of star pupil. She was renowned for her surgical skill, and when I heard Bob tell how the murderer, Sir Binney was a knowing one I couldn't help thinking about her. You know, of course, she's Mrs. Everett's maid."

"Oh, Lord!" Bates groaned. "Don't drag the Everetts into this thing! It's bad enough to have my people spoken of without attacking the Everetts too!"

"Now, Bates, you may as well face the music," Gibbs began. "You say you want to find the murderer in order to relieve your aunt from any hint of suspicion. Do you want to do so if the trail leads toward the Everett household?"

"What do you advise?" Bates was clearly at the end of his rope. He was hesitating of manner and despairing of tone.

"Straightforwardness, first of all. I'm going at once, either to Miss Pratt or to Mrs. Everett, and make them come across with something definite."

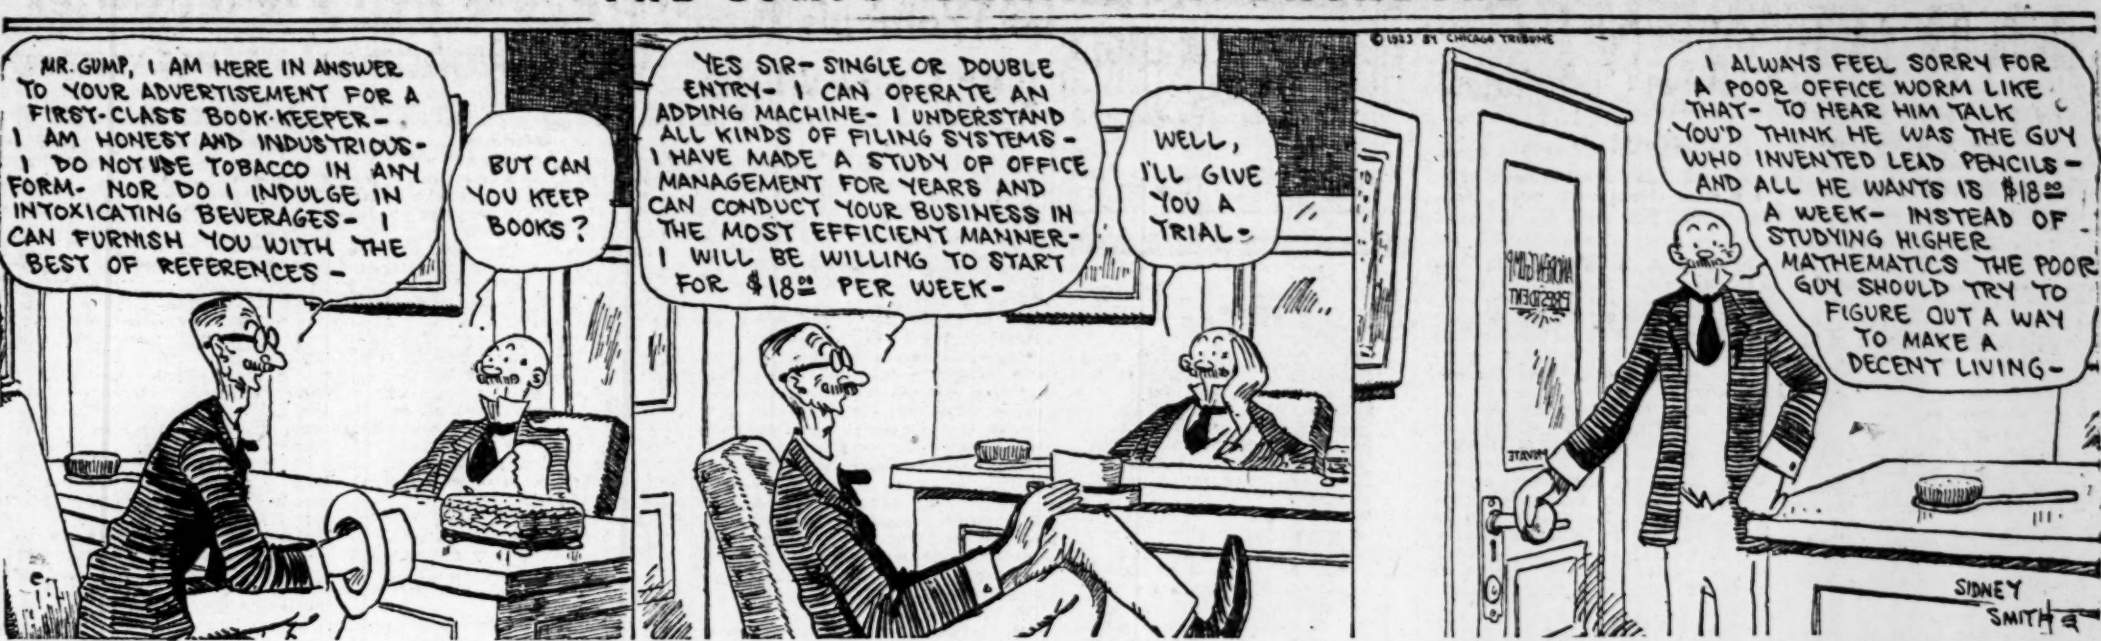

"Go first to my aunt, then. I'll go with you. Come along."

The two men went up to the Pratt apartment and Bates opened the door with his own key.

"Here's Mr. Detective, Aunt Letty. He wants a little chatter with you." Miss Pratt looked up from her book.
"Be seated, Mr. Gibbs," she said with quiet dignity.

"I'll speak right out. What do you do with the paper cutter from your library table? I see there is an empty sheath still there?"
"The paper knife was broken, and I gave it to Sir Herbert Binney, who had promised to get it mended for me

THE GUMPS—BRAINS VS. BACKBONE

trumped up? She knows Sir Herbert can't deny it. So she thinks she's safe."

"Well, she isn't," and Kate Holland gave Miss Pratt a triumphant glare. "That knife will hang her yet! She tried to fasten the guilt on me by saying I have surgical skill! Let me tell you, Miss Pratt, you overreached yourself! I've been to see Dr. Padgett about it, and he says that while the fatal stroke may have been delivered by somebody who knew just where to strike, yet, on the other hand, it might have been the merest ignoramus who chanced to strike the vital point. So, your ladyship, your scheme to inculcate me falls through!"

"Now, Mr. Gibbs, I decline to talk to or with either of my unwelcome visitors. If you have to conduct this official visitation, go on with it, but I refuse to speak except to answer your questions. Eliza, you are not to talk, either."

"Good," said Gibbs. "Just what I want."

There was fierce disagreement as to which had first declared a willingness to kill Sir Herbert Binney and which had said she, too, was inclined to the deed, but it was decided that such hasty and unconsidered declarations had been made.

At last Mrs. Everett looked at her watch.
"I've an appointment that I'm anxious to keep," she said drawlingly. "As you don't seem to be getting anywhere, Mr. Detective, can you not let me go and finish up this absorbing discussion with Miss Pratt?"

"If you must keep your appointment, madame, you are excused. I may say that you are under surveillance, but I have little fear of your trying to get away secretly, and unless you do you will not be bothered in any way."

"Your surveillance does not interest me," and with a sublime disregard of all present Mrs. Everett swept out of the room, followed by the large and somewhat ungainly Kate.

"I don't want to discuss this," Gibbs began, as he himself prepared to leave, but—"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

trumped up? She knows Sir Herbert can't deny it. So she thinks she's safe."

"Well, she isn't," and Kate Holland gave Miss Pratt a triumphant glare. "That knife will hang her yet! She tried to fasten the guilt on me by saying I have surgical skill! Let me tell you, Miss Pratt, you overreached yourself! I've been to see Dr. Padgett about it, and he says that while the fatal stroke may have been delivered by somebody who knew just where to strike, yet, on the other hand, it might have been the merest ignoramus who chanced to strike the vital point. So, your ladyship, your scheme to inculcate me falls through!"

"Now, Mr. Gibbs, I decline to talk to or with either of my unwelcome visitors. If you have to conduct this official visitation, go on with it, but I refuse to speak except to answer your questions. Eliza, you are not to talk, either."

"Good," said Gibbs. "Just what I want."

There was fierce disagreement as to which had first declared a willingness to kill Sir Herbert Binney and which had said she, too, was inclined to the deed, but it was decided that such hasty and unconsidered declarations had been made.

At last Mrs. Everett looked at her watch.
"I've an appointment that I'm anxious to keep," she said drawlingly. "As you don't seem to be getting anywhere, Mr. Detective, can you not let me go and finish up this absorbing discussion with Miss Pratt?"

"If you must keep your appointment, madame, you are excused. I may say that you are under surveillance, but I have little fear of your trying to get away secretly, and unless you do you will not be bothered in any way."

"Your surveillance does not interest me," and with a sublime disregard of all present Mrs. Everett swept out of the room, followed by the large and somewhat ungainly Kate.

"I don't want to discuss this," Gibbs began, as he himself prepared to leave, but—"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

trumped up? She knows Sir Herbert can't deny it. So she thinks she's safe."

"Well, she isn't," and Kate Holland gave Miss Pratt a triumphant glare. "That knife will hang her yet! She tried to fasten the guilt on me by saying I have surgical skill! Let me tell you, Miss Pratt, you overreached yourself! I've been to see Dr. Padgett about it, and he says that while the fatal stroke may have been delivered by somebody who knew just where to strike, yet, on the other hand, it might have been the merest ignoramus who chanced to strike the vital point. So, your ladyship, your scheme to inculcate me falls through!"

"Now, Mr. Gibbs, I decline to talk to or with either of my unwelcome visitors. If you have to conduct this official visitation, go on with it, but I refuse to speak except to answer your questions. Eliza, you are not to talk, either."

"Good," said Gibbs. "Just what I want."

There was fierce disagreement as to which had first declared a willingness to kill Sir Herbert Binney and which had said she, too, was inclined to the deed, but it was decided that such hasty and unconsidered declarations had been made.

At last Mrs. Everett looked at her watch.
"I've an appointment that I'm anxious to keep," she said drawlingly. "As you don't seem to be getting anywhere, Mr. Detective, can you not let me go and finish up this absorbing discussion with Miss Pratt?"

"If you must keep your appointment, madame, you are excused. I may say that you are under surveillance, but I have little fear of your trying to get away secretly, and unless you do you will not be bothered in any way."

"Your surveillance does not interest me," and with a sublime disregard of all present Mrs. Everett swept out of the room, followed by the large and somewhat ungainly Kate.

"I don't want to discuss this," Gibbs began, as he himself prepared to leave, but—"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

Bates told him the whole story, and Wise saw at once that, though the young man was fearful of his aunt's implication in the matter, he was even more alarmed at the idea of his sweetheart's mother being brought into it.

"I look at it this way," Bates said. "Mrs. Everett and Miss Pratt are so bitterly at enmity that either of them would be willing to further a suspicion of the other. I know neither was absolutely irrefragable of personal take this case it's to get the truth, no matter where it leads. You've mentioned the two women most important in your life—oh, yes, I see the importance of Mrs. Everett. You are, you must be, interested in her daughter, for you showed it in your face when you spoke her name. Now, so far, I've nothing to connect those two women with the case, except that they are women, and the written paper accuses women. I believe that paper implicitly. I've had wide experience, and no word of his murderer left by a dying victim is every anything but the truth. I must see the paper as soon as I can; it may be informative. But, remember, the processes of justice are inexorable where the truth leads I must follow, absolutely, irrespective of personal prejudice."

"Stop right there, Mr. Bates. If I

CHAPTER XIV.

When Richard set out to do a thing he did it, and without consulting anybody he went at once for Pennington Wise, the detective, and by good luck succeeded in obtaining the services of that astute investigator.

trumped up? She knows Sir Herbert can't deny it. So she thinks she's safe."

"Well, she isn't," and Kate Holland gave Miss Pratt a triumphant glare. "That knife will hang her yet! She tried to fasten the guilt on me by saying I have surgical skill! Let me tell you, Miss Pratt, you overreached yourself! I've been to see Dr. Padgett about it, and he says that while the fatal stroke may have been delivered by somebody who knew just where to strike, yet, on the other hand, it might have been the merest ignoramus who chanced to strike the vital point. So, your ladyship, your scheme to inculcate me falls through!"

"Now, Mr. Gibbs, I decline to talk to or with either of my unwelcome visitors. If you have to conduct this official visitation, go on with it, but I refuse to speak except to answer your questions. Eliza, you are not to talk, either."

"Good," said Gibbs. "Just what I want."

There was fierce disagreement as to which had first declared a willingness to kill Sir Herbert Binney and which had said she, too, was inclined to the deed, but it was decided that such hasty and unconsidered declarations had been made.

At last Mrs. Everett looked at her watch.
"I've an appointment that I'm anxious to keep," she said drawlingly. "As you don't seem to be getting anywhere, Mr. Detective, can you not let me go and finish up this absorbing discussion with Miss Pratt?"

"If you must keep your appointment, madame, you are excused. I may say that you are under surveillance, but I have little fear of your trying to get away secretly, and unless you do you will not be bothered in any way."

"Your surveillance does not interest me," and with a sublime disregard of all present Mrs. Everett swept out of the room, followed by the large and somewhat ung

N. Y. Stock Transactions

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1	Kreige, S. S. ....	229	229
2	Lincoln ..... 67	67	67
3	Lima Loco ..... 67	67	67
4	..... 109	109	109
5	..... 67	67	67
6	Lin & Nash ..... 87	87	87
7	..... 87	87	87
8	1 Mack Tr Ist p'd ..... 94	94	94
9	Mary (L H) Co. .... 62	62	62
10	..... 62	62	62
11	7 Mallinson ..... 83	83	83
12	..... 83	83	83
13	Manhat Sugar ..... 52	52	52
14	5 Manhat Sugar p'd ..... 45	45	45
15	..... 45	45	45
16	7 Maryland Oil ..... 28	28	28
17	..... 28	28	28
18	8 Max Motor A ..... 43	43	43
19	1 May Dept Oil ..... 80	80	80
20	..... 80	80	80
21	5 May Dept Oil ..... 9	9	9
22	..... 9	9	9
23	60 Mid State Oil ..... 5	5	5
24	1 Minn & St L ..... 1	1	1
25	..... 1	1	1
26	3 Mo K & T p'd ..... 20	20	20
27	..... 20	20	20
28	10 Mo Pac p'd ..... 10	10	10
29	13 Montgomery Ward ..... 23	23	23
30	..... 23	23	23
31	10 J. H. Lode ..... 9	9	9
32	..... 9	9	9
33	1 N. J. Motors ..... 63	63	63
34	Nat. .... 104	104	104
35	Nat. Riscuit ..... 4	4	4
36	Nat. Dist. Corp. .... 10	10	10
37	Nat. C. & F. A. .... 4	4	4
38	Nat. Dist. Corp. .... 41	41	41
39	..... 41	41	41
40	11 Nt. N. Am. & St p'd (63) ..... 63	63	63
41	..... 63	63	63
42	1 Ryer Bst 2 p'd ..... 128	128	128
43	..... 128	128	128

1	N	Y	C	en	12%	12%
1	N	Y	A	ir	33%	33%
1	N	Y	C	en	33%	33%
14	N	Y	C	entral	102%	100%
15	N	Y	C	& S t L efts	77%	76%
1	N	Y	C	S t L 6s pfd
1	N	Y	C	en	91	80%
1	N	Y	D	ock pfd	43	43
39	N	Y	N	H & H	13%	12%
1	N	Y	C	en & West	77	77
1	N	Y	C	en	77	77
11	N	Y	C	en	22	21%
17	N	Y	C	en	60%	59%
2	N	Y	C	en	31%	31%
2	N	Y	C	en	31%	31%
3	N	Y	C	en	18%	18%
1	O	Y	C	en	92	92
10	O	Y	C	en	101	101
10	O	Y	C	en	40%	40%
1	P	Y	C	en		%
1	P	Y	C	en	81%	81%
81	P	Y	C	en	39%	39%
1	P	Y	C	en	63%	63%
1	P	Y	C	en	63%	63%
29	P	Y	C	en	87%	86%
29	P	Y	C	en	43	42%
1	P	Y	C	en

39	Pere Arq .....	44%	44%
41	Phillips Pet .....	24%	24%
6	Pierce Ar .....	9%	9%
3	Pitts Coal .....	64%	64%
5	Pitts & U Va .....	43%	43%
18	Postum Cereal .....	58%	58%
3	Pr Stil Car .....	56%	56%
66	Prod & Ref .....	24%	24%
4	Paluman Co .....	117%	117%
4	Puama Al Sugar .....	53%	53%
28	Pure Oil .....	18%	18%
9	Rap Tran Sec .....	14%	13%
32	Rep Tran S pfd .....	38%	38%
14	Kay Con Cop .....	11%	11%
24	Reading .....	75%	75%
3	Remington .....	75%	75%

27	Rep Bt St	3	49
27	Reynolds Spurring	50%	40%
9	Rey Tob B	23%	22%
1	Royal Dutch	69	46%
3	St Jos Lead	29	19%
18	St L S Fran	2%	20
10	St L S F pfd	44%	41%
4	St L & Sw pfd	58	57%
4	Savage Am	32%	32
1	Schults Rlt St	13%	13%
2	Seab A L pfd	10%	10%
2	Sears Roebuck	81%	81
1	Sears R pfd	110%	110%
21	Seneca Cop	93	81
2	Shell Tr & T	32	32
18	Shell Un Oil	16%	15%

1	Shell U Oil	pdf	...	91%	1
2	1 Simmons Co	...	26	26	2
3	20 Simms Petrol	...	8	7%	3
4	35 Sinclair Con	...	21%	26%	4
5	29 Shelly Oil	...	13%	14%	5
6	1 S I Sh S & Iron	...	48%	48%	6
7	4 South Pac	...	89%	88%	7
8	36 South Ry	...	35%	34%	8
9	5 South Ry pdf	...	69%	69%	9
10	1 Son Por R Sug	...	42	42	10
11	3 Stan Oil Cal	...	51%	50%	11
12	10 Stan Oil N J	...	33	32%	12
13	1 Stan Oil N J pdf	...	11%	11%	13
14	3 Sterling Prod	...	54%	54%	14
15	1 Stew Warner	...	80	88	15
16	8 Strom Carb	...	71	70%	16

Studebaker .....	107	103%	10
Subma Boat .....	9%	9
Sweets Co .....	1%	1%
Tenn Cop & Chem...	9%	9%
Texaco Conl .....	42	41%	4
Texaco Gulf Sul .....	58%	58%	5
Texaco Pac .....	20%	20%	2
T & P C & O .....	30%
Ticken R Brg .....	38%	38%	3
Tob Prod .....	56	55%	5
Tob Prod pfd .....	110	110	11
Tob Prod A .....	85%	83%	8
Transcont Oil .....	4%	4
Union Pac .....	131%	130%	13
Unit Al Stil .....	32%	32%	3
Unit Ry Inv .....	11%	11%	1
U.S. C. & O .....	70%	70%	7

6	U S C I P & F	32%	39%	3
6	U S C I P & F pfd	7%	7%	7
6	U S Prod	4%	4%	4
6	U S Ind Alc	5%	5%	5
6	U S Re & Imp	97	97	9
6	U S Re & Imp pfd	104%	104%	10
6	U S Rubbe	16%	16%	16
6	U S Rub 1st pfd..	93%	92%	4
6	U S Sm & Ref	25%	25%	25
6	U S Steel	93%	92%	93
6	U S Steel pfd	117	117	117
6	Utah Coper	63%	63	63
6	Utah Sec Cor	16%	16%	16
6	Vanoud Corp	34	33%	33
6	Van Raalte	39%	38	38
6	Va-Car Chem	11%	11%	11
6	Va-Car Chem pfd	31	31	31

Wivandou .....	19	18%	18
Wabash .....	9%	9%	9
Wab pfd A .....	30	29%	30
Web-heilbr .....	14%	14%	14
West Maryland .....	11%	11	11
W Maryln 2nd pfd .....	20%	19%	20
West Penn pfd .....	85	83%	85
West Un Tel .....	107%	107%	107
West Air B .....	81%	81%	81
West E & Mfg .....	61%	60%	61
Ke E & M lat pfd .....	74	74	74
Wheeling & L E .....	8	8	8
Wh & L E pfd .....	14%	14%	14
White Eagle Oil .....	21%	21%	21
Wickwire Sp Stl .....	8%	8%	8
Willys Ov .....	7%	7	7

Willys Co	prfd	...	70 1/2	69 1/2	69
Wilson Co	...	...	23 1/2	23 1/2	23
Wright Aero	.....	...	10	10	10
total sales	605,260	against	872,650		ye
lay.	515,350	a week ago,	974,570	a	ye and 646,500	two years ago,	from		Jan
F 1 to date	160,429,990	against			168
583 a year ago,		and 117,817,420			tu
* ago.

IN CURB MARKET

buying of British-American tobacco coupons which moved up fractionally to 24 3/4, a new high for the year. Glen Alden Coal and Reading rights also were in demand, each advancing fractionally. Durant advanced nearly a point, Gillette Razor fell off a point. Oil shares, with few exceptions, moved to higher ground in rather active trading. Standard Oils of Indiana and New York improved fractionally while Kansas dropped fractionally.

Chicago, September 12.—Pork, nominal;
12.27; ribs, 9.00@10.00.

---

TLANTA PROVISION MARKET.
Selected by White Provision Company.

field hams, 10 to 12 pounds, 26c.
field hams, 12 to 14 pounds, 23c.
field skinned hams, 16 to 18 pounds.
field picnic hams, 6 to 8 pounds, 14c.
field breakfast bacon, wide or narrow,
er's bacon, wide or narrow, 22c.
field pork sausage, fresh link or bulk, field wieners, 19-pound cartons, 15c.
field smoked link sausage, 25-pound 12c.
sna sausage, 25-pound boxes, 14½c.
another's lard, tierce basis, 15c.
try style lard, tierce basis, 14c.
extra ribs, 12½c.

bellies, medium average, 13c.
bellies, light average, 12½c.

---

skins from China are used for and Holland house-cat skins for lining.

Bankers Praise Mellon's Handling of U. S. Business

BY R. L. BARNUM.
New York, September 11.—While today's cables confirmed yesterday's report that Germany was about to end passive resistance in the Ruhr and start reparation negotiations, many people were surprised to find that it market did not immediately begin to boil. Rafts were strong and so were the coppers; but bankers pointed out that even if Germany does back down in the Ruhr an immediate settlement of the reparations problem should not be expected. What has happened is that one more important step has been taken toward settlement. According

Rumors were heard here today that Studebaker is getting ready to declare a 100 per cent dividend and place the new shares on a $6 annual dividend basis. The present dividend is $10. A hundred per cent stock dividend with a cash dividend of $6 would increase the annual dividend to $16.

From reliable sources it was learned today that insiders in Erie are forming a pool in the common stock with authority to accumulate 200,000 shares. Some of these same insiders were in a pool to accumulate bonds before the recent sharp advance. The bond pool was formed long before Wall street learned that George F. Baker was the real power in Erie.

Cadillac has advanced its selling

Call money renewed today at 5 per cent.

Sugar shares were strong today. Sugar stocks are now up from 5 to 10 points since the belief was recently expressed in this column that the turn for the better had been reached.

Howard Elliott, chairman of Northern Pacific, who is now at the company's headquarters at St. Paul, was quoted by wire here today as talking business outlook, but when pinned down to a direct answer as to whether or not Northern Pacific would earn its dividend this year, gave the evasive reply:

"Northern Pacific will give a good account of itself." He was also quoted as saying that the low price for wheat in the north west may prove a blessing in disguise in that it undoubtedly will force that section of

That is something absolutely essential to profitable farming over a period of years, the only basis for lasting prosperity as J. J. Hill preached continually. Mr. Hill did more than preach. He showed his farming friends upon whom the Great Northern and Northern Pacific were dependent, what could be done in the way of

In recent years as a result of their demoralizing war time experience the north western farmer has been backsliding from Mr. Hill's teachings. Now, because of more recent experience as Elliott points out he is likely to come back.

Wall street bankers are again taking their hats off to Secretary Mellon as a result of the government financing just announced. The new issue of treasury certificates, $200,000,000 to run six months from September 15 and to bear 4 1-4 per cent interest is smaller than had been generally expected and the interest is about as low as could possibly be made to find a market. The comment being heard in banking circles here is that Secretary Mellon is handling the government financing just as he would his own business. Wall street bank-the money and prestige in the business world that a man could want, is trying for a record in handling the government's after war debt refunding that will make for him a place in history. From what Mr. Mellon has already done the belief here is that when his job is completed, he will rank as our foremost treasurer.

DAILY STOCK FEATURE
Over Fenner & Beane's Private Leased Wire.

CONT. CAN.: After meeting a wave of selling around 55 was steadily bought by operators on the constructive side of the market and made a new high record of 55 1/2, selling off only slightly at the close.

SINGLAIER AND PACIFIC OIL: Both gave good account of themselves in trading

COSDEN OIL: Advanced sharply to 3 and reflected optimum regarding outcome of dividend meeting, which will be held on September 20. Meeting was originally scheduled for yesterday, but was postponed to the later date.

---

Metals.

New York, September 21.—Copper firmer;

Tin firm; spot and nearby 42.37; futures 42.12.
 Iron steady; prices unchanged.
 Lead steady; spot $6.75¢/lb.
 Zinc steady; West St. Louis spot and nearby delivery $6.55. Antimony spot $7.46¢/lb.
 7.58.

---

American muskrat and South American beaver are furnishing fur for felt hats to an increasing extent.

J. W. JAY & CO.
COTTON MERCHANTS
MEMBERS
New York Cotton Exchange
New Orleans Cotton Exchange
New York Produce Exchange
New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange
Chicago Board of Trade
ASSOCIATE MEMBERS
LIVERPOOL COTTON ASSOCIATION

selection of the most liberal advances made in spot cotton for delivery.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED

25 South William Street, New York.

A detailed illustration of a bridge with a tall, ornate tower and a building with a clock tower. The bridge has a series of arches and a walkway. The building is a multi-story structure with a prominent clock tower. The illustration is in a classic, detailed style.

We shall be glad to give our views regarding references upon request.

B. Norman & Co
Commission Merchants

New Orleans and New York Cotton Associate Members: Liverpool Cotton and Texas Cotton Association.
 New Orleans Market Wires to SMITH
 Exchange Phone Wal. 4138

_____

Japs To Abandon Yokohama; Will Rebuild Tokio

Honolulu, September 11.—Plans for the rebuilding of Yokohama have been abandoned by Japan because of the great changes in the harbor bottom and the expense involved in removing the debris. Instead Tokio will be developed into a great seaport city, according to a Tokyo dispatch to the Honolulu Jiji, Japanese language newspaper, Tuesday.

Included in the new seaport city of Tokio will be a portion of old Yokohama.

While mayor of Tokio, Viscount Goto, now home minister, had plans for making Tokio the leading port drawn. The cost was estimated at $400,000,000, and Yokohama caused the idea to be temporarily abandoned. The quake, however, seems to have altered the harbor to such an extent the change may be advisable now.

SHOP LIFTERS GET LONG JAIL TERMS IN FULTON COURT

James Wyatt and Harold Williams, two negroes, were sentenced to eight and nine years, respectively, on the chain gang in Fulton superior court Tuesday following their conviction on charges of assault with intent to murder. These are unusually long terms.

Both assaults were results of attempts at shoplifting. Wyatt was discovered lifting stockings from the J. M. High department store. He attempted to escape and when his way was blocked stabbed Sidney J. Roberts, an employee of the High company, with an ice pick. Williams was convicted of cutting J. H. Thompson, an employee of J. H. Kress company, who attempted to arrest him after he had been detected lifting goods in the store. The cases were prosecuted by the Merchants' Protective association.

TILES
For Porch Floors—
The porch is an "outdoor" feature, yet it has "indoor" possibilities of treatment. Tiles are ideal for porch floors—for open porches and closed ones. Permanent, artistic, adaptable to any desired decorative or color scheme.

Ask us for booklet showing uses of tiles. Consult us about any tile work.

CARMICHAEL TILE CO.
WALNUT 1010 :: Hurt Bldg.

TIRES

Our NEW TUBES and FACTORY REBUILT TIRES are the best values in the south.

SIZE	NEW TUBES	NEW TUBES
30x3 1/2	$4.10	$1.35
32x3 1/2	5.25	1.55
31x4	6.25	1.85
32x4	7.80	1.95
32x4	8.20	2.05
32x4 1/2	9.45	2.45
32x4 1/2	9.60	2.55
34x4 1/2	9.85	2.65
35x5	11.25	3.05

We will rebuild and retread YOUR tires with new, live rubber for 10 per cent less than above prices.

All kinds of tire and tube repairing done right.

National Tire Rebuilding Company
39 East Mitchell St.
Largest Tire Rebuilding Factory in the South.

Service That Talks
Atlanta Multigraphing Co.
Georgia Savings Bank Bldg.
WALNUT 1436

Automobile Tops
Recovered, repaired or replaced. Complete paint and trimming department.

Yancey Bros.
90 N. Jackson St. IVy 1383

Buy a Home—Have the Title
Guaranteed and Insured by
ATLANTA TITLE & TRUST CO.
15 East Alabama St.

Best Lump Coal
$7.75 Ton

Delivered promptly anywhere in city

B. BLANTON
Dec. 1440

Oversize Cord
TIRES

GUARANTEED

First	Long	Clover
Quality	Distance	Leaf
CORD	10,000	12,000
30x3 1/2	11.95	12.85
32x4	17.65	19.85
32x4	17.65	19.85
32x4 1/2	22.75	26.50
34x4 1/2	22.85	26.85
35x5	26.85	29.85

All Other Sizes in Stock.

Mail Orders Filled Promptly

6,000 and 8,000 Mile Tires
30x3, $6.75; 30x3 1/2, $7.50
32x4 and 32x4 1/2, $10.85
32x4 1/2 and 34x4 Cord, $13.95
32x4 1/2 and 35x4 1/2 Cord $19.85

Allowance for Old Tires

Free Mounting

We Will Divide Payments

McPHERSON

RUBBER CO.

56 Walton St. WALNUT 2347

Parents Discredit Burnett Dorsey Murder Confession

Blame Mental Aberration For Danville Statement

J. T. Burnett, father of O. E. Burnett, now held in Danville, Va., following a sensational confession of the murder of Charlie Dorsey, Atlanta taxicab driver, on the night of February 28, 1921, does not believe that his son's confession is genuine. At his home here he said Tuesday night that the boy's mind had been unbalanced for several years previous to the murder and he is also positive that his son was not in Atlanta on the night of the murder.

O. E. Burnett, who is being held in the Danville jail for Atlanta authorities made further statements Tuesday to Sgt. J. H. Martin in which he cleared up some debated points in his affidavit confession of the previous day.

Following a grilling of several hours, according to telegraphic reports to The Constitution, Burnett stuck to his story and his straightforward account, his readiness in answering questions and his general behavior have convinced Danville police that he is the man wanted for the Dorsey murder.

Brother Not So Sure.

While the father, shaken in his grief over the possible fate of his son, maintained that the boy had not been in Atlanta during the month of February, and that his statements in the confession to the effect that he had slept at the home of his brother, Henry Burnett, 67 Glenwood avenue, were not correct, Henry Burnett told that he was not positive whether or not his brother had been in his home on the night of the murder.

"As far as I can remember, he did not return to Atlanta until the latter part of March. He had been in Birmingham, Ala., for some time. I would not be positive in stating that he had not been home on the night of February 28," said Henry Burnett.

"I don't know much about his movements. I knew he had been flashing his headlights, and to him, I never heard of that sort of thing," he added.

Name in Old Bible.

Father Burnett is still sitting in his bedroom when a reporter called at midnight. The father, who is the oldest of the family, said that the name of his son was in the old Bible and that he had heard of some of his children's deaths. He said that he had heard of some of his children's deaths. He said that he had heard of some of his children's deaths.

Had Not Written Home.

"He had not written to me for months and months and now suddenly he writes me this terrible news that he has confessed to killing a man," the old woman sobbed. "For two days we have not been able to eat or drink. We are overcome with this terrible thing. We there could not go to work this morning. It has upset everything."

And then from under the blankets she pulled a tear-stained picture of a baby. "Baby is sleeping with me again," she said. "He should not be out and away from home," and hugging the photograph to her breast as if it were a little boy who had caught a cold while running out on the street, she burst into new sobs that shook her frail body.

"There was a time when we thought he was not right in the head," said Mother Burnett.

"He was completely gone," interrupted father. "He was acting queer around the house and the table near by. One day I took him to Grady hospital to have his head examined, but we had to wait so long that our turn did not come and we never went back."

"He was asking such questions and was behaving strangely. We thought it was the blood running to his head in sudden gusts and we worried a great deal about him. Later he was a little better."

"On February 13, 1921, my daughter was brought home. She had contracted tuberculosis and came home to die. I am certain that my son was not at home at that time. In fact, I am certain that he did not come here till the latter part of March. But he says in his confession he stayed at the home of his brother on Glenwood avenue. He ought to be able to tell you," the broken-hearted parent said.

Describes Death Scene.

O. E. Burnett told Danville police officers that he had been raised in Atlanta and that his father still lived there at 74 Stevens avenue. In order to test out Burnett, he was asked a series of questions about the crime and locations in Atlanta. He never hesitated for a moment in his answers, replying instantly and readily to all questions and showing familiarity with the location of the city's streets.

When asked where he got into the murder car, he said that he boarded the automobile at the corner of Cherokee street and Glenwood avenue. In a previous statement he had told that he had called up Dorsey from a pool room and had ordered the taxicab to report to a point nearby.

After he got into the car, he drove up Glenwood avenue and turned into South Boulevard, proceeding in the direction of the federal prison. Burnett told the Danville police that the car was driven seven or eight blocks on South Boulevard before Burnett shot Dorsey in the back of the head, according to his own statement. He then drove the car into a vacant lot about a block away and, in the excitement, choked the engine. He then abandoned the car, leaving the body in it, he told the police.

Asked what kind of car Dorsey drove, Burnett said a Packard twin-six cylinder. He was not sure whether it was an open or a closed car. He said that it was painted brown.

Driven For Mills Slaying.

The shooting, he said, took place around 9 p.m. When asked as to Dorsey's condition with the murder of Ed Mills, he said that Dorsey had driven the "murder crowd" away from the Ansley hotel after Mills had been killed and that Dorsey knew all about this killing.

Burnett admitted that he was a close friend of Floyd Woodward, under indictment in Atlanta for the murder of Mills. He was emphatic in his statement that Dorsey's knowledge of the Mills murder was the sole reason for the killing. He said that he had known Dorsey before as a taxi-driver and had seen him driving former Governor Hugh Dorsey.

Knew About Burns Killing.

He said that he knew all about the bumpy ride of Atlanta, and was intimate with many of its members. Tuesday Burnett seemed most concerned about the amount of time he would get for his crime. He stated a number of times that he would be the happiest man in the world if he could be assured that he could receive a life term and get from ten to twenty years.

Burnett was asked to make a man showing his movements on the night of the murder. This he did and the result tallied exactly with a map of the city of Atlanta, with which it was compared. It also tallied with known facts about the movements of Dorsey.

The straightforward story told by Burnett, his readiness in answering questions and his manner generally have convinced Danville police that he is the slayer of Charlie Dorsey. According to the dispatches from Danville.

Investigate Career.

Pennie Miner, special investigator from the office of Solicitor General John A. B. Smith, with Captain of City Detectives T. O. Struvin, Tuesday launched an investigation into the Atlanta career of O. E. Burnett, former resident of this city, under arrest in Danville, Va., on a charge of forgery, and who is said to have confessed that he is the slayer of Charlie Dorsey. At the time of his arrest, he was mysteriously killed near the federal prison February 28, 1921.

Solicitor Boykin stated that he would be in the city before an officer is sent to question him, it was announced. Officials expressed themselves as believing Burnett had confessed to slaying in an effort to escape trial on the charge registered against him in Danville.

Mr. Miner stated that it would require only a few minutes questioning to ascertain whether or not Burnett was Dorsey's slayer.

Atlanta police records show that Burnett was arrested in Atlanta in August, 1921, several months after Dorsey was found murdered in his taxicab, on a charge of desertion from the United States army. He gave his address at that time as 74-A Stewart avenue. He was turned over to Fort McPherson authorities.

According to the confession by Burnett, as related by Danville authorities, he killed Dorsey to prevent his revealing information relative to his connection with the famous burglar headed by Floyd Woodward, which was being probed at the time.

PREMIER OF PORTUGAL ESCAPES ASSASSINS

Lisbon, September 11.—Premier Antonio Silva was waylaid by three individuals while driving in his automobile this afternoon, but the men were placed under arrest before they had committed any serious assault.

London, September 11.—Three syndicalists attempted to assassinate Premier Silva of Portugal today, according to a Lisbon dispatch to the Central News. The attempt was unsuccessful.

MORTUARY

MRS. N. DUCKWORTH.
Americus, Ga., September 11.—Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the residence of Mrs. Duckworth, 13, who died after a brief illness at her home. She is survived by three sons, Robert, Thomas and George, all in the army.

MRS. W. J. LONG.
Mrs. W. J. Long, 25, died Tuesday afternoon at the residence on Dunwoody road. She is survived by her husband, W. J. Long, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bell; four sisters, Mrs. A. T. Adams, Mrs. Cliff Duncan, Mrs. LeRoy Wilson and Mrs. Nettie Bell; and two brothers, Herbert and J. W. Bolton. Rosemary, funeral director in charge.

MISS MARY L. COFFER.
Miss Mary L. Coffey, 13, of 97 Glenwood avenue, died Tuesday at her home. Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coffey, she is survived by two brothers, Robert and Billy; two sisters, Josephine and Virginia. A. C. Hemperley in charge.

MRS. ELLEN B. PRICE.
Mrs. Ellen B. Price, 80, of South Decatur road, died Sunday at her home. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. J. R. Duvall, Dallas, Texas; Mrs. J. A. Bly and Miss Ella Price, both of Atlanta; three sons, Oliver Price, of Cincinnati; S. Price and Rev. J. A. Price, both of San Francisco, Cal. Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Funeral Notices
The regular meeting of the Atlanta Lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., will be held at 8 o'clock, Monday evening, at the lodge, 1111 Peachtree street. Visitors welcome.

Walnut 3216

FUNERAL DESIGNS

Gresham

West View Florist

115 PEACHTREE

AUTO Top Talks

If your top or side curtains are cracked or ripped, bring them to us. We can repair them or make you a perfectly fitting new set that will give satisfaction.

Come and see us today. Drive by and let's talk top.

Phone IVy 5536

ATLANTA TOP CO.

117 EDGEMOOR AVE.

Two People Want Larger Homes

One of them has a fine bungalow on Gordon street in West End. This house has eight rooms and a bath. It is situated on a fine lot, 60x140. On account of needing a larger house further out we can give good value in this excellent bungalow. The place is practically new and thoroughly modern.

The other man owns a six-room bungalow on Duval street, half a block from Moreland avenue. He needs a larger house and plans to buy a lot on some prominent street in the city. He expects to get the money to start this house from the sale of his bungalow, and will give inducements to some one.

The time to buy is when a property owner has good reasons for selling and is eager to sell. Here we offer two opportunities enabling some one to get good homes at less than it would cost to replace them.

Adair Realty & Trust Co.

Healey Bldg. Wal. 0100

Lend your funds on Atlanta Mortgages at 7% and 8%

Safe investments in sums of $500 to $100,000

Thirty-three years without loss. Founded 1890

WEYMAN & CONNORS

Wal. 0942 621-7 Grant Building

Loans Insurance Rents Leases

Engraving

Is fast taking an important place in business as well as social life.

Engraved business stationery makes for prestige.

Let us quote prices and submit samples.

Foot & Davies Company

Engravers

"Five Seconds from Five Points"

"DOWN the Steps and Save a DOLLAR"

IN MOST CITIES CONTAINING ARCADES THE LOWER LEVELS HAVE BEEN USED BY SHOE, HAT, CLOTHING AND SUCH CONCERNS WHO USE THE ABOVE SLOGAN TO ADVANTAGE.

ADJACENT TO THE BRANCH POST OFFICE AND BRITLING'S WE HAVE TWO UNITS ESPECIALLY RIPE FOR SUCH USE.

ALSO HAVE ONE CHOICE PEACHTREE LEVEL SHOP.

APPLY: ROOM 200 ARCADE

Willingham-Tift Lumber Co.

West 2400

Strong, Durable Concrete Driveways

Vibrolith Process—Built by Responsible Men

THE DRIVEWAY COMPANY

1612 Healey Bldg. Phone WAL. 4013

Alonzo Richardson & Company

1420-1425 Atlanta Trust Co. Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

540 Munsey Building, Washington, D. C.

Certified Public Accountants

Auditing and Accounting in All Its Branches

Special Income Tax Department

FOR SALE

Flat newsprint paper suitable for small publishers and job printers.

The price is right.

P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

MAGNOLIA CEMETERY

Hunter Blanchard-Gartrell Co.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

Ambulance Service

235 IVY STREET

Phone IVy 0859